President Plans Talks On Way Back To Capital

To Make Entire Trip by Train; Delivers Peace 'Sermon' on Coast

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

San Francisco, Calif., June 13.—President Truman now intends to go all the way back to Washington by train, talking on the way.

His original plan was to break off his tour either at Los Angeles or Kansas City and then fly to Washington.

The decision to continue barnstorming all the way seems to be conclusive evidence that, so far as Mr. Truman himself and other Democratic strategists are concerned, the presidential trip has been a success.

In the last few days, the Chief Executive has been expressing his delight at the big and friendly crowds that have been turning out for him on the way down the Pacific Coast.

Likely to Talk Anywhere

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross announced the new itinerary today and, in listing the stops, said there might be others an dthat Mr. Truman was "likely to make a few remarks anywhere."

After leaving Los Angeles at 10 p. m. Monday, the President will make his first stop at Winslow, Ariz. Reaching New Mexico, he will make at least three stops—at Gallup, Las Vegas and Raton—to put in a good word for former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, now running for the United States Senate.

In Kansas, Mr. Truman will stop at Dodge City, Newton and Emporia.

Arriving in his own State of Missouri, the President probably will speak in Jefferson City and St. Louis. However, this is not definite.

Day Before Congress Quits

The train is tentatively scheduled to reach Washington Friday, June 18, a day ahead of the adjournment of Congress and three days before the opening of the GOP convention in Philadelphia.

2 Senators Protest Move to Oust Straus and Boke

Two Democrats on the Senate Appropriations Committe yesterday protested its approval of a proposal which eventually would froce the resignations of Michael Straus, Reclamation Commissioner, and Richard Boke, his California director.

Senators O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) and Hayden (D., Ariz.) said in a mnority report that the move was "an unconstitutional attempt by legislative action to remove from office two persons regularly appointed and qualified under existing law."

The committee approved the proviso yesterday in reccommending a $422, 179,098 fund for the Interior Department's operations during the 1949 fiscal year. It would require five year's of engineering experience after January 1, 1949, for th Reclamation Commissioner and all regional reclamation directors.

X-Ray Survey Prompts D. C. Welfare Talks

Officials to Confer Tuesday on Probable 1950 Tubercular Load

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

"Real concern" over welfare problems developing with the mass tuberculosis chest X-ray survey has prompted D. C. Welfare Director John W. Tramburg to call a conference of District officials this week.

The conference, set for Tuesday afternoon, will be attended by officials on the health, education and judicial fronts. Tramburg, now working on his 1950 budget, hopes that conference will be able to furnish him with a "reasonable figure" of the number of tuberculous District residents the survey will uncover who might fall within the welfare field.

Not Too Disturbing Yet

The welfare director does not yet have statistics which show how much results of the survey have affected welfare operations already. On the basis of the present case load, the situation is "not too disturbing," he said.

However, information so far published by survey officials shows 1 per cent of those who had X-ray pictures taken have symptoms of the disease.

Officials conducting the survey expect to complete the photographing of 500,000 persons over the age of 15 by the July 1 campaign end. On this basis, about 5000 persons will show symptoms of tuberculosis as a result of the survey.

Tramburg wants to find out just how much of this load his department will have to carry by 1950.

Surgical Pincers Found In Woman After 10 Yrs.

Naples, Italy, June 13 (U.P.).—Mrs. Lucia Schillo was recovering today following the removal of a pair of surgical pincers which had been in her abdomen since an operation in 1938. Recently she complained of severe abdominal pains, and an X-ray disclosed the instrument.

Undercover Raid Closes Eight 'Clubs'

Virginia Beach, Nearby Maryland Proprietors Charged

Evidence collected by undercover agents last month resulted in the closing of eight Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County "clubs" on liquor and gambling charges by State Police over the weekend.

The raids were carried out quietly with no disorder. The undercover men, brought in from other parts of Virginia, unknown to the proprietors, had filed information leading to the issuance of arrest warrants, according to R. E. Johnson, police chief at Virginia Beach.

Under supervision of State Police Sergt. R. B. King, the 24 raiders walked into the establishments and served warrants on 23 persons on charges ranging from operating a gaming house to abetting a nuisance. No patrons were taken into custody. Those arrested posted bond for appearance before Trial Justice J. Davis Reed, Portsmouth, July 2.

Most of them, according to police, gave their addresses as Norfolk or Virginia Beach.

Establishments visited by the police included three in Virginia Beach—Colonal Club, 17 Club and Links Club; and five outside city limits—Admiral, Princess Anne Inn, Checkerboard, Rio Rita and New Anchor.

Italian Earthquake Kills One, Causes Panic

Rome, June 13 (A.P.).—An earthquake in the Arezzo zone of Tuscany today killed a woman, injured four other persons and caused panic.

At nearby San Sepolcro, pilgrims had gathered to view the statues of the Church of Saint Francis, which had been reported moving their eyes. A cornice of the church fell and killed Gabriella Rossi. Four other persons were injured.

Only yesterday the Bishop of Arezzo, Msgr. Emanuele Mignone, ordered the statues removed or the church closed "to undo the superstitions and perhaps avert malicious talk."

Was Climbing Over Freight Car

Sea Scout Critically Burned In Touching 25,000-Volt Wire

A 15-year-old Anacostia High School student was critically burned by a 25,000-volt high-tension wire yesterday while climbing over a freight car near the Sousa Bridge.

Lindgren

The boy, Roy A. Lindgren, jr., of 2020 Ridge pl. se., was reported in critical condition at Casualty Hospital where he was taken by Fire Department Ambulance No. 1. He was burned over two thirds of the body and also suffered from shock.

Police said the accident occurred about 1:30 p. m. when Roy, and two friends, Dennis Houston, 17, of 521 Parkland pl. se., and Kenneth Axon, 16, of 4017 7th st. ne., cut across the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks just west of the Sousa Bridge.

The boys, all members of Sea Scout Troop No. 97, had been buying provisions for their vessel, the S. S. S. Crescent, which was docked in the Anacostia River off Al Wells' Boat Yard.

The boys said they had been accustomed to cross the railroad at that point to reach their boat. Police pointed out, however, that this was trespassing on railroad property as the nearest legal crossing is about a mile from Sousa

GOP to Push 6 Major Bills For Passage

Reciprocal Trade, Draft, Housing Among Measures Given Priority

By The Associated Press

Republican leaders put heavy pressure behind a half-dozen major bills yesterday in a drive to wind up Congress' work Saturday night.

Lined up for expected quick passage, in one form or another, were:

1. A two-year draft bill that—if the House has its way—may pass the buck to President Truman to put selective service into effect.

2. A one-year extension of the reciprocal trade program, without the House-approved congressional veto, but carrying a provision making the President notify Congress if he goes beyond Tariff Commission recommendations.

Farm Price Supports

3. An extension—probably for only one year at about present levels—of farm price supports expiring at the end of 1948.

4. Housing bill which may, or may not, include Senate-approved provisions for Federal aid on public housing.

5. An appropriations measure restoring most—but not all—of the foreign aid funds cut out previously by the House.

6. A measure to continue atomic energy commissioners in office until 1950. GOP leaders said if Democrats fight this, Mr. Truman's nominations of the commissioners will not be acted upon and recess appointments holding only until January will be required.

Policy Group May Meet

Chairman Taft (R., Ohio) told a reporter he may call the Senate Republican Policy Committee into session Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning to pass finally on the remaining program for the Senate. The House has somewhat less work piled up, but the Senate is expected to toil nightly.

Taft is known to feel that the Republicans ought to make an attempt to pass some sort of civil rights legislation before they adjourn to go to their National Convention a week from tomorrow.

An anti-poll tax bill is ready, but so are Southern filibusterers. However, the Republicans hint mysteriously of a possible way around such time delaying debate.

The Senate Judiciary Committee may approve tomorrow a watered down version of the anti-lynching bill. But it has little, if any, chance for passage by both Houses.

Rules Group Holds Bills

The House Rules Committee has yet to clear the draft and housing bills but may act early in the week.

The House has passed a one-year extension of farm price supports, about as far as its members seem willing to go in this session.

The Senate has arranged to take up early in the week a long-range farm program which would lower present price supports somewhat and put them on a slightly different basis.

Accord Reached On Wage Dispute At Oak Ridge

Oak Ridge, Tenn., June 13 (U.P.).—Settlement of a wage dispute at the Oak Ridge atomic laboratory here was reached today.

Terms were not revealed. The 800 AFL union workers had asked for 26 cents an hour.

In Washington, Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Mediation Service, said that, in general, "the contract provides approximately a 15½-cent hourly pay increase, improved vacations and other terms of employment."

Judge Advocate Fired

Irish Veterans Jettison Bealle For Gibes at Capital's Bigwigs

For swinging a verbal shillelagh at public figures, Morris A. Bealle has been summarily dismissed as national judge advocate of the Irish War Veterans.

George L. Cassiday, national commander of the organization, which claims about 1000 members locally and 25,000 nationally, said last night the action was due to publication of a satirical book, "Washington Squirrel Cage for 1948," by Bealle, a World War I veteran, newspaper writer, author and ballplayer.

Cassiday said Bealle's attacks on public figures had spoiled his usefulness as "our key legislative representative, and the second ranking national officer in this sector."

Bealle's attacks made him "kaput along these lines," Cassiday said, "and the Irish War Veterans wash their hands of him."

Cassiday also implied that if Bealle did not keep a civil tongue in his cheek his membership in IWV would be taken from him.

"I am taking that under advisement," Cassiday said.

Cassiday deplored Bealle's description of President Truman as "High Tax Harry," asserting "veterans cannot take lightly disrespect for their commander in chief.

"We do not take kindly to his description of General Eisenhower, the hero of the European invasion, as a 'tool of the British,' Cassiday said. "The fact that we Irish have little use for the British makes this characterization of General Eisenhower all the more untenable."

Among other Bealleisms cited were:

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.), "a political grasshopper" and "Michigan's vacillating, oscillating, titillating Senatorial jumping jack."

Senator Glenn Taylor (D., Idaho), "the Idaho Clown."

Cassiday, a real estate consultant and broker living at 303 17th st. se., said the IWV's board of directors unanimously concurred in Bealle's dismissal.

Bealle, 57, lives at 230 peabody st. ne. He could not be reached for comment last night.

Airlines 'Deal'

Hughes Aims New Attack At Brewster

Hollywood, June 13 (U.P.).—Howard Hughes, who has just bought control of RKO studios, offered Senator Brewster (R., Me.) a $300-a-week movie job today, because, he said, the Senator has proved himself a good actor.

Hughes released a letter to Brewster marking a renewal of the cross-country battle of words which began in 1946, when Brewster's Senate War Investigating Committee began digging into Hughes' wartime airplane contracts.

Hughes' letter said:

"This is twice the usual starting salary, but you are no amateur; your ability as an actor has been well demonstrated. Also, you are the perfect type for some parts I have in mind."

Brewster struck the first blow in the new round yesterday with a speech in the Senate, accusing Hughes of making "a lie out of whole cloth" by declaring that Brewster offered to call off the airplane contract investigation if Hughes would merge his TWA airline with Pan American Airways.

The airplane builder wrote Brewster that if the Senator accepts the acting job he is sure Congress will "vote me a big medal for getting you off the floor long enough so that they can devote their time to the problems and legislation pending before them."

French Delay Allies' Talks With Germans

Parleys Will Lay Groundwork for New Western Government

Berlin, June 13 (A.P.).—The Western Allies' talks with German leaders, to lay the groundwork for a new government in western Germany, were postponed today at French request.

The talks were scheduled to begin Tuesday, but the French National Assembly has not approved the London conference decisions which are the basis of the scheduled discussions. The French vote may come Tuesday. If Premier Robert Schuman's government wins approval for the plan, and Paris observers think he will squeeze out a narrow victory, the talks can be rescheduled for later in the week.

Clay Announces Postponement

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor, announced the postponement at Frankfurt, just as Communists who oppose the western Germany plan were concluding their three-week campaign of collecting signatures in a "people's plebiscite for German unity." There has been speculation the Communists will seek to form a government represented as being for all Germany, in opposition to the Western powers' plans.

Clay and Sir Brian Robertson, the British governor, will meet with British and American officials tomorrow. French Gen. Pierre Koenig will be in Frankfurt Tuesday, Clay said, but only on a "courtesy visit" pending action by the assembly in Paris.

Although the plebiscite was banned in western Germany, the Russian-controlled press reports 750,000 signatures in the Ruhr province of north Rhine-Westphalia alone. The same newspapers say up to 94 per cent of the population signed petitions in the Russian occupation zone.

Rail Freight Normal Again

Meanwhile British and United States military authorities said rail freight traffic into Berlin was back to normal, after the Russians put a one-day blockade in a dispute about itemizing shipments. Trains from the west go through their zone border stations normally.

De Gaullists Near Riot At Nevers

By Walter Kerr

Nevers, France, June 13 (NYHT).—Several thousand men and women demonstrated in front of the Prefecture of Police here this afternoon, demanding the resignation of the prefect, Maurice Rolland, and the return to power of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

They gathered before the building after listening to a speech by the general and in response to some excited shouts by section leaders of his political movement, the rally of the French people (RPF).

Riot Is Prevented

Speakers charged that delegations from Paris and Lyon had been prevented from listening to the general's address by a police barricade set up 10 miles around the city. No one tried to verify the report, and within 10 minutes a group of tough young men, some of them former paratroopers in khaki uniforms and red berets, were scaling the 12-foot iron fence in front of the Prefecture.

What might have turned into an ugly riot was dissipated by the friendliness of the police and the calmness of the Prefect himself. After having sung the "Marseillaise" about three times, the demonstrators left, shouting "De Gaulle to power."

De Gaulle pointed out again his belief the present government is incapable of solving the country's problems in an effort to prove his point, he referred once again to the London agreement for western Germany, now being debated in the national assembly in Paris.

Regime Is Assailed

"The decisive episode of the London communique," he said, "has once again warned all Frenchmen. They now realize in what a manner and in what an atmosphere officials and semi-officials of the actual regime are trying to make us give up points which there is no reason to give up, and which deny at the same time that which we owe to ourselves, to Europe, and to the peace. Thus the French nation has become convinced of the weakness of the regime and the necessity of putting it in order as soon as possible."

His main point, however, was that thousands of farm cooperatives should be formed either by regions or localities or according to branches of production to increase the agricultural output.

Murder of Greek Children Laid to U. S. Aide by Tass

London, June 13 (A.P.).—The Soviet news agency Tass accused a United States military official today of ordering a reign of terror in Greece which resulted in the killing of a number of children by Greek troops.

Tass, quoting the Communist "Free Greece" radio, said Greek government troops killed all but a "small number" of Stromni's 120 children when they captured the Rumelian Mountain village last month from leftist guerillas.

The Communist radio claimed, according to Tass, that "thoroughly verified data" proved that child killings were part of a terror campaign ordered by American Lieut. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, head of the United States military mission to Greece, against the "peaceful population" of guerilla areas in the Greek civil war.

As Defense Line

Emphasis Given Arctic Is Questioned

By the United Press

The Foreign Policy Association yesterday recommended a complete investigation into the validity of military claims that the Arctic is the Nation's first line of defense in the atomic age.

It said the study might also include the actual "striking power" of long-range bombers, guided missiles and other modern weapons.

An article by Blair Bolles, the association's Washington director, said the "Arctic diplomacy" now practiced by this country adds to already serious United States-Soviet tensions but contains no promise that it would adequately safeguard the Nation in event of attack.

The crux of the problem, he wrote, is the "theories and assumptions" of such military leaders as Gens. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Omar N. Bradley, and former Air Force Chief Carl A. Spaatz that the Arctic would be the Nation's first frontier in case of attack.

If the military leaders are correct, he said, the Nation is "dangerously weak" in the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions and should "take steps" at once to strengthen itself. "If, on the other hand, they have overemphasized the point, "this should become known so that

ECA Orders $95,610,605 Recovery Aid

By The Associated Press

With its funds still snarled in a congressional battle, the Economic Cooperation Administration yesterday handed out its biggest foreign recovery package so far—$95,610,605 for 11 countries.

American cotton, valued at 27 million dollars, and tobacco worth $7,427,000 were authorized for purchase and shipment in the batch of approvals announced by Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator.

ECA's "off-shore" purchasing program—a ticklish point with some legislators who believe the bulk of United States-financed goods should come from this country—was pushed forward by Hoffman's action.

Canada will furnish more than 14 million dollars' worth of aluminum, copper, lead and linseed oil to European industry; Venezuela and other Latin American countries will supply oil. Potash from Poland, copra from the Philippines, and coal from Germany are included.

The action brought total Marshall Plan authorizations from available funds to $393,737,029. A fast spending rate for the rest of this month was indicated by Hoffman in his Senate appeal on Friday for restoration of the House-approved cut of 26 per cent in foreign aid funds.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted Saturday to restore most of the cuts voted by the House for European recovery. The committee recommended $5,055,000,000 for the first 12 months in the European phase. Chairman Bridges (R., N. H.) estimated this would give ECA 950 million dollars more than the House approved. If the Senate agrees with its committee, there still would have to be an adjustment of Senate-House differences.

Buying approvals worth close to half a billion dollars, Hoffman revealed, are now in process. These and past authorizations adde up to 78 per cent of ECA's scheduled grants for the quarter ending June 30, totaling $1,078,000,000.

These countries share in the new

Wilton, Conn., June 13 (U.P.).—Opera singer Lawrence Tibbett and his wife were injured late yesterday when their automobile crashed into a parked car on a highway near the Tibbetts' estate.

Mrs. Tibbett was taken to Norwalk hospital with a fractured right ankle, police said. Tibbett was treated at home for cuts and bruises.

Caspian Sea Shrinking

Russians Diverting Six Rivers To Save World's Caviar Supply

London, June 13 (U.P.).—The Soviet Union has started diverting the course of at least six northern Russian rivers so they will flow south into the Caspian Sea, and keep it from drying up, according to Czechoslovak press reports reaching London today.

Rude Pravo, Czech newspaper, said one of the rivers reportedly being diverted, the 1150-mile Pechora, flows northward into the Arctic Ocean.

The Caspian lies just east of the Black Sea. It reportedly is shrinking at such a rate that any additional loss of water will affect the Russian sturgeon catch, and threaten the world's supply of caviar.

Rude Pravo said scientists have worked out plans to alter the courses of the rivers with canals. The "bold plan" already has started, the dispatch said.

No one in Russian doubts the Caspian will be preserved, it added.

The newspaper said there is much concern in Russia about the shrinking of the 162,000-square-mile sea.

Scientists said the great salt sea has been diminishing at such a rate that entire harbors have become beaches and islands peninsulas.

Rude Pravo reported that in nine years, the water level has fallen 6 feet.

The Volga and the Ural rivers, two of Russia's largest waterways, flow into the Caspian. The sea has no connection with the Black Sea or the Mediterranean.

British to Cut Off Oil Flow Into Israel, U. N. Hears

Output May Go To Trans-Jordan; Fighting Dies Down After Heavy Clashes

Lake Success, N. Y., June 13 (NYHT).—British oil interests in the Middle East were reported to day to be preparing to cut off the flow of crude oil into Israel and divert it to the use of the British-subsidized Arab state of Trans-Jordan.

The report was that the British-dominated Iraq Petroleum Company, which operates the oil pipeline from Iraq to Haifa, will shut off the flow of crude oil to Israel on Tuesday.

At the same time, a small refinery at Kirkuk, in the Iraqi fields, reportedly will begin pumping refined products to Mafrak, in Trans-Jordan.

British sources at the United Nations denied any knowledge of the plan.

The Jews called it a "squeeze" on Israel to accept whatever final arrangement the British may want to impose on the Holy Land. One asserted, however, the matter may turn out to be "more than just a British affair," since American oil companies are shareholders in the Iraq Petroleum Company.

An Israeli representative said today that the Jewish provisional government has offered to guarantee the flow of oil product to the Arab states if the Iraq Petroleum company would continue the flow of crude oil to the Haifa refinery.

Jews Say Fighting Is Halted in Galilee

Cairo, June 13 (A.P.).—A Jewish communique issued in Tel Aviv tonight said fighting had stopped in the Galilee area of northern Palestine. Heavy infantry and artillery clashes in the region had threatened the continuation of the United Nations truce.

The communique said Jewish forces repulsed "all enemy attacks" before the fighting ended this morning.

In Rhodes, Count Folke Bernadotte, the U. N. mediator, said the latest reports he received today from Palestine indicated the situation there had "calmed down."

Since the three-day-old truce began, Arabs and Jews accused each other of violating the ceasefire.

Both said they would defend themselves, regardless of the armistice, unless the fighting ceased at once. Two United Nations truce observers went to the front in northeastern Palestine, where the cound of shelling was heard all day yesterday.

For the first time in over seven weeks a food convoy reached the 90,000 Jews in the modern sections of Jerusalem. The trucks rolled into the Holy City over an alter-

Munich Viewing 54 of Paintings Exhibited Here

Munich, Germany, June 13 (A.P.).—Fifty-four paintings brought back from the United States went on display today with a promise that 146 more will be returned soon.

The 200 paintings, recently exhibited in Washington, were seized by American forces in 1945 and taken to the United States for safekeeping.

"I am proud to be able to keep my pledge that they would be returned safely to the German people," Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military commander, said at the display.

Hans Ehard, Minister President of Bavaria, responded:

"Only a great democratic nation could have made such a beautiful gesture."

The pictures shown today were too fragile for a United States exhibition tour. They include works by Rubens, Raphael, Botticelli, Duerer, Holbein and Rembrandt.

Magic Name of De Gaulle Symbolizes Fight for Freedom to His Followers

In the crowded streets of Nevers, France, yesterday afternoon they shouted out the magic name again—the name that symbolized the fight for freedom when Hitler was grinding the French under his heel.

"De Gaulle to power . . . de Gaulle to power" went the cry, and it echoed up and down the length and breadth of France, even as in the dark days of World War II.

For Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the wartime Free French forces and provisional president of Franc after the liberation, is once again on the march. Behind him, in this new Battle of France, is hs politcal movement, the Rally of the French People, the RPF.

The objective? A new French government, with de Galle at its head.

In municipal elections last October in 38,000 communites, 40 per cent of the voters chose candidates who ran on the RPF ticket. De Galle emerged as the leadr of the largst single group of French voters

What manner of man is this de Gaulle, who may become head of the French government?

Reports differ. Some have him an authoritarian and a potential dictator, perhaps from his wartime reputation. He has denounced Communism at every opportunity, and Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky has publicly compared him with Napoleon and Hitler.

Promises Better Life

In his present campaign, he has promised reconstruction, political peace, a better life. He has criticized "the weakness of the (current) regime" and asserted the necessity of putting it in order "as soon as possible."

Charles de Gaulle was born at Lille on November 22, 1890, the son of a professor of philosophy and literature. He attended St. Cyr. France's "West Point," and was an honor graduate. He was wounded three times in World War I, and taken prisoner. Five attempts to escape were unsuccessful.

After the war he became a professor of military history at St. Cyr, and also wrote "Dissension Among Our Enemies," which suggested that France take advantage of the then unrest in Germany. In 1924-27 he was an officer on the staff of Marshal Petain—the same Petain who considered surrender to the Nazis the only course.

De Gaulle, who stands a lean and erect 6 feet 2 inches, married Yvonne Vendroux, and is now the father of one son and two daughters.

Advised Gamelin to Attack

Through the 1930's, he developed his notion of modern warfare—speed, striking power, tanks, surprise. And when World War II came, he had the temerity to send Gen. Maurice Gamelin, the supreme commander, a memorandum advising an attack.

Promoted to brigadier in May, 1940, de Gaulle fought until the Germans overwhelmed France and then fled, only to pop up as leader of the Free French. The Vichy government condemned him to death.

Slightly more than four years later, the man whose name and voice had kept hope alive in France came home for good. He flew from North Africa to Cerbourg, and then drove to Paris, cheered by thousands who hossed flowers at him.

France Puts Pressure on Italy for Ships

Paris, June 13 (U.P.).—The French navy, down to one-fourth its pre-World War II strength, has put pressure on Italy to deliver ships due France under the 1947 peace treaty.

A French navy spokesman said today that Italy has neither delivered to France the fighting tonnage alloted nor reduced her own seagoing battle power.

The spokesman said Italy kept afloat 144,000 tons of comparatively new naval units or 76,500 tons more than the 67,500 tons allowed by treaty.

This Italian power now afloat includes the 35,000-ton battleships Vittorio Veneto, which is supposed to be scrapped by June 15, and the Italia.

The naval spokesman said France has only 124,000 tons of fighting ships afloat. These include the 13,190-ton aircraft carrier Arromanches, formerly the Colossus loaned by Britain until 1951, and the 8200-ton former United States aircraft carrier Dixmude.

The spokesman said France could not afford to rebuild the 24,000 tons of fighting ships, ranging from torpedo boats through submarines to destroyers, which Italy took and lost between 1942 and 1943.

Death Toll in Danish Ship Sinking Now 31

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 15 (A.P.).—The official death roll in the sinking of the Danish steamer Kjoebenhavn Friday was 31 today.

Authorities said 251 persons had been rescued. The number of missing was still uncertain, since there were some unlisted passengers on board when the vessel struck a mine and sank in the Kattegat between Denmark and Norway.

Twenty-seven of the 31 bodies recovered had not been identified.

Church Orders School Protest In Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, June 13 (U.P.).—Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty today ordered special masses and the tolling of church bells throughout Hungary next Friday to protest the nationalization of schools, which is scheduled for that day.

In a pastoral letter read throughout the country today, Mindszenty called on Catholics to say special masses praying for the church to regain "her ancient rights received from God."

"Almighty God, who put this cross on us, also has the power to take it off our shoulders again," the letter said.

His order came after Communist Deputy Premier Matyas Rakosi declared yesterday the government "is losing patience" with the church.

Red Guards' Ouster Asked

Vienna, Austria, June 13 (U.P.).—Interior Secretary Ferdinand Graf today demanded the removal of armed Austrian Communists as guards at Soviet-controlled plants.

He described the guards as "private Soviet armies" and suggested that the Russians use their own soldiers, "of whom they have plenty in Austria."

The "armies," whose strength is secret, but "considerable," are the "number one weapon in the envisioned Communist attempt to dynamite the Austrian democracy and bring about a 'people's democracy,'" he said.

Graf demanded that the Allied Control Council take action.

Communist Strength in Italy Wanes, Says Returning Envoy

By The Associated Press

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani yesterday reported Communist strength in his country is falling off steadily.

Tarchiani, who returned last week from a visit to Rome, said he found many Italians are deserting the Communist in the wake of their resounding election defeats by the Christian Democrats.

"The people now have proof the Communists are not nearly as strong as they had been claiming," Tarchiani told a reporter.

The Italian envoy said in addition many workers are now ignoring the pleas of their Communist political bosses and are switching to the parties that favor close cooperation with the United States instead of Moscow.

If the Communists try to "cause trouble," Tarchiani said, they will find the broadened government of Premier Alcide de Gasperi "more capable than ever of keeping order throughout the country."

The Ambassador said his two-week stay in his homeland convinced him the Italian government intends to do everything possible to fulfill its campaign promises of greater social reforms in Italy.

The development of agricultural southern Italy, where the Communists picked up considerable strength recently, ranks high among the plans taking shape, he said. The government hopes to begin industrial and irrigation projects in this region to improve living conditions; and thus cut down on communist strength.

Tarchiani said he was most impressed with the "great pulse of life" he found in his homeland.

"There is great hope for the future," he said, "because the people are working hard. Our industries are now nearing their prewar production."

The Italians are even optimistic about the future of political relations between Russia and the United States "even though they are sitting at the border of the iron curtain."

Czechs to Seat New President

Prague, June 13 (A.P.).—Klement Gottwald, a Communist since 1921, becomes president of Czechoslovakia Monday with an elaborate day of ceremonies.

Parliament, with 214 Communists among its 300 members, will gather in ancient Vladislavsky hall, adjoining the presidential palace, and name Gottwald by acclamation to succeed Eduard Benes.

A 21-gun salute will sound as the new president enters the hall. Catholic Archbishop Josef Beran will sing the Te Deum, a mass of thanksgiving.

U. N. Scheme To Cut Arms At Standstill

Lake Success, June 13 (A.P.).—The United Nations is about ready to give up on V. M. Molotov's scheme to slash the world's armaments.

The Soviet foreign minister offered the plan in 1946. Nothing has been accomplished.

Officials said today the 11-nation Commission on Conventional Armaments would toss the deadlocked issue to the fall meeting of the Assembly along with the atomic energy question.

There has been no word from the secret sessions of the military staff committee but it is presumed the admirals and the generals will continue to meet.

British Offered Irish Beef

London, June 13 (U.P.).—Eire is prepared to sell Britain huge quantities of fresh beef at prices lower than those charged by Argentina, and Premier John A. Costello will come to London Thursday to discuss the project, the Sunday Pictorial reported today from Dublin.

Strikes Legal, Say Russians

London, June 13 (U.P.). — The Soviet government does not forbid strikes, and there is no reason for them in the Soviet Union, the Moscow Radio said today in a retort to "slander talk" and "downright lies" from the United States.

The broadcast challenged "the New York radio," presumably the "Voice of America" to say when a no-strike law was enacted in the Soviet Union.

Russian workers have no cause to strike, it said, because all enterprises belong to the "people" instead of individual capitalists and monopolies.

"Yes, the Soviet worker works 48 hours a week," longer than in the United States, "but he knows the fruits of his work will not flow into the pockets of capitalists but will go to improve the welfare of the whole population," Moscow said.

The broadcast said that under the Taft-Hartley Act American workers had "as good as lost their right to strike."

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes"

THE FUTURE of our country depends as much on our homes as it does on our material wealth. Indeed, if we are to have confidence in the years that are ahead, we must protect the unity and security of our families.

Naturally, family happiness and security depend fundamentally on sound money management. In this, life insurance is essential. But money is not the only major problem in family life! That's why, for the past two years, the life insurance companies and their agents have brought you expert counsel on many of the other important family problems.

We are indebted to the twenty-eight men and women, recognized authorities in the fields of family welfare and social science, who have taken such an important part in this program. Their messages have covered many different problems in family life . . . personal, financial and spiritual. They have shown by specific example how family happiness can be planned.

Many people in all walks of life have found the advice of these authorities a real contribution to our national welfare. So we are planning a new series to show how families much like yours are handling these same problems in everyday life!

Anti-Draft Change Seen in Rules Group

By the United Press

Some antidraft members of the House Rules Committee were reported backing down yesterday in their plans to bottle up the Senate-approved draft bill.

Republican leaders reportedly were confident the Rules group, meeting at 10:30 a. m. today would muster enough yes votes to clear the bill for House action.

The leaders have passed the "word" to reluctant members of the powerful committe that can, if it wants to, kill th draft for this session.

Two days ago the 12-man group was so evenly split one uncommitted member, Representative Harness (R., Ind.), who doesn't like the draft, was in position to throw the decision either way.

Yesterday one or two reluctant members were said to be considering a switch. It would be most unusual for the Rules Committee, which is supposed to act as an arm of the leadership, to defy the leaders.

However, Chairman Allen (R., Ill.) a member of the leadership himself, has said he will hold out to the end against a request by Speaker Martin for "cooperation" in granting the draft bill a floor rule. If it clears Rules, the draft bill act is schduled to come up in the House Tuesday, and leaders of both parties have said there will be no difficulty in shoving it to passage.

The Senate, passing the draft by a 78 to 10 margin, sidetracked a threatened Civil Rights dispute with little trouble. Six antisegregation amendments by Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.,) were tabled.

U. S. Awaits Soviet Reply On Trieste

By the United Press

The United States is anxiously awaiting some diplomatic mail from Russia regarding Trieste.

Four notes delivered to Moscow on the proposal of the Western powers to return Trieste to Italy have brought only one Soviet reply —a "no." That reply answered two earlier notes, but two more still are unanswered.

American officials said yesterday that continued failure of Russia to answer and absence of any constructive Soviet proposals on the return of Trieste might force delivery of the problem to the United Nations.. But it is hoped that can be avoided.

In the view of the United States, Britain and France, the present separation of Trieste is unworkable and dangerous because of Yugoslavia's efforts to set up a totalitarian regime in the zone of Trieste it controls.

If the present situation continues, American foregin policymakers believe Trieste will become even more of a tinder box threatening the present uneasy peace. United Nations General Assembly consideration of such problems is authorized under Article 14 of the U. N. charter.

Arctic Defense Study Asked

the country can focus its attention on areas of greater importance from the strategic point of view," he added.

As for modern weapons, Bolles recalled that Gen. George C. Kenny, head of the Air Forces' Strategic Air Command, predicted more than a year ago that pilotless planes, carrying atomic bombs, could cross the North Pole and kill 25 million men, women and children in North America in 24 hours.

Never Sent That Far

"But so far as is publicly known," Bolles wrote, "the United States has not been able to send guided missiles (V-bombs) far enough to span the Arctic." And despite record distance flights made by long-range bombers, he went on, "it is still a question whether a plane loaded with bombs and carrying adequate supplies of gasoline could regularly attack the United States across the pole and return to their bases." The problem of supplying advance bases for the planes also "remains formidable," he said.

Discussing the Nation's "dangerously weak" position in the Arctic, Bolles said that:

1. The military force in Alaska last February consisted of one fighter group of 75 planes, one squadron of bombers and 7000 men. The troops, reportedly "poorly equipped, were assigned there primarily to service the planes."

2. Despite intensive research by the armed forces, there are "shortcomings in the American ability to wage war against a vigorous foe in the far north." Clothing is inadequate to withstand the severe cold, small arms and guns "behave erratically," and tank warfare is all but impossible.

3. The United States has suffered "diplomatic rebuffs" in attempts to obtain bases in Iceland and Greenland while Russia, by its 1944 armistice with Finland, has lengthened its Arctic shoreline from Norway to the Bering Strait.

He said the brightest spot in the "Arctic diplomacy" was the 1947 agreement with Canada calling for "mutual and reciprocal availability of military, naval and air facilities in each country." However, he commented, the pact states that such action shall be taken only in "specific cases."

Polk Probe 'Satisfactory!

Athens, Greece, June 13 (U.P.)—William Donovan, wartime chief of the U. S. Office of Strategic Services, left by plane today for New York ater a preliminary investigation into the death o George Polk, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent. Donovan said "Greek police and judical authorities are handling the case satisfactorily."

Recruiter Buys Own Ad, Army Prospects Flock In

Lynn, Mass., June 13 (AP).—A zealous recruiting sergeant today reported good results from Lynn newspaper advertisements he paid for himself to attract recent high school graduates into the Army.

Sergt. Frank J. Carr had the ads inserted last night under "Help Wanted—Male" in both the Lynn Item and Telegram. And he attached his own home telephone number because the Army Recruiting Station had been "so well publicized."

"Well worth the money," said Carr. "I've already lined up a number of prospects."

3 Admirals Will Retire

Three admirals in their early 50's will be retired by the Navy next month. It appears to be a trend toward early retirement.

The admirals are: Paul F. Lee, 53, of Berkeley, Calif., chief of naval research; Charles W. Styer, 51, of Winthrop, Maine, assistant chief of naval operations and one of the Navy's top undersea warfare experts; and Joseph W. Fowler, 54, of Los Gatos, Calif., director, industrial survey division.

Admiral Styer denied published reports that he was leaving the Navy because of differences with Secretary John L. Sullivan.

"I just thought it was a good time to get out," he said in reply to a reporter's question. "I've served 31 years, and I'm young enough to go into business, and that's the whole story."

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, 57, echoing the idea of "making room for the younger men," told a reporter he plans to step out of the Navy after his tour of duty as chief of naval operations ends.

His present appointment has 18 months to runyet, but he said that a steady turnover in the high ranks prevents stagnation and gives the officers below a chance at promotion. He is one of the youngest CNO's since the office was established more than 30 years ago.

Admiral Lee plans to join a New York engineering firm, Admirals Styer and Fowler (who incidently are brothers-in-law) will start a consulting firm on the West Coast. They own property in Los Gatos.

50,000 Hear President Truman

Truman Plans Talks on Way Back to Capital

President discoursed briefly on the history of the flag before turning to the subject of world peace.

The President hailed the charter of the United Nations as "the constitution of the world" and predicted that through the union the major powers eventually would settle their differences peacefully.

"If we want peace in the world, we must make that constitution of the world work as ours does," he declared.

"I am an optimist," he said. "I am just as sure as I stand here that the United Nations charter . . . will settle the differences between countries just as ours settled the differences between the States.

"It is working now. It is working in the East Indies. It is working in Palestine and in the European recovery program. I am certain it will be successful. There will be peace in the world."

Joined Guard on Flag Day

Mr. Truman began his remarks by telling how he joined the National Guard in Missouri on Flag Day in 1905. That has since made the day more significant to him, he said.

The President was scheduled to speak for 10 or 15 minutes, but he concluded his remarks in little more than 5 minutes.

The President was having an "easy day" as days go on his Western campaign tour.

He rose at 8 a. m. and had breakfast with the governing body of the International Labor Organization which opens an annual conference here Thursday. His host at breakfast was Undersecretary of Labor David A. Morse, who yesterday was named as the new director general of the ILO.

To Give Them a Look

At lunch with Democratic leaders representing northern California, the President said "a great deal has been said in various quarters about my ability or inability, my intelligence or lack of it."

He said the reason he had come West was to let the people look at him, listen to him and make up their own minds.

The President, speaking to Democratic delegates to the national convention, party nominees and office holders from this section of the State, repeated his dislike for Sunday speeches.

"I have very decided scruples against any man in political life using Sunday to advance his political future," he said.

"But at any rate, I have come West so you could look at me and listen to me. I feel you are entitled to that privilege."

Mr. Truman spoke of his effort to obtain "a peace to prevent the sacrifice of lives and treasure of this great Nation again," and expressed confidence that if his listeners worked toward the same goal, this peace could be accomplished.

Is Solemn Occasion

"This is a solemn occasion," he said. "I hope it will be a red letter day in your memory. The welfare of the United States and the world is wrapped up in what you do."

Tonight, a more intimate dinner was arranged for the President with only 35 guests.

After a breakfast of eggs benedict at the LO, the Chief Executive praised the work of the organization, saying such international crosscuts of Government, business and labor were beneficial for peace.

"This organization is making a greater contribution to peace in the world than nearly any other organization of its kind," he said.

For Welfare Alone

Mr. Truman, in professing his desire for peace, said this country's principal aims involved benign use of atomic energy. He said he hoped that "never, never will we have to use this atomic energy for anything but the welfare of mankind."

"I want to see that the results of the good things that came out of this terrible war . . . are used . . . for the welfare of mankind and not for its destruction," he said.

"That is the only ambition I have . . . or ever have had.

"And if you read the record, you will find that is what I have been working for ever since I was unfortunate enough to be President of the United States on the death of one of the greatest Presidents the country ever had—Franklin Roosevelt.

"If I can carry out the policies which he and I discussed a month or so before he died, there will be peace in the world.

"It has been a pleasure to . . . preach a Sunday morning sermon to you."

Republicans Pouring Into Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 13 (AP).—Political convention jitters hit Philadelphia today, a week before Republicans sit down to choose their candidate for the Wihte House.

Arriving by plane, train and automobile, the GOP advance guard launched immediately into preconclave maneuvering and caucuses.

The political vibrations will increase daily—as more and more convention voters check into Quaker City hotels—until the last crash of the gavel ends the job of 1094 delegates.

Meantime, Philadelphia officials prepared for an influx of some 30,000 visitors.

Tickets Pose Problem

Nearly 18,000 will be housed in hotels and homes in the downtown area. Thousands more are expected to commute daily from points up to 100 miles away.

Tickets pose the major problem for convention sightseers. Housing, originally the biggest headache, turned into an "embarrassing surplus," when city officials obtained 10,000 rooms in private homes.

Thelma Trescher, assistant to the chairman of the GOP National Convention committee, said only 4000 tickets can be issued to the general public daily. The remainder of the 13,000 convention Hall seats will be used for the "official convention family."

Choice Seen Difficult

National Committeeman Walter Hallanan of West Virginia, chairman of the 32-member arrangements committee, says the choosing of the 1948 GOP standard bearer "is going to be a difficult job."

"It may take as long as two or three days to pick our nominees," Hallanan said.

Balloting is set to start immediately and second speeches on Wednesday night, third day of the conclave.

On Thursday GOP Chairman Carroll Reece of Tennessee calls the National Republican Committee into session. Most important business is the settlement of disputes over seating of delegates.

Georgia Presents Contest

Chief contest is in Georgia where one set of delegates reportedly is for Taft, the other for Dewey.

"This is a ticklish situation," Reece said, "but I'm sure we can settle it amicably before the convention opens.

"I'm hopeful that during the actual convention sessions everything will run on schedule.

Inquiry Ordered In Fatal Shooting Of Navy Sentry

An investigation into the death of a Chincoteague (Va.) Naval Base sentry who was fatally shot early Saturday shortly after being relieved from duty will get under way today.

The sentry, Engineman-fireman Grant W. Clem, of Bloomington, Ill., was shot through the abdomen about 1:50 a. m. Saturday when a pistol in the hands of another sentry, Seaman 2/c William H. Kissinger, was discharged.

A Navy spokesman said Kissenger was checking his weapon after having relieved Clem. Kissenger, "depressed" by the accident, is under mental observation at the Base infirmary, the spokesman said.

200,000 Sign Negro Appeal

Philadelphia, June 13 (AP).—America's 13,000,000 Negro consider failure of the Republican-controlled 80th Congress to pass civil rights legislation their "cruelest disillusionment" since the reconstruction era, the National Negro Council declared today.

Edgar G. Brown, of Washington, chairman and director of the National Negro Council, said the declaration was contained in a resolution to be sent to congressional leaders. Brown said the petition was signed by 200,000 persons throughout the Nation.

Included in the petition is a demand for the ouster of Representative Rankin (D., Miss.). The council wrote:

"Rankin stated on the floor of Congress that equal rights for Negroes would encourage rape. This is a violation of Article V of the United States Constitution and under that section members are subject to expulsion for disorderly behavior by a two-thirds vote of Congress membership."

The petition was addressed to Representative Martin (R., Mass.), Speaker of the House, and Senator Taft (R., Ohio), chairman of the Republican Senate majority committee.

Delegate Line-Up

All the 1094 Republican national convention delegates have been selected.

Thomas E. Dewey, 148; Harold E. Stassen, 99; Robert A. Taft, 81; Edward Martin, 73; Earl Warren, 53; Arthur H. Vandenberg, 41; Leverett Saltonstall, 35; Alfred E. Driscall, 35; Charles Halleck, 29; Dwight H. Green, 27; Carroll Reese, 22; Raymond E. Baldwin, 19; Douglas MacArthur, 10; Joseph W. Martin, 1; uncommitted, 421. Total, 1094.

Tripoli Curfew Set To Breakup Rioting

Tripoli, Libia, June 13 (AP).—A state of emergency was declared in Tripoli today because fo continuing riots between Jews and Arabs. The British military administration had troops take over security. A 7 p. m. curfew was imposed.

[The United Press said hospital officials reported 12 Jews and five Arabs were killed and 33 Jews and 17 Arabs were injured.]

Police said three Jews and four Arabs were killed and 11 Jews injured when fighting started after an argument yesterday between two Tunisian Arabs and a Jew. A crowd gathered and quickly got out of hand. It roamed the city, looting and burning shops. Five fires were still smouldering today.

Rioting is continuing in the Old City. Entrances to the Old City are guarded by British troops.

Police said 46 Arabs were arrested. Shelter at the police station was given to 250 Jews.

A police report said 50 Arabs gathered today at Suk el Telat but were dispersed. Later another mob formed and police opened fire, "causing a gap between opposing forces."

Jews threw an Italian hand grenade at a police truck. Arab groups were attacked in several instances by Jews who threw cans of gasoline on them from rooftops.

To State Dept.

Americans Write Most On Palestine

By the United Press

As far as incoming mail is concerned, the hottest issue at the State Department today is Palestine, with Soviet Russia a poor second.

During the last year, the White House and State Department have received 400,000 communications from Americans advising, condemning and inquiring about foreign policy.

The volume is twice as heavy as the previous year, and "crackpot" communications have dropped to a new low.

Heavy Palestine Mail

The question of partitioning Palestine accounted for more than half of all the mail. Almost all the letters were pro-Jewish. The writers urged the United States to back up the partition, and lift its embargo on arms to the Middle East.

When the United States reversed momentarily its position on partition, the State Department got almost 30,000 protesting letters in one day.

Officials said here was a big difference between the mail on Palestine and hat on Russia. Much of the Palestine mail was "processed," that is, the writers merely signed their names to printed pleadings. The State Department kept a record for two weeks, and found that more than half of the Palestine mail came from the New York area, with Brooklyn the heaviest contributor.

People Just Wrote

On the other hand, very little of the mail concerning Russia is "processed." People merely sit down and write what they think about the United States and its dealings with Josef Stalin. Leaving out Palestine, nearly three-fourths of the rest of the mail concerned Soviet Russia in one way or another.

After the United States slammed the door on what it called Russia's "phony" peace offensive propaganda last month, 1000 Americans wrote in to praise, protest or inquire.

"The consensus was in favor of our firm stand on Russia," an official said.

ECA Orders 95 Million Aid approvals: Britain, $36,300,000; the Netherlands, $4,183,905; France, $21,749,879; French zone of Germany, $941,320; Austria, $2,488,210; Denmark, $810,400; Italy, $5,967,000; Norway, $1,427,000; Greece, $8,164,000.

In addition, China got a go-ahead to buy 13 million dollars' worth of cotton in the United States, and Trieste was granted supplies totaling $578,891. These include dry beans worth $206,931; evaporated milk valued at $353,960 and medical supplies worth $18,000.

Nearly 70 per cent of the funds provided so far call for purchase on the open market by foreign governments or their agents. This is in line with the mandate of Congress that the bulk of aid be handled through private channels rather than United States Government procurement.

Hajir Elected Iran Premier

Tehran, Iran, June 13 (U.P.).—In a secret meeting of parliament, former Minister of Interior Abdul Hussein Hajir was elected premier of Iran today to succeed Dr. Ibrahim Hakimi. Hakimi held office less than six months.

Even as Hajir was elected, an estimated 100 "Islam devotees" demonstrated in front of the building, shouting, "Death to Hajir, traitor and Jewish stooge." Iran, not a member of the Arab League, has taken no part in the Arab-Zionist quarrel.

Of 120 deputies present, 66 voted for Hajir, 43 for former Premier Mohammed Saed, who rejected Russian oil demands, and eight for Abbas Eskandari, pro-Russian deputy. Three abstained.

Hajir, now in his mid-forties, began his career as clerk in the Soviet legation here. The deputies, most of them supporters of former Premier Ahmad Ghavam, voted the 78-year-old Hakimi out of office June 8.

New Fighting In Holy Land

nate route through the Judean hills which Jewish engineers quickly built to by-pass the Arab blockade of the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway in the Latrun area.

Legion military commanders in Jerusalem objected to the arrival of the unchecked convoy, charging the cease-fire arrangement had been breached.

United States Consul General William Burdett of the truce commission went to the area immediately west of Jerusalem to prevent fighting. The Jewish Agency was asked not to bring in unchecked convoys.

Israel's government accused the Syrians of several truce violations in Galilee and notified a U. N. representative it "would have to reserve the right" to protect itself against aggressive action there.

Simultaneously Syrian Premier Jamil Mardam Bey said Jews were continuing operations in the same general region.

The Syrian government declared its army would take the field again if the Jews did not halt their "aggressions."

King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan angrily denied reports which have pictured him as causing uneasiness in other Arab countries by favoring a future union of Palestine and Trans-Jordan.

"I will follow the decisions of all the Arab countries for Palestine's political future. I will not take any decision concerning the future of Palestine which will not be in complete agreement with all the Arab states," he declared.

Liner at Tel Aviv

Tel Aviv, Israel, June 13 (AP).—A liner carrying 420 persons to Israel anchored in Tel Aviv harbor tonight, confronting Count Folke Bernadotte with his first immigration problem under the Jewish-Arab truce.

Late tonight, lighters began bringing immigrants ashore under supervision of United Nations observers. Jewish officials barred the port area to newsmen.

At the Sylvan Theater at the Monument Grounds, some 500 persons heard Col. David W. Heiman, the principal speaker, urge the Nation to "perceive, practice and protect" the "ideals" on which the Nation was founded.

More Events Today

Other celebrations will be held today, which has been proclaimed officially as "Flag Day" in the District. District Commissioners urged residents to display the American flags at their homes "and in other appropriate places."

At 0 a. m., members of Lt. William H. Corkrean Post No. 226, Catholic War Veterans, will present American and District of Columbia flags to safety patrol boys of St. Francis Xavier School in front of the school at 2700 O st. se.

The Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, will hold Flag Day services at 7:30 p. m. on the east steps of the Capitol.

Dulles Says U. S. Must Back Changes

Schenectady, N. Y. June 13 (U.P.).—John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate to the United National General Assembly, said today the United States must support "peaceful change" to fight communism successfully.

The Republican Foreign Affairs spokesman warned that the U. S. must never defend the "status quo." That is "the death trap," he said, into which communism seeks to "maneuver the free societies" thereby leaving itself as the lone "proponent of change" in the world.

He called upon the American people to reaffirm their faith in democratic principles and to "get off the defensive" in defending them before the world.

HASPEL Suits

cool, washable seersucker and cord

$20.50

There is a simple formula for keeping cool, well-groomed in summer. Haspel seersucker and cord suits that weigh only 24 ounces are the correct answer. They are made of scientifically-ventilated, shape-retaining cotton fabrics that resist shrinkage and fading and are as washable as a handkerchief. Carefully tailored in single or double-breasted styles, your Haspel keeps its crisp, fresh and composed look regardless of how the humidity may behave. For Washington summers, supply your wardrobe with Haspels. You could make no better investment for summer comfort. In tan, blue and gray.

Third Flood Crest Menacing Oregon

Portland, Oreg., June 13 (AP).—The Columbia River today pushed its third crest in the lower valley to above the flood level that smashed the city of Vanport two weeks ago.

The river menace will remain for several weeks in the flood-stricken valley.

Levees still holding the river from scattered dry sectors in the heart of the heavily populated rural and industrial lower valley are under their closest guard.

The flood danger is aimed today at another backwater dike in northeast Portland that guards the 43-million-dollar war-built Troutdale, Oreg., aluminum works.

River forecasters said the Columbia reached 30.2 feet above mean sea level at Vancouver, Wash., at noon, equal to the first crest of June 1, highest since 1894. It was just a fraction of an inch below the 29.9-foot level in the Willamette River at Portland's waterfront.

The Red Cross lists 20 missing at Vanport.

Some 60,000 persons are homeless in four Pacific Northwest States and British Columbia.

Business Unit Is 28 Years Old

The Better Business Bureau of Washington will celebrate its twenty-eighth birthday on Tuesday.

It has grown through the years to a position where it has 450 member firms, handles more than 46,050 telephone requests annually and checks every commercial advertisement in each local newspaper.

The birthday celebration will be attended by members and friends at a luncheon Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. at the Mayflower Hotel.

Joseph A. Livingston, Washington Post columnist and writer, will be guest speaker.

The bureau now has ten employes and is directed by Claude H. Woodward, who says that if all the complaints handled during the existence of the bureau were placed end to end, "they would stretch to China."

He said that shoddy advertising in Washington represents just a tiny part of the total, and praised the newspapers for suppressing misrepresentations.

During the last year, he said, in only one case has it been necessary to invoke the District Advertising Statute.

As He Resigns

Official Calls Gas Supply 'Pretty Good'

By The Associated Press

Max Ball of the Interior Department said yesterday that the Nation's gasoline supply for this summer and fall "looks pretty good."

He coupled this report—which is more optimistic than others have been—with disclosure that he plans to resign as director of the department's oil and gas division.

"We feel fairly confident now that, unless the public drives recklessly far and recklessly fast, there will be no actual gasoline shortages," Ball told a reporter.

"There may be brief spot shortages here and there in the midwest due to inadequate transportation and distribution—but nothing more than that."

Ball pegged his forecast to the condition that all goes well. He said a coal strike would have a serious effect upon the Nation's already-dubious heating oil prospects for next winter.

Ball said he will quit his Government job about August 1 to return to his occupation as an oil consultant, probably at Denver, his former home.

12,000 D. C. Motorists Lost '47 Licenses

Approximately 12,000 motorists here were among nearly 430,000 throughout the United States who lost driving privilege during 1947, it was revealed yesterday.

Four out of every 10 operators banned from the road in the Nation lost their permits as a result of drunken driving, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators announced.

Traffic Director George E. Keneipp said speeding accounted for the largest number here, with "violations leading to accidents" and drunken driving next in that order.

The AAMVA noted that although there was an 11 per cent national increase in motor travel over the prewar peak set in 1941, traffic fatalities were approximately 8000 less due to increased law enforcement "against irresponsible and incompetent driving."

Keneipp said the District's record followed the national trend in this respect. Traffic volume increased 8 per cent over 1941 while traffic deaths dropped from "more than 90" in 1941 to 72 last year, he said.

Bulgaria, Greece To Confer Here

Lake Success, N. Y., June 13 (U.P.).—United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie today notified Bulgaria of Greece's acceptance of its proposal to start talks on the reestablishment of diplomatic relations.

Bulgaria made the proposal June 8 and Greece accepted it last night.

'New Look' Pays Off In Petticoat Output

The "new look" has paid off for the petticoat manufacturers.

The Commerce Department disclosed yesterday that petticoat production is up 500 per cent over the first three months of last year and 1000 per cent over the same period in 1946. It was one of the few increases reported in a review of clothing output.

A short time ago, Drew Pearson announced, on his radio program, that he would award prizes for essays on the vital subject, "How To Make Democracy Live." Essays poured in... over 140,000 of them. Wonderful essays... an outpouring of American thought that merits the serious study of our lawmakers and moulders of opinion. Now, the distinguished judges* have made their decision and the prizes are awarded. Again Mr. Pearson, you have performed a valuable service to the nation... and to the world. For, in the last analysis, Democracy is the winner. For how could it be otherwise, when hundreds of thousands of Americans are encouraged to think, study and write about the values and safeguards of Democracy. Yes, Mr. Pearson, it was a good thing... a very good thing to revitalize our ideas and ideals of Democracy. For when a people knows the value of Democracy it will never be seduced into accepting anything less than the great heritage of America... Democracy that lives.

Police Trial Board

Since modernization of the trial boards of the Police and Fire Departments is long overdue, the Commissioners have done well to resurvey the problem. As the boards have operated in the past, grave questions as to their impartiality have been raised. The public has sometimes had the impression that the boards have been packed in favor of the accused policeman or fireman. On the other hand, policemen and firemen on trial have pointed a critical finger at the dual role of the corporation counsel's office. For one assistant corporation counsel has sat on the board while another has presented the accusations.

The new plan is to replace representatives of the corporation counsel on both boards by civilian lawyers to be drawn from a panel of 10 named by the District Bar Association. Both the disadvantage of having the corporation counsel serve as prosecutor and judge and of having the Commissioners select lawyers whose impartiality might be suspect could be thus overcome. Certainly the arrangement would be a net gain. But why should not each of the new trial boards be composed of two lawyers chosen from the panel and a third member to represent the interested department? The chief purpose of these trials is to maintain discipline in the force. Fair trials are the essence of discipline. The largest degree of fairness might well be attained if the department were represented in each case but did not dominate the board.

Especially in the case of the police trial board, this argument is persuasive. Superintendent Barrett has suggested the creation of two police trial boards—one to be composed of two policemen and a civilian lawyer to try cases brought against policemen by citizens and a board of three superior police officers to try policemen for other infractions of the rules. In addition, he would have a body of three citizens sift outside charges against the police to determine whether such complaints should be presented to the trial board. An able and representative group of this sort would be most useful. But would it not create suspicions if a board dominated by policemen should exonerate fellow officers indicted, so to speak, by impartial civilians? Most of the complaints against the present system arise out of the fact that policemen accused of offensive conduct are tried by other policemen. That objection can be overcome only by setting up a trial board with a civilian majority. And if a line is to be drawn between different types of infractions of police rules, it is reasonable to suppose that the trial board dealing solely with internal problems would profit from the presence of an able practicing lawyer no less than the firemen's trial board.

Farm Price Fiasco

The House has chosen the easy way of dealing with the farm-support program by voting to extend it, with certain modifications, for a two-year period. At a time when farm income is at record heights and consumers are groaning under the burden of high living costs this bill would compel the Government to continue to support the prices of basic food crops at 90 per cent of parity.

Since most farm products included in the support program are currently selling at prices equal to or well above parity, passage of the House bill would have no immediate effect on inflated grocery bills. What the country needs is a program adapted to long-range requirements, not an extension of a system established during the depression years to bolster disastrously low farm prices and subsequently directed toward encouraging expansion of farm output. Retention of existing high and rigid support prices until June 30, 1950—prices, too, based on an obsolete method of computing parity—may well interfere with highly desirable shifts in production in the months to come. In other words, the incentive to adjust farm output to changing demands will be seriously impaired by a system of price supports that is unduly high and inflexible.

A bill sponsored by Senator Aiken setting up a permanent price-support program provides for a somewhat lower level of support prices on the basis of a modernized parity formula and follows in general the recommendations of the Department of Agriculture and President Truman. Unfortunately, its chances of passage appear to be slight. In view of the short time remaining during this session Senators will be tempted to support the House bill as a quick way of disposing of (or rather avoiding) a difficult problem.

Since a good part of the legislation authorizing the present price-support program expires next December, some kind of legislation is sure to be approved before Congress adjourns. And from present indications it is going to be a kind of legislation reflecting no credit on Congress. The deficiencies of the House bill cannot be excused on the ground of lack of time to concoct something better. For the problems of the farmer have been the subject of exhaustive investigation and ample opportunity has been afforded this Congress for studying those problems and putting through a well-balanced program that, to quote President Truman, would "look ahead to a farm price support policy geared to our improved farm economy."

Overtime On Overtime

In the portal-to-portal cases the Supreme Court adopted a definition of working time that resulted in claims for back pay amounting to billions of dollars. In the Mount Clemens pottery case, for instance, the court declared that the time spent by employes walking to their jobs after punching time clocks and performing various preliminary tasks must be paid for "regardless of contrary custom or contract." As a result of that decision thousands of firms faced bankruptcy and Congress promptly passed a law barring such portal-to-portal pay claims unless employers had been previously compelled by custom or contract to make such payments.

Now the Supreme Court has done it again. This time it was called upon to deal with the question of what constitutes the regular rate of pay to be used in computing overtime rates for work in excess of 40 hours, as required by the Fair Labor Standards Act. By a 5-to-3 decision, in a case involving dockworkers employed by two New York Port stevedoring contractors, the court held that the time-and-a-half rates of pay agreed to under union contracts for night work and work done on Saturday afternoons, Sundays and holidays were not overtime rates of pay in the legal sense of the word, but rather premium rates paid to employes to induce them to work at undesirable hours. Accordingly, the court said, those payments must be included in any computation of regular rates of pay, which in turn become the basis for computing rates of pay for real overtime. The result of this decision is to make the employing companies liable for back pay computed in such fashion as to justify the complaint that overtime is pyramided on overtime.

Once more anguished cries arise. One stevedoring concern estimates its liability under the overtime-on-overtime formula for back payments at 43 million dollars. Just the accounting work connected with going over payrolls and determining the amount of back payments due would cost another firm about $265,000. An estimate of total costs, not only for the stevedoring industry but other industries affected by the Supreme Court ruling, runs to fantastic figures.

Employers are not the only ones to complain bitterly of the Supreme Court's latest interpretation of the Fair Labor Standards Act. For in a dissenting opinion of Justice Frankfurter, concurred in by Justices Jackson and Burton, the majority decision is described as "another doctrinaire construction" of the act applied "in disregard of industrial realities." Justice Frankfurter goes on to say, with his usual vehemence, that the majority decision treats the words of the act as though they were parts of a crossword puzzle. Against the protests of the union, as well as the employers, the decision dislocates arrangements of long standing designed for the benefit of both employers and employes. "The present decision," Justice Frankfurter adds, is "heedless of a long standing and socially desirable collective agreement and is calculated to foster disputes in an industry which has been happily at peace for more than 30 years."

Since the phrase, "regular rate," is not defined in the Fair Labor Standards Act, Justice Frankfurter concludes that the term may be properly used to mean what the parties to the wage contract understand by the term, provided there is no intention to circumvent the policy of the statute. Hence he is of the opinion that the regular rate of pay for the Port of New York longshoremen should be the straight time scale of the union contract. To call the longshoremen's demand one for overtime pyramided on overtime "is not to use a clever catch phrase, but to describe fairly the true nature of the claim."

The next step will be a movement to nullify the Supreme Court decision by remedial legislation, as was done after the portal-to-portal decisions. But this kind of piecemeal legislation obviously does not meet the needs of the time. What is called for is a thoroughgoing overhaul of the Fair Labor Standards Act to clarify it and relieve the courts from the necessity of interpreting obscure provisions of the law. At present our judges are compelled to grapple with technical details of interpretation of labor laws with which they are not qualified to deal.

Time To Stand Firm

For passing the Fellows bill providing for admission of displaced persons the House will be applauded by every American who upholds the doctrine of equality of opportunity for the oppressed, without regard to race or religion. However, the fight against religious intolerance and racial prejudice, which found shocking expression in the companion bill passed last week by the Senate, has not yet been won. For the fate of the displaced persons legislation depends upon the nature of the agreements to be reached in conference. To insure final enactment of a just and equitable measure the House conferees will have to insist on deletion of the discriminatory features of the Senate bill.

This is no time for compromises involving a sacrifice of basic principles. The House has been given an opportunity to redeem some of its past errors and sins of omission by refusing to retreat from the stand it has taken in the present instance. The Senate conferees have likewise been given a chance to repair the damage done to Senate prestige through passage of the Wiley-Revercomb bill, by yielding to House demands for elimination of un-American restrictions on the entry of displaced persons.

Truman's Tardy Reply

The mystery about President Truman's admirable speech at the University of California is why he waited so long to make it. This is the reply that should have been made to Soviet Russia's recent psychological offensive, which, as this newspaper said at the time, was about 75 per cent propaganda and 25 per cent diplomacy. But the speech follows by almost a month the Russian maneuvers which give it special point. Scarcely less unfortunate is the fact that this thoughtful address follows a torrent of loose and reckless off-the-cuff remarks aimed at strengthening the President's chances for renomination and reelection.

Mr. Truman's bill of particulars as to Moscow's refusal to cooperate in restoring peace with freedom and justice gives special force to his contention that the present cleavage is not between Russia and the United States but between Russia and the free world. Most of the baffling problems that were inherited from the last war could have been settled by now if the Kremlin had been willing to abide by majority decisions. Peace would in no wise be threatened if Russia had permitted the United Nations to function as it was intended to function. No doubt all the nations genuinely want peace, but only the Western nations have been willing to make the accommodations that alone can guarantee peace in this atomic age.

Faltering and confusing though the details of its policy sometimes are, the United States is using its influence to shape a post-war world in which democracy and freedom and even nonaggressive communism can flourish. The President disavowed any thought or desire of destroying the Russian system. "We are not waging a 'cold war,'" he said. ". . . The door is always open for honest negotiations looking toward genuine settlements. The door is not open, however, for deals between great powers to the detriment of other nations or at the expense of principle." Mr. Truman is looking in the same direction as was the Senate when it passed the Vandenberg resolution and the House Foreign Affairs Committee when it reported out the Eaton bill.

What some of our statesmen fail to realize is that this sort of policy requires us to keep the initiative without lapses or fumbling while Moscow propagandists distort American aims and exploit doubts as to our steadiness of purpose. Just now there is desperate need to restore the full appropriation for European recovery and to pass the Eaton bill for strengthening of the United Nations. Throughout the democratic world the U. N. is recognized as the embodiment of the principles on which peace must rest. The misfortune of this "twilight period" is that the U. N. lacks power. But its power can be enhanced by modifying the big nations' veto rights and by organizing within the U. N. nuclei of power that can act to uphold the Charter against aggressors when the Security Council is hamstrung. The Government seems to have overwhelming support from the people in moving in this direction.

Steel Warnings

Lack of steel is the reason given for the layoff of 200,000 employes of General Motors. Last April, too, steel shortages attributed to the coal miners' strike resulted in GM shutdowns. Such periodical interruptions to production resulting from shortages of basic materials, from whatever cause, are a warning signal indicating that our highly geared economy is extremely vulnerable. Obviously all calculations as to our productive capacity will be thrown out if strikes in basic industries cause loss of output of essential materials. But strikes alone do not account for the current shortages of steel of which not only automobile manufacturers but also other industries complain. The fact is that industry has been going full steam ahead and most industries are operating about as close to capacity as is possible.

The current general business boom puts a terrific strain on basic industries such as steel that are trying to keep up with the demands of the many industries dependent on them for materials. That strain will be intensified by the demands of the rearmament and European recovery programs. To make sure that basic materials needed for all purposes—defense, recovery and civilian use—are utilized to best advantage, effort will have to be directed, in the absence of a compulsory system of allocation of scarce materials, toward strengthening systems of voluntary controls to insure continued operation of essential industries and avoid diversion of scarce supplies to nonessential uses.

INHERITANCE

Whose heart has boundaries staked out in water
Is heir to radiant and ancient kingdoms.
On his acres blooms the godhead's laughter,
From sky rafters hang his crystal lamps.

Whose heart has built a house upon the ocean
Never eats the exile's stony bread,
Never sleeps the haste of stolen gloam,
The seagod's hair will hang his night with shadow.

And a blue-green chant will seal his ears
To all knowing save the water's wisdom.
Till he is reborn to God's estate

Columbia Floods

There is a background story related to the disastrous Columbia River floods now in progress, and it may be of interest hereabouts.

About 40 years ago, when I was a young reporter on the Kelsonian, at Kelso, Wash., there came to our town a talented engineer with a large vision. His name was Richard B. Magruder, and he was one of the large family of that name long settled at or near Sandy Spring, Md. He had just completed a diking project at the mouth of the Sacramento River in California.

He had a plan to protect the immensely rich delta lands adjacent to Kelso, where the little Cowlitz River empties into the mighty Columbia, about 50 miles north of Portland, Oreg. The identity of his financial backers I never knew, but he set out to buy some thousands of acres of farmland west of the Cowlitz, intending to dike, ditch and resell.

His plan was frustrated by the settlers there, most of whom were Finnish-Americans who, under leadership of a farmer named Ben Sheppardson, got hold of the idea that they could do their own reclamation, refused to sell their land, and then set up their own local improvement district and built their own dikes and ditches, with appurtenant pumping stations. Thereupon Engineer Magruder crossed the Columbia River to Clatskanie, Oreg., and there developed the sort of project he had intended to build on the Washington side.

When the Finnish farmers began to make progress upon the construction of their dikes, and when Mr. Magruder was building at Clatskanie, the idea of protecting other lands along the Columbia spread rapidly. The lower part of Kelso was protected by what is known as the Coweeman Dike. The city of Longview, built by the Long-Bell Lumber Co., was protected in part by the very dikes the Finnish farmers built, and by others as well. The town of Woodland and its rich surrounding farms were inclosed. And the whole diking enterprise began in the mind, purpose, vision and energy of a pudgy Maryland man of good Quaker stock, the late Richard B. Magruder.

As I write, the dikes in the neighborhood of Kelso are still holding; those at Woodland and Puget Island have collapsed. The tragedy is tremendous; the losses incalculable. Still is may be appreciated that in the more than 30 years since these projects were completed the areas have had protection which was not available before, and in normal seasons the dikes have saved crops and homes to the value of millions.

It may be added, that there is high water in the lower Columbia every year during late May and early June, not as a result of persistent spring rains, but from melting snow in the high mountains of eastern Washington, British Columbia, Idaho and Montana. When the rivers having their sources in these mountains run off at practically the same time, a flood such as that of this year results.

Profit Economy

The present acute dislocation of the world's economy is, to a greater degree than is generally realized, a consequence of the transition from a use economy to a commodity, or profit, economy, with the heavy increase in "overhead" which the latter economy entails.

The hunter, the herdsman and the farmer-craftsman feed, clothe and shelter themselves and their dependents. The farmer's labor on the land, for example, produces the goods and services which he, his family and his village require for survival. Pastoral peoples following their herds and farmers tilling the soil live balanced, stable lives. Unless nature fails them or they are robbed by soldiers, brigands or tax collectors, their economic solvency can be maintained indefinitely.

Not so with a commodity economy, which is operated for profit rather than for use. A profit economy is fundamentally unstable; booms and busts are the inevitable result of profit accumulation. In proportion as commodity economy has replaced use economy, the world has moved from a relatively stable economy into the modern period of economic uncertainty and international hijacking.

The fabulous wealth of the upper class today, the expansion of the comfortable middle class and the wide range of gadgets available to those who man the mass-production machine should not blind us to the ruthless squandering of natural resources, the high-pressure exploitation of the colonial millions and the slum-dwelling industrial population, and the enormous waste and destruction of frequent wars between rival dominant groups, all of which conditions are integral features of a profit-motivated economy.

Anyone who wishes a concrete and up-to-the-minute example of the economic instability of a competitive profit economy can find it today in west Europe, where modern commodity production had its origin and early development and which, only 40 brief years ago, was—to quote President Truman—"enjoying the highest standard of living on earth," but which today is a dismembered and disorganized mass of rubble, bewilderment and despair. Mundt-Nixon Bill

As Americans, we must realize that we have been brought face to face with those forces whose chief aim is to destroy everything that is decent and fine in America. If Congress fails to take positive steps, such as passing the Mundt-Nixon bill, which contains extreme measures to deal with extreme people—the Communist—the best interests of America will have been neglected.

Throughout the United States today, the Communists are belittling and smearing the House which has passed H. R. 8552, a bill to stop un-American activities and thereby protect this Nation against subversive forces which are under direct orders of the Kremlin.

If the Senate fails to pass H. R. 8552, by extravagant deceit, lying and trickery, the Communists and their dupes will claim the victory as a "police-state-bill."

Taber's Economy

It seems just because Congressman John Taber wants to eliminate some of the unnecessary expense of the ERP, the editorial staff of The Washington Post thinks he has done a terrible thing to the peace.

Have you just made up your mind that any cut is bad no matter whether it is justified or not? Do you realize that the House Appropriations Committee studied it very carefully for five weeks before coming to their conclusion? A great amount of the cut comes from tobacco, amusements, and farm machinery for countries that are not equipped for farm machinery.

I am for ERP, but I do not want to pay my taxes for unessential things. When the bill was originally passed, the total sum was only the top limit, and no authorization bill has in it that the appropriations must be the same amount.

Integrated Forces

The courageous stand that Senator Langor of North Dakota took to eliminate segregation in the armed forces by means of legislation brings one of our most controversial issues to the attention of nations all over the world. This issue must be solved and the sooner the better.

Our successful future relationships with other countries, particularly nonwhite ones, may be evaluated in terms of last week's discussion on the Senate floor. The United States can no longer maintain the status quo in the light of present-day international affairs. If America intends to curtail the activities of communism in this country and abroad, it must embark upon a program calling for the integration of all peoples within its territorial boundaries.

This is no time for sectional dispute. Our present situation calls for a united effort on the part of all races, colors and creeds if we are to stabilize our position in a world that is rapidly turning toward communism instead of democracy for its salvation.

Controlling Communism

The letter from "Mother of Three Sons" in The Washington Post of June 9, sets forth a situation in Czechoslovakia which could hardly apply to the United States. The Soviet technique of applying pressure from the border of a country while "boring from within" has been successfully applied in the case of most of the now enslaved countries of eastern Europe. However, I do not believe that a Mundt-Nixon bill is necessary to prevent such a development here.

In the first place we are handling the "boring from within" process quite effectively now by weeding out the disloyal from Federal service. In the second place there is no Soviet army on our borders.

Most important of all, however, we have a native intelligence in dealing with mountebanks and shysters that can never be provided by law. Look how the Ku Klux Klan has been eradicated in most of the South. All we had to do was to laugh them out of court for "parading in their nightgowns." The Commies are just as funny and just as vulnerable to that savory sense of American humor, which, with all due respects, the Czechs never had. REALIST.

Postoffice Pay

"Billions for elsewhere but pennies for postal employes." That is what Congress is saying.

In recent days a House committee has tentatively approved a bill that would raise the beginning salaries of postoffice clerks to the magnificent sum of $2500 per year. Of course, a clerk will have to surrender $150 of this amount to the retirement fund, collected at present at 5 per cent but advanced to 6 per cent beginning July 1 next. This leaves a balance of $2350, with income taxes yet to be considered.

A real hardship is in store for the married man with a family who attempts to maintain it on that salary. There are other factors that make the salary worth still less. The clerk entering the service learns that he will have to work nights for an indefinite period and Sundays as well. He learns that he will be obliged to apply most of his spare time outside of working hours and without compensation to the task of memorizing distribution in the form of hundreds of cards.

Of all the attributes the Federal civil service once had, only one remains, security. The chances are that if you are, by exemplary conduct, able to avoid demerit charges, you are assured of continuing to earn your substandard salary until old age finally overtakes you. G. C. BAKER.

Mr. Laski's America

THE AMERICAN DEMOCRACY: A Commentary and an interpretation; by Harold J. Laski. (Viking Press, $6.50.)

Professor Laski's work, a very large and heavy one, is intended, as I gather from his publishers, to replace rather than supplement the studies of Tocqueville and Bryce. However, the professor himself says modestly that his purpose has been "to make intelligible to Europeans, and above all to Englishmen," the origin and intensity of his love for America and Americans. As to that, all I can say is I trust he has made them more intelligible to his compatriots than he has made them to me. Throughout most of his book the professor not only dissembles his love but evinces a disposition to keep kicking us downstairs until we show more readiness than at present to reorganize our society on collectivist principles. Indeed, had I not read the preface I might have suspected from some of his more eloquent flights of vituperation that the professor is not of a particularly loving disposition. But then, as the fellow said, the curious thing about love is that it resemble plus a la haine qu'a l'amitie.

All the same, Professor Laski's emotions are less puzzling than his observations. He finds, for example, that before the Civil War rich Americans were in the habit of sending their children to private schools and that it was not until after the war that they began to do so; that a Groton education is a handicap in politics and that no American politician has ever been able to exert such political influence as the late President Roosevelt; that the late Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy was an avaricious quack and a person of great sincerity; that the presidents of American universities are bullied by their trustees and the faculties by the presidents and that higher education in the United States is as good as anywhere in the world; that the cult of isolationism is a stubborn refusal to recognize the vital importance of foreign markets to the domestic economy and that American economic imperialism is leading us toward another war which, even though successful, must be destructive of our traditional political institutions and liberties; that there are no perceptible differences between the great political parties and that, generally speaking, the Democratic Party represents the urban masses and the Republican Party the big corporate interests; that the American Catholicism has a psychology and an intellectual atmosphere alien and incomprehensible to persons outside it and that the attitude of Americans toward other nations precisely matches that of the sixteenth century Tridentine Church toward heretical sects. I think I could go on multiplying Professor Laski's paradoxes for the rest of my space.

On one point, however, the professor is perfectly clear: he believes that all the patterns of contemporary American life reflect the influence of the business mind. It is also clear that whatever it is Mr. Laski loves about America, it is not the businessman. Count de Tocqueville, you may remember, had hoped that the general veneration of religion in the United States would curb the tendency to materialism inherent in democracies, but the professor tells us it has not been so. Nowhere, it seems, has the mythology of business been more potent than in the churches where the American preoccupation with success has reasserted itself, under "a different view of the significance of time," in the quest of eternal salvation. The poorer the congregation the greater the emphasis put upon other worldly success; in rich congregations it suffices to soothe the church members with sensuous rituals. This is not Professor Laski's notion of true religion, which he thinks should consist of a militant and revolutionary program of social and economic reforms. The Protestant Church members, whether broad, high or fundamentalist, are little concerned about dogmas, but are almost exclusively interested in ethics. They wish to be persuaded that all the evils of society could be remedied by a universal application of the Golden Rule and that such calamities as strikes, depressions and New Deal legislation are condign punishments visited upon businessmen who have been remiss about loving their neighbors. This, of course, is of a piece with the widely prevalent American superstition that questions of good and evil can be reduced to questions of good and bad men, that political abuses, for example, can be eliminated by cleaning out the rascally politicians and putting in virtuous ones. For somewhat different reasons the Roman Catholic Church is also concerned with the preservation of the status quo and of the view of American life which is projected by Hollywood, the Reader's Digest and the magazines of Mr. Henry Luce.

In the field of education and literature the story is much the same. The prevailing values can be repudiated without offending the sensibilities of businessmen only by some form of "reactionary escapism" like Neo-Thomism at the University of Chicago or the nostalgic agrarianism of the Dixie school. Many retreat from the secularist ethos into "a social quietism which takes the evil of the world for granted." The professor agrees that American life tends more and more to a desolating fragmentation; but he insists that there will never be any wholeness in it until the businessmen have recognized the inevitability of socialism. Meanwhile, he finds it significant that the Harvard Report, which had so much to say about the need of general values in education, had nothing to say about the woes of the California fruit pickers or the Negroes of the South.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

American Expectations

"UNTIL then I beg of you," said Senator Vandenberg, "that you give ECA a fair chance." Until when? Until "next January when we shall know whereof we speak. When the second annual appropriation impends, we shall know what kind of job Administrator Hoffman and his staff are doing. We shall know to what extent self-help and mutual cooperation are meeting our "expectations."

LIPPMANN

Though these words were part of Senator Vandenberg's appeal to Congress to honor a solemn commitment, they carry with them an urgent warning to the leading governments of Europe and also to the President and the Department of State. It is a warning that the continuation of ECA is not assured by the original authorization, nor will it be if the Martin-Taber raid is repulsed. It is notice that "a general overhaul," as Mr. Vandenberg put it—that is to say a general reconsideration of the basic policy—will be undertaken by the next Administration and the next Congress. It will be undertaken not merely by the enemies of ECA but by its strongest supporters,—who will then "know to what extent self-help and mutual cooperation are meeting our expectations."

NO DOUBT six months—for that is what it comes to—will seem like an exceedingly short time in which to prove that ECA should be continued. But if the European governments, and particularly the British and French, make a serious effort to understand the real attitude of this country, they will know what kind of action on their part will in fact meet American "expectation."

They will find, I believe, that the key to the mystery is that while the European Recovery Program has been "justified" by a torrent of statistics, in fact this extraordinary enterprise, unique in the history of the world, will have to be justified by intangible, uneconomic, political and moral results. The American people hope, of course, that production will rise, that trade will increase, that inflation will be mastered, and that the balance of payments will be righted. But what they are really looking for are signs which they can take seriously that a new Europe is in the making.

IT IS because signs of that kind are lacking that even the first appropriation for ECA is in danger. For the Martin-Taber attack reflected not so much the strength of the opposition to the recovery program as it did the lack of strong conviction on the part of its supporters. They were absent from the House in large numbers, and those who were present did not fight very effectively. Why? Because, so it seems to me, the governments in Europe and the State Department here have deflated the hopes of the people. In the past few months they have seen "Western Union" degenerate into little more than an impotent military alliance. They have seen the United Nations maltreated. They have seen the Labor government cold shoulder the movement for European union. They have seen their own government invite the Russians to talk, and then unable to think of anything to say.

As a result, if they have not become isolationist, they are certainly disillusionized at the prospect of huge subsidies, huge armaments, and the draft, all at the expense of housing, health, education and internal development, with no progress toward a new and better international order.

THE FAILURE of the European governments and of the State Department to promote the political unity of Europe and to uphold the authority of the United Nations has sapped the only foundation on which sustained American support of the recovery program could rest. No doubt it required high statesmanship to put the program on a constructive foundation. It was much easier to put it across as a measure of the cold war, to depend on the fear of communism rather than on faith in a new democratic order.

But fear will not sustain a continuing effect. It will work for a few emergencies but not for four years. It is good for a sprint but not for a long run. The Russians, once they are bright enough to realize that we are depending on their provocations to generate the steam to carry on, have only to stop being quite so irritating in order to reduce the pressure. Then, no longer frightened but without a sustaining faith in place of their fears, the people's interest languishes. It is languishing now. That is where Martin and Taber saw their opportunity.

THESE ARE the imponderables, I think, which men like Attlee, Cripps, and Bevin, Schumann, Rene Mayer, and Bidault will do well to take very seriously if—six months hence when the ECA must undergo a more crucial test than the Martin-Taber affair—they intend to meet what Senator Vandenberg called American "expectations" about the extent of self-help and mutual cooperation in Europe.

It will not be good enough for them to complain about the uncertainty of American public opinion. If they are fair about it, and also wise, they will recognize that what the American public is being asked to do is something which no people has ever before been asked to do, and that, therefore, this altogether unprecedented enterprise can be sustained only if they contribute to it not merely sweat and austerity but also audacity and faith.

Government to Ask Reports On Progress in Coal Dispute

By the United Press

Determined to head off another strike, the Government will call this week for reports on progress toward a new soft coal wage contract.

The present agreement expires June 30 while the United Mine Workers are taking their annual vacation, and Government quarters said worried Federal officials were anxious to make certain the men return to the pits on July 6, at the end of the holiday.

The Government, a qualified source said, cannot wait beyond this week for agreement on a new contract or for extension of the current one, to make sure that mining will be resumed. They will need all the time they can get to head off a new strike by invoking the Taft-Hartley Act.

No Agreement in Sight

Union President John L. Lewis and the coal operators have given no indication that a new agreement can be reached quickly.

If that situation exists in midweek, some sources predict that Federal Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching would be forced to recommend to the White House that President Truman create an emergency fact-finding board preliminary to obtaining another injunction by the time the mines close for the vacation 11 days hence.

Ching is expected to ask the parties this week about the status of their negotiations.

Lewis began talking in general terms about a new contract Saturday for the first time since he opened negotiatoins with the operators. Te told them they could not expect to get a new agreement without granting a general wage increase.

But he has not indicated how much of an increase or what other terms he would insist upon in a new pact. The operators hoped to get a more detailed picture tomorrow or Tuesday.

They have offered a contract at the same wage rates and the 10 cents per ton contribution to the union welfare and retirement fund. They have offered a detailed $100-a-month pension plan and requested some modifications in overtime penalty clauses.

Lewis has not rejected any or all of the contract. But he has indicated that he would insist on a general wage increase and that many of the provisions are not in acceptable form.

Dixie Snipers Support Veto

By The Associated Press

Dixie Democrats who have been sniping at President Truman yesterday closed ranks to try to make good his veto of a bill protecting ICC-approved railroad rate making from antitrust prosecution.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.) who has been quarterbacking the attack upon the President's civil rights program, told a reporter that Southern Democrats "are going to fight like the devil to sustain him on this."

"He's just as right on this veto as he had been wrong on the misnamed civil rights program," Russell said. "I think we can pick up the votes to sustain the veto because this is just as vital to many Republicans as to the South." (A two thirds majority of those voting is required in each House to override a veto.)

President Truman in rejecting the bill Saturday said it "would permit an important segment of the economy to obtain immunity from the anti-trust laws, and would do so without providing adequate safeguards to protect the public interest."

Supporters contend the bill is necessary to maintin efficient handling of the enormous amount of freight rate details.

The Senate originally passed the bill 60 to 27, or more than a two-thirds margin. It was amended in the House and passed 272-53. Then it repassed the Senate without a record vote.

Senator Russell said he agreed with everything the President criticized in the bill and added that it "transferred the powers of government to two Wall Street banking firms."

Governors Praise Home States, Are Chary on National Politics

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Portsmouth, N. H., June 13.—One might be led to believe that the Governors of America's 48 States are shrinking violets, after a day with 25 of them at this year's National Governors' Conference here.

With the Republican National Convention 10 days away, and with politics boiling everywhere else in the country, Wentworth-by-the-Sea today is quiet.

Only 25 of the 52 Governors of the States and Territories are here. Most of them are willing and anxious to talk, but only about the splendid conditions that prevail in the political subdivisions they govern.

Warren Boosts California

Governor Warren of California today told reporters about how congested California's highways are with four million automobiles registered in his State. He told how free California is of indebtedness—due, of course, to efficient administration. But as to national politics he could only answer: "I think that is outside the pale of this conference."

Governor Dewey arrived early this evening.

Perhap it is not correct to say all were not outspoken. Governor Duff of Pennsylvania answered a Philadelphia political columnist, by declaring that his interest in the national convention was not personal.

"I do not seek and I will not accept any office, either elective or appointive," he said. But also, he wouldn't discuss his favorites at this month's Philadelphia convention. He refused to discuss a report that he was unalterably opposed to Dewey for the GOP nomination.

Youngdahl Backs Stassen

Another bright spot in the picture of evasion was Governor Youngdahl of Minnesota, who carried the banner for his predecessor, Harold E. Stassen. Youngdahl declared he would do all he could at this meeting for Stassen; he predicted that Stassen would have more than 200 votes on the first ballot, and then added that they would stick to Stassen against any blandishments.

Governor Green of Illinois, keynoter at next week's convention, flatly refused to talk convention politics. He was willing to discuss the failings of the Democratic Party and the fine administration Illinois has had in recent years. But America will have to wait for his appearance on the rostrum next week to learn more.

Matter Of Fact

Fear In France

PARIS—Before the end of the six-power London conference on a western German government, American Ambassador Lewis Douglas turned to French Ambassador Rene Massigli and asked a question which sent a shiver down the spine of official Paris. If the Russians attempted to compel the Western powers to leave Berlin, Douglas asked, would the French government be willing to back the United States in the use of force? Massigli referred the question to the French Foreign Ministry. The answer, stripped of diplomatic decoration, was succinct. It took the form of another question: "What force?"

Better than any others, those two words epitomize the sense of terrible insecurity which colors all French thinking today. For the French, and with some reason, feel naked and exposed. Behind the bitter debate on the west German agreement, behind the French reaction to the new Russian moves in Berlin, lies fear—the fear of another war and another occupation, which a weakened France would be wholly powerless to prevent.

Again and again, the reporter in Paris hears the same argument. With America rearming, with the birth of Western Union, with the Communist political offensive in western Europe stopped dead in its tracks, the military position of the Soviet sphere is certain constantly to deteriorate in relation to the West. The Kremlin must know this. The Kremlin must also know that today nothing stands between the Red army and the Atlantic but some Anglo-American police battalions and the eight or ten miserably underequipped divisions of France and the Benelux countries. What more logical than that the Kremlin should seize the opportunity before it is too late? As for the atomic bomb, "Your bomb is no doubt a pretty little thing, but how will it help us here in Paris?"

IN PART, this sort of thing can no doubt be written off as propaganda for the French position on Germany and for American help in rearming France. Yet the fear is real. Above all the French fear another occupation by a foreign army, this time with the cooperation of a powerful political minority, the Communist Party. As one Frenchman put it to this reporter, "No doubt you would liberate us in the end. But in the meantime the Communists would have grafted a new political skin on France, in such a way that you could not remove the skin without killing the organism."

In the comfortably distant United States, such fears may seem neurotic. Yet they exist, and the fact is that they have been consistently aggravated by a whole sequence of events in which the United States has played a major part.

About two months ago, the French leaders were happily if erroneously convinced that, in exchange for French agreement on the formation of a western German government, the United States would quickly throw its whole vast weight behind western Europe and France. It was expected, first, that the United States would make some formal commitment to Western Union, and second, that the United States would proceed this year to help the Western Union countries, and above all France, to rearm themselves.

These hopes seemed about to be fulfilled when the joint military staffs of the Western Union countries, meeting in London, received an urgent request from Washington for an estimate of their military requirements. The estimate was hurriedly drawn up and dispatched to Washington. Then nothing more was heard from across the Atlantic. But this was only the first in a series of shocks and disappointments which have had a profound psychological effect in Paris.

WHEN NO RESPONSE was forthcoming on the Western Union estimate of requirements, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault sent the first of three notes to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, requesting a meeting in Washington. This request, like two which followed in subsequent weeks, was refused, simply because Washington knew that Bidault was certain to ask immediate help in rearming France, and Washington also knew that at the present time it was politically impossible to fulfill this request. But while this exchange was in progress, the famous Smith-Molotov exchange was published in Moscow. The French immediately—and of course quite wrongly—suspected that a deal between Moscow and Washington was about to be arranged, perhaps on the Munich pattern, in which French interests would be sacrificed.

The next step in this sequence of events was the question which Ambassador Douglas asked Ambassador Massigli. To the French, at last sadly convinced that neither an American military guaranty nor American help in rearming France would be forthcoming in the near future, this question seemed to imply the likelihood of a war—a war in which France would be quickly occupied.

The worst blow of all was of course the last—the action of the American House of Representatives in applying the Taber meat ax to E. C. A. appropriations. This has seemed to many Frenchmen the final, dreary proof that the United States is not a dependable ally in the struggle between East and West, in which France occupies a position so frighteningly exposed. Largely as a result of all this (partly, too, as a result of the endless instability of the French government) official Paris now suffers from a sense of insecurity which gives rise in some quarters to something close to downright hysteria. This profound feeling of insecurity, whether or not it is justified, is about the most important political fact on the Continent today. Election year or no election year, it is a fact which the American government must recognize, and with which it must be prepared to deal.

U. S. to Seek Ship Strike Ban Today

By the United Press

Federal attorneys will go to court in New York, San Francisco and Cleveland today to seek Taft-Hartley Law injunctions preventing a maritime strike for least 80 days.

Unless the injunctions are issued, 100,000 ship and dock workers on all coasts are set to walk out at midnight Tuesday.

While Justice Department officials refused to discuss the case, it was reported authoritatively that that Government will seek an order calling on maritime unions and companies alike to "maintain the status quo" and do nothing that would interrupt America's vital deep-water shipping industry.

That is the customary type of injunction sought under the "national emergency" strike-prevention clause of the new labor law. In this case, such court order would have the effect of keeping in operation for at least 80 days the union hiring halls which are the major source o fdispute in the threatened strike.

Ship operators contend the hiring halls are a form of the closed shop outlawed by the Taft-Hartley law. They insist that a new contract must give them the right to hire men from non-union sources, as well as through the hiring halls.

The unions want the halls, through which nearly all maritime workers get their jobs, continued as they are.

Maritime Pamphlets Protest Truman Stand

San Francisco, June 13 (AP).—Agents of West Coast maritime unions handed out an "open letter to President Truman" among thousands who came to Golden Gate Park for the President's speech.

The folders protested the President's order permitting injunction action against a national maritime strike set for Tuesday.

The pamphlets asked "is Truman a strikebreaker?" and added "An injunction against a just strike for just demands would make you so in the eyes of all labor organizations on the West Coast."

The folder asked the President to reconsider his action, on the ground that injunctive action was not demanded by the Taft?-Hartley Labor Act as Mr. Truman has claimed.

Tobey Joins Democrats on Trade Pacts

By The Associated Press

Republican Senator Tobey of New Hampshire lined up yesterday with the Democrats in favor of extending the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act without change.

But the New Hampshire lawmaker's backing did not cause Democratic leaders to revise their conclusion that they are fighting for a lost cause. Privately, they concede the Republicans have the votes to revise the trade program, under which the Administration has been negotiating reciprocal tariff cuts with other nations.

Tobey's decision to go along for an "as is" continuance put the first apparent chink in a wall of GOP support the Senate Republican leadership is building for its bill to change the tarifl law.

Actually the foreign trade law expired Saturday midnight. But the act will be revived in some form unless President Truman vetoes—and Congress sustains him—a bill which he felt would not warrant continuing the program.

The Senate has agreed to start voting at 4 p. m. (EST) today on all pending amendments to the Republican-backed bill, and then on the extension measure itself. The bill, approved by the Republican-dominated Senate Finance Committee would extend the act one year beyond last Saturday, with changes.

No Deadlock, He Will Be Nominee, Dewey Declares

Post Reporter

Portsmouth, N. H., June 13.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, upset the quiet of this Governors Conference tonight with a press meeting in the hotel's barroom—closed on Sunday.

Dewey told newsmen he didn't expect a long convention—certainly not a deadlock. He said the outcome depends on the "key States"—the "ones that break first" and declared he was going to be the Republican nominee.

He said he wouldn't, and that nobody associated with him had ever, guessed at the first ballot. But he quoted the New York Sunday Times as saying he would get 329 votes: Taft, 250 and Stassen, 17.

"That," he said, "doesn't seem to me too far away."

He'll be in Philadelphia during the convention. He expects to go there Saturday and will stay at the Bellevue-Stratford. But he hasn't decided yet whether to make his acceptance speech immediately, or whether to make it in Philadelphia.

Students Honored At Georgetown U.

More than a thousand Georgetown University seniors will be graduated at 5 p. m. commencement exercises today.

Jan Ciechanowski, wartime Polish ambassador to the United States, will be the chief speaker at the exercises on the college lawn, or, in the event of rain, in Constitution Hall.

Outstandinf students of the Collefe of Arts and Sciences were honored at tropaia exercises last night on the ve of the 149th annual commencement.

Hundreds of friends of the graduating class and alumni were present in the hilltop guadrangle for the traditional Cohonguroton oration, as the class valedictory is called.

Farewell to Potomac

William J. Craighead of Cleveland, Ohio, elected by student vote for the role, appeared in Indian garb to present the class farewell to the Potomac River, known to early Indians as the Cohonguroton, or river of swans.

The Rev. Charles L. Coolahan, S.J., dean, awarded prizes to college honor men. The university also announced prize awards for outstanding students in the School of Law and the School of Foreign Service.

About 500 visitors attended the outdoor mass for the seniors yesterday forenoon before an improvised altar with an overhead canopy, flanked by palms, gladioli and an American flag.

Baccalaureate Sermon

The Rev. William N. Slavin, class of 1929, chaplain at the Rensselaer Institute, Troy, N. Y., delivered the baccalaureate sermon, urging the seniors to maintain a vision of noble ideals.

Participants in the mass were all Georgetown graduates. The celebrant was the Rev. Eugene T. Kenedy, S.J., class of 1902, of St. Andrew-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The deacon was the Rev. Edward H. Roach, S.J., class of 1916, pastor of St. Jerome Church, Hyattsville, Md., and the subdeacon was the Rev. Vincent Beatty, S.J., class of 1930.

Father Exhumed

Poison Death Of Girl Laid To Mother

Cincinnati, June 13 (AP).—A 43-year-old mother was accused today of the poison slaying of her 11-year-old blonde daughter and, at the same time, the coroner ruled the supposedly natural death of her husband was due to arsenic poisoning.

Mrs. Watts

Mrs. Mary Clay Watts, was charged with first degree murder in the drawn-out death of her daughter, Barbara Ann. No charge was made in the husband's death.

Coroner Herbert Lyle of Hamilton County informed police that the woman's husband, Willis, died in 1944 of arsenic poisoning. His body was exhumed at Winchester, Ky., a week ago.

"I'm innocent. I didn't kill Barbara Ann," said Mrs. Watts.

She steadfastly refused to submit to a lie detector test.

Barbara Ann died May 15. She weighed 63 pounds at the time. In September, 1947, she was stricken by a mysterious malady and she made many trips to the hospital.

After her death, an autopsy indicated the fifth grade student had received small amounts of mercury by mouth over a long period of time.

Welfare Talks Called Here

when hospitalization of patients will be well under way.

He said yesterday that he expects the greatest added burden to the Welfare Department will come in the general classifications of aid to dependent children, where one or both parent "breadwinners" might be hospitalized; and in the general public assistance category, where both individuals and families now receive welfare funds.

The welfare director already is keeping a close watch on case openings and case closings in the department. Tramburg hopes within the near future to have assembled full data on the number of tuberculosis victims whose families already are seeking aid.

With $50,000 snipped off Commissioner's estimates of general public assistance needs for 1949 in the Senate, the welfare department is facing a new fiscal year with little leeway in its public aid program.

Tramburg took note of this yesterday when he indicated that if the impact of the tuberculosis survey proves to be immediate, and heavy, he will ask Welfare Board Chairman Edgar L. Morris to intercede for the department with the District Commissioners.

Those who have been asked to attend Tuesday's conference are Major Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of the Metropolitan Police; Lieut. William T. Murphy of the Juvenile Bureau; Judge Fay Bentley, Juvenile Court judge; Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, District Health Department; officials representing the hospital permit bureau, officials representing Gallinger Hospital's social service, representatives of the District public school administration, Dr. A. Barklie Coulter, director of the District Health Department's Tuberculosis Control Bureau, and a representative of District Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler.

June 30 Deadline For Chest X-Rays

There is still time for any District resident 15 years or older to have a free chest X-ray taken—but the final June 30 deadline is getting closer.

The 19 mobile X-ray units scattered throughout Washington have already been used by 462,000 District residents. The chest survey, sponsored by the D. C. Health Department, the U. S. Public Health Service and the D. C. Tuberculosis Association, has been extended two weeks past its original June 15 deadline.

Telephone Union Votes Study on Joining AFL, CIO

Spokane, Wash., June 13 (AP).—The Communications Workers of America reversed its previous position yesterday and passed a resolution to pave the way for possible affiliation with the CIO or AFL.

The independent telephone workers union ended its national convention after it authorized a committee to investigate possibilities of joining one of the two major labor organizations. A vote taken late Friday by the delegates to the national convention of the 230,000-member union rejected a motion to affiliate with one of the major unions.

Yesterday the discussion was reopened. President Joseph A. Beirne was authorized to appoint a committee which will investigate the organization's possible status under the CIO or AFL unions.

Other resolutions passed included endorsement of the Democratic party platform for the past 15 years and a proposal to amend the Social Security Act to embrace workers excluded from its benefits.

Reward Fails To Aid Police In Bomb Case

Arlington police are doing "everything we can" to solve the mysterious bomb death of William A. Denekas, Police Chief Harry L. Woodyard said yesterday.

Still questioning persons who might be able to shed light on the week-old killing, police have given no indication they expect an early arrest.

Chief Woodyard said yesterday that despite an offer by the Arlington County Board of a $500 reward for information police have received no useful tips.

Woodyard said that before publication of the reward announcement police had received about 25 anonymous calls. Only one or two have come in since the reward announcement, he said.

Denekas, 30-year-old electrician and former coowner of the Old Dominion Neon Sign Co., was slain Monday at about 11 a. m. when he stepped on the starter of his car, setting off an explosion which rocked the N. 21st st. neighborhood. Denekas roomed in the home of Mrs. Lorena Strader at 5837 N. 21st st.

Sea Scout Badly Burned

Bridge where M st. se. extended meets River rd.

A freight car, bound for Camden, N. J. from the Potomac yards, blocked the tracks and two of the boys climbed over the couplings between the cars, police learned.

The Lindgren boy, however, climbed a ladder to the top of one of the cars, according to his companions, who said they warned him not to.

Houston and Axon said they heard a sharp "crack," and a third Sea Scout, Gary Long, 15, of 4016 7th st. ne., said Lindgren toppled from the car toward the north side of the tracks.

A scorched hole in Lindgren's Sea Scout cap indicated his head touched the 25,000-volt wire, police said. The boy could have received the wire charge, without touching the wire, if he came within 18 inches of it, according to police.

Slept on Boat

Lindgren slept on the Sea Scouts' boat, the SSS Crescent, Friday and Saturday nights, according to his mother, Mrs. Roy A. Lindgren, but came home Saturday during the day to pick up some provisions. The boy's father is with the Public Buildings Administration.

Mrs. Lindgren said Roy jr., has spent his weekends on the Crescent, a 38-foot converted Coast Guard patrol boat, since he joined the troop about a month ago. He is an Apprentice Sea Scout, and is chief cook on the Crescent.

Dennis Houston said the boys had planned to take a cruise yesterday. The boat contains a two-burner stove, and sleeps four.

Roy, jr., a 'sophomore at Anacostia High, has two sisters, Janet, 11, and Joyce, 5.

Board to Discuss D. C. School Needs

The Board of Education will meet with interested residents Thursday to consider school needs in connection with the 1950 budget.

Mrs. Elise Z. Watkins, secretary, announced yesterday that the session will be held at 8 p. m. in the Thomson School, 12th and L st. nw. She invited representatives of citizens' associations, parent-teacher groups and other organizations to attend but urged that they notify her in advance.

Rutgers Confers Degree Upon Gen. Eisenhower

New Brunswick, N. J., June 13 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Rutgers University today at its 182d commencement.

The president of Columbia University, former supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, was one of 10 persons who received honorary degrees. Some 1200 baccaulaureate and advanced degrees also were given.

194,236 Flew Atlantic In '47 on Airline Planes

The Air Transport Association reported yesterday that 194,236 persons flew the Atlantic on commercial planes last year, more than half of them citizens of foreign nations.

Association Vice President M. F. Redfern said the travelers favored United States flag airlines by nearly 3 to 1. Of the total, 141,703, or 73 per cent, traveled on the three American flag lines.

Fatal Malady Balks Doctors In Honolulu

Honolulu, June 13 (AP).—Medical researchers say they are baffled by a mysterious and fatal "nightmare" illness plaguing Hawaii's Filipino community.

More than 83 young, healthy Filipino men have been stricken in the last 11 years. All died mysteriously in the night under similar circumstances, victims of a malady that so far defies explanation.

Dr. Alvin V. Majoska, Honolulu city-county pathologist, said Hawaiian doctors "have been aware of a peculiar syndrome (ailment) affecting young male Filipinos for at least 11 years.

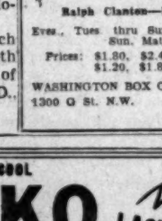
"Young male Filipinos retire in apparently the best of health, then expire sometime during the night. The death is usually preceded by gasping, groaning, moaning or choking," the doctor reported.

Post-mortem shows an inflamed and bleeding pancreas, such as might be caused by a body blow.

The disease apparently does not affect other races, Majoska said. "A review of medical literature has failed to reveal any description of a similar situation," he declared.

Anthony O'Flynn To Be Ordained Into Priesthood

The Rev. Anthony C. O'Flynn, a former circulation department employe of the Washington Daily News, will be ordained into the Catholic priesthood today at St. Marys, Kans.



O'Flynn

The ordination will take place in the Immaculata Chapel, St. Mary's College. Father O'Flynn, who studied at Hubbard School, Sacred Heart Academy, Gonzaga High School and Catholic University here, entered the novitiate of the Jesuit Order at Grand Coteau, La., in 1936.

Next Sunday at 12:15 p. m., he is scheduled to sing his first solemn mass at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, 16th st. and Park rd. nw., here.

Roman Era Evidence Found in Azerbaijan

London, June 13 (U.P.).—Finding of the first actual evidence of the Roman era in Azerbaijan was reported today by the Moscow radio.

The broadcast said a six-line Latin inscription had been found 37 miles south of Baku by Jafar Zade, an Azerbaijanian archaeologist.

The inscription, whose 6-inch letters referred to the Twentieth Legion, dated back to the time of Emperor Domitian, 81 to 96 A. D., the report said.

One on the Aisle—

This Scenarist Couldn't Say No

By Richard L. Coe

"NICHOLAS NICKLEBY," at the Hippodrome, is thick going. Despite a painstaking production and many excellent character portrayals, this British film version of the Dickens novel is heavy handed and dull.

The Dickensians, Im afraid, will not take so forthright a statement lying down, but they'll certainly have to admit that for all the lavish care that's gone into it, this simply is not a good movie. But because they're a dogged breed, there's much detail they will relish.

For the rest of the world, though, "Nicholas Nickleby" will seem incredibly windy and stilted, a story that rambles along to an obvious ending. Not even so many fine performances will be enough to keep most people from nodding.

The Ealing Studios had its work cut out for it when it tackled this story it took Dickens 450,000 words and 52 characters to tell. And even this brave illiterate can think of at least five Dickens yarns that are better reading than this one. That much can be done with Dickens in the films we all know from the superb film another British firm made of "Great Expectations." The very dullness of "Nicholas Nickleby" on the screen makes the triumph of "Great Expectations" more impressive in retrospect.

Too Many Episodes

As chockful of episodes as are all the Dickens novels, "Nicholas Nickleby" appears to have defeated Scenarist John Dighton by his inability to say no. He's included far too much to follow a clean-cut story line. He omits very little about the poverty stricken young man who goes as a master to Dotheboys Halls and becomes enmeshed in his wicked uncle's schemes. Nicholas has his adventures with the traveling players, he captures the benevolent attention of the Cherryble brothers, becomes involved with Madeline Bray and unravels the fact that his young student, Smike, is his uncle's long concealed son.

Naturally, such a story imposes tremendous demands on a scenarist, but unlike the Lean-Neame production of 'Great Expectations," fitting the pieces together entertainingly has been too much for Dighton.

But in appeasing the Dickensians who would have howled at the ommission of many of the favorite characters, Dighton has taken great care. With some of England's finest players to act the parts, the characters are all there in fine detail. You'll admire Alfred Drayton's Squeers, Sybil Thorndike's Mrs. Squeers, Roy Hermitage, as their fat, wretched son, Athene Seyler's Miss LaCreevy, Aubrey Woods' Smike, Fay Compton's Mme. Mantalini, Vera Pearce's enormous—and funny—Mrs. Crummles and Tim Bateson's Lord Verisopht. Since characters are the essence of Dickens. Scenarist Dighton certainly was on the right track, but too many good characters can only hold back the pace of a story.

The costumes and settings are sketches brought to life, but unfortunately Director Cavalcanti and Producer Michael Balcon have gone a bit too far in this direction with the result that many of the scenes are far too dark and add a further heaviness to the weight of the script. Nor does the soundtrack strike these ears as being very good, though that very well might be the fault of the print.

Derek Bond is thoroughly acceptable in the title role and Cedric Hardwicke is as mean as you know he would be as the conniving uncle. There is a fine portrayal from Bernard Miles, as Newman Noggs, outstanding even in so skilled a company.

However, fine as are the careful production and the acting, "Nicholas Nickleby" is a disappointment as a picture.

"NICHOLAS NICKLEBY." Eagle-Lion release produced at Ealing Studios (England) for J. Arthur Rank by Michael Balcon. Screen play by John Dighton from the novel by Charles Dickens. Directed by Cavalcanti. Music by Lord Benners played by the Philharmonic Orchestra. Photography by Gordon Dines. At the Hippodrome.

THE CAPITOL has its welcome mat out today for the Georgia Tech Glee Club, which will be part of the stage show for this day only.

And it's an extra-welcome mat, for the Capitol's chieftain is Georgia Tech's Carter Barron, who's played host to all the biggest theater notables who've ever come this way, but none has ever gotten a more solid welcome than the Georgia Techsters will be getting from their host, class of '27.

There are 35 men in the club, but they've got a feminine songbird along, too. Walter Herbert is conducting the glees on this junket, which is taking the club into a good many cities far from home.

You can bet they'll sing "Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech" and that if your Georgia friends aren't home, you'll sho nuff catch them at the big house on F st.

Prisoner in Attack On Officer Killed

A prisoner, arrested on a drunk charge, was fatally shot by a policeman whom he attacked with a knife early yesterday.

The victim was identified as John Jackson, 29, a laborer, of 1724 8th st. nw. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Freedmen's Hospital from a bullet wound in the middle of his back.

The policeman, Pvt. Clinton F. Brown, 31, attached to the Second Precinct, was reelased in the custody of his commanding officer for appearance today at 11:30 a. m. at a coroner's inquest into Jackson's death.

Police gave this account of the shooting:

Shortly after 1 a. m., a patrol wagon with Brown in charge responded to 7th and M sts. nw., where two policemen were holding Jackson. Pvts. Louis B. Anderson and Shelton H. Nuttall, both of the Second Precinct, had arrested Jackson on a drunk charge in a routine check of restaurants in the 1200 block of 7th st. nw., they said.

Brown placed Jackson in the patrol wagon and the driver, Pvt. William B. Whitlock, drove to the Second Precinct station at 6th st. and New York ave. nw.

When Brown ordered Jackson out of the wagon, Jackson jumped down and lunged at the policeman with an open pocket knife, Brown said. The knife cut across his badge, according to Brown. The two scuffled, Jackson broke away and started staggering toward 5th street.

Brown said he fired two shots from his .38 caliber service revolver after ordering Jackson to halt. The man staggered on about 50 feet and collapsed, he said. One of the bullets had entered his back and lodged in his heart, according to police. He was rushed to Freedmen's Hospital in the patrol wagon.

Homicide squad detectives said an open pocket knife was found near the edge of the sidewalk where Jackson had left the patrol wagon. They said Brown's police badge showed fresh scratches.

Police records showed Jackson had been arrested several times in the last six years. He was sentenced to serve 60 days in 1943 on a charge of threats, was arrested n 1945 for being involved in a fight, and was found guilty of being drunk on three occasions.

Brown, who lives at 5301 Branch ave. se., has been a member of the police force for 5½ years.

AN OPEN LETTER TO CONGRESS AND THE AMERICAN PEOPLE:

243 MEMBERS OF BOTH HOUSES OF CONGRESS APPEARED AT HEARINGS during this session to express their approval of legislation providing wage increases for the people who operate the federal government and its postal service.

AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY OF THE MEMBERS OF BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE favor immediate legislation granting these long overdue wage adjustments. We base this statement of fact on personal contacts and knowledge of written commitments by Members of Congress to the American people.

THE LEADERS IN CONGRESS HAVE THE MORAL RESPONSIBILITY OF ALLOWING the majority of the Congress and the American people to have an opportunity to express their will on this subject. WE ARE CERTAIN that the American people want legislation to grant a reasonable salary increase to the underpaid postal and federal employees to be at the top of any "MUST" list of work to be completed by the 80th Congress.

WE ASK OUR FRIENDS IN CONGRESS TO IMPRESS UPON THE LEADERSHIP the fact that they have pledged themselves to enactment of an adequate salary increase for the people who serve our Government.

WE ASK THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AGAIN TO INFORM THEIR SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES that they want the Government to provide a decent standard of living for all postal and other federal employees.

WE URGE THE CONGRESS TO GRANT AN ADEQUATE SALARY INCREASE PRIOR TO ANY RECESS OR ADJOURNMENT.

THIS IS THE HOUR OF DECISION!

Nats Beaten, 9-3, 9-2, Tigers Sweep 4-Game Series

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE as usual has the best pennant race. For the club owners it's the dream season, with a seven-team cluster for first place and pennant hopes alive everywhere but Chicago.

POVICH

The tightness of the National League race was best illustrated by the Sunday morning statistics, showing the fourth-place Cardinals only a game and half out of the lead. It could have happened that the fourth-place team of yesterday would be leading the league this morning.

Even the last-place Cubs are closer to the league lead than are the fourth-place Tigers of the American League. For the National League it means tremendous profits with a run-away by the Cleveland Indians threatens to reduce the A.L. race to an empty battle for second place.

The Yankees for example are in the wrong league. With a record of 27 wins and 21 losses they were in third place, six games behind the leading Indians on Sunday morning. In the National League at this point, that record would find the Yanks tied for the lead.

INCIDENTENALLY, the Yanks haven't distinguished themselves by their trades of the last couple of years. At a time when they have a second base problem (George Stirnweiss can't hit and Bobby Brown can't field) ex-Yankee Joe Gordon is one of the reasons the Indians are on top. Gordon is playing the best second base in the league and the other day he hit his sixth seventh and eighth homers of the season, against the Yanks, of all people.

Two years ago, the Yankees in their eagerness to acquire Allie Reynolds from the Indians, gave up a young pitcher named Gene Bearden along with Gordon in the swap. Beardon was tossed into the deal like the thirteenth bun in a baker's dozen with no great sense of loss by the Yankees. He's been pitching better ball than Reynolds this year.

In desperation the Yankees gave up their best catcher, Aaron Robinson to acquire Ed Lopat from the White Sox. Lopat was the guy who would round out their pitching staff, the Yankees reasoned. He's been a flop, winning only two against five defeats and a rookie named Bill Wight who also went to the White Sox in the deal has been a better pitcher than Lopat, shutting out the Yankees on one occasion.

THE ENIGMA of the American League still continues to be the Red Sox. The futility of the Boston pitching is no surprise (it never looked good, even on paper) but the dismal failure of Joe McCarthy's hitters is unaccountable.

They were supposed to be the wrecking crew of the American League—Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr, Vern Stephens, Johnny Pesky, Stan Spence and Sam Mele—but only Williams has been hitting the ball hard. They've been a one-man ball club all season, and unfortunately Williams can't get to bat more than four or five times a day.

Rated an even favorite with the Yankees before the season opened, the Red Sox are now under more pressure than any other club in the league and its being manifested in their daily play. The three guys preceding Williams in the batting order are not even swinging, according to one Boston critic, who says "they're up there trying to wheedle walks and hope Williams will bat 'em around."

SID HUDSON has been belted out in all of his last eight starts and that's where he came in with the Washington club, nine years ago. He didn't win any of his first eight starts, but before his first season was over, he was a rookie sensation with 17 victories.

Any day now, Hudson may abandon his side-arm delivery that he adopted this year following a shoulder injury last season. It was a complete change-over for Hudson, who had been a good pitcher over-hand. He switched to side-arm and its lack of pain for him, but he's also experiencing a lack of victories.

Yanks Whip Feller, 5-3; Phil Rizzuto, Berra Homer

New York, June 13 (AP).—Home runs by Yogi Berr and Phil Rizzuto, each with a man on base, enabled the New York Yankees to inflict a 5-3 defeat upon Bobby Feller today, and salvage the last of a four-game series with the league leading Cleveland Indians.

A crowd of 49,641 which helped set a three-day series record of 186,151 spectators, saw Feller suffer his sixth setback against five victories.

Trailing 5-1, the Indians threw a scare into the Yankees in the ninth, scoring tw oruns to chase Pitcher Ed Lopat to the showers. Reliable Joe Page came in to strike out Ed Robinson with the potential tying runs on the bases.

Lopat Winner

Although tagged for 10 hits including Jim Hegan's third home run in the ninth, Lopat managed to register his third triumph, his first since May 19.

Feller had a 1-0 lead going into the sixth. With one out Joe DiMaggio cracker the first of his two triples and rode in on Berra's blast into the right field stands.

The Yankees added three more runs in the eighth to sew up the game. DiMaggio again started things with a triple off Gene Bearden, who had replaced Feller in the seventh.

Browns, Macks Trade; A's Lose, 7-5, Win 3-1

Philadelphia, June 15 (AP).—Carl Scheib pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns today giving the A's an even split in a twin bill. The Browns won the first game, 7-5, with a six-run uprising in the eighth inning off Lou Brissie and Nelson Potter.

The opener was the Brownies' first victory over the A's this season after five straight defeats.

Jake Goes Up

NAT CATCHER Jake Early leaps high into the air for Ed Stewart's throw in sixth inning of first Nat-Detroit game yesterday—but by the time he came down to earth he was too late to get Detroit's third baseman, George Kell, coming into the plate. Kell scored on Hoot Evers' single. The umpire is Johnny Stevens. (Note ball in Jake's glove.) Nats lost, two games, 9-3, 9-2

Braves Split; Sauer Slams Homers 18, 19

Cincinnati, June 13 (AP).—Boston's Braves bounced back into a tie for the National League leadership today by sinking the Cincinnati Reds 8-7 and 10-5 in a doubleheader before a crowd of 30,590.

A ninth inning rally won the first game for the Braves and they shelled Ewell Blackwell from the mound to take the second game. Hank Sauer of the Reds hit his eighteenth and nineteenth home runs and tripled in the second game.

The Reds blew a six-run lead in the first game as the Braves came through with two five-hit four-run innings.

Eddie Stanky singled in Bobby Sturgeon with the winning run in the ninth after Sturgeon hand singled to score Phil Masi and tie the game. In the second game, Boston drove Blackwell off the mound with a five run blast in the eighth.

Browns Coach Dismissed by County Board

Frederick, Md., June 13 (AP).—Mike Hardy, football coach and assistant physical education instructor at Frederick High School, has been dismissed by the county board of education.

Hardy, a Navy veteran, had been coach at Frederick since October, 1945. He said he will study at New York University for a master's degree in supervisory administration of physical education.

Hardy is the brother of Joe Hardy who was dismissed from his post as teacher-coach at Middletown this spring. He contested the dismissal but it was upheld by the board of education.

A letter sent to Mike Hardy and signed by Superintendent E. W. Pruitt, gave no reason for the dismissal other than stating that his services no longer were required.

Whitehouse Wins Outboard Race

New York, June 13 (AP).—John R. Whitehouse, 27-year-old marine hardware manufacturer making his second start in the Albany to New York outboard motorboat race, today won the 136-mile grind down the Hudson River in record-breaking time.

The Springfield, Mass., driver was clocked in 3 hours, 43 minutes and averaged 36.1 miles per hour. Besides the victor, 13 other boats bettered the record average time of 31.7 set by Vic Scott of Forest Hills, N. Y., last year. Scott finished second this year after leading for most of the race.

GW Walloped By Tar Heels, 10-0, in NCAA

Charlotte, N. C., June 13.—North Carolina's Tarheels routed George Washington University, 10-0, to win the District Three NCAA baseball championship here today.

The triumph enabled the Tar Heels to gain the Eeastern playoffs at Winston-Salem Tuesday through Friday.

In chalking up his second shutout of the playoffs, DeLorenzo struck out nine Georgee Washington batsmen and didn't give up a single base on balls as he limited GW to five scattered hits. Only extra base hit off DeLorenzo was a bouble by Frank Cavallo, who was left stranded.

The Tarheels hopped on Clarence Becraft for two runs in the first inning and notched another pair in the second off Becraft and Pete Labukas.

In the seventh, the North Carolinians, who dropped a 5-4 decision to the Colonials in the first meeting of the teams Saturday night, hopped on Labukas and Clarence (Curly) Kuldell for six runs to put the game far out of George Washington's grasp.

Cubs Defeat Dodgers, 3-1

Chicago, June 13 (AP).—Johnny Schmitz outpitched Joe Hatten to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-1 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers here today. The Cub southpaw yielded only four hits. The lone run off him was Gil Hodges' third homer of the season; 40,930 saw the game.

The lanky southpaw registered his sixth victory of the season and his third over Brooklyn. In the three Dodger triumphs Schmitz has yielded a total of only two runs.

Bob Scheffing's two-run double in the second inning proved enough to win. However, Andy Pafko added his ninth homer in the fourth inning. He also singled twice to pace the nine-hit assault off Hatten.

Griffs Set Down by Trucks And Trout

By Morris Siegel,
Post Reporter

The Tigers missed their 6:30 train to Detroit yesterday and it was all the fault of six gentlemen listed on the Nat roster as pitchers.

The Washington sextet made the afternoon so thoroughly enjoyable for their Griffith Stadium guests with a 26-hit pitching performance that the Bengals gladly left later, taking with them two more victories, 9-3 and 9-2.

Success in both ends of the doubleheader, witnessed by 16,609 customers, gave the Tigers a clean sweep of the four-game set and left the Nats hanging on to their latest residence, fifth place, by only a few percentage points over the Red Sox, who were rained out.

The 26-hit attack included five doubles, two triples, two home runs. So mighty were the Tiger swats, two of their singles traveled 328 feet.

Against Detroit's T and T combination of Trout and Trucks the Nats collected 13 hits, seven in the opener and six in the nightcap. For trout it was triumph No. 7, for Trucks No.

On the debit side of the ledger, starter Sid Hudson, the first of five pitchers the Griffs employed in the opener, failed to finish what he started for the ninth straight time and was blamed for his sixth setback. Early Wynn was the victim in the second game, his 12-hit pitching bringing him defeat No. 6 against an equal number of victories.

Both teams came out slugging in the first inning of the opener and before the second inning was completed it was pretty obvious that the Nats were going to come out second best.

That's when the Tigers, who had picked up three runs in their first turn at bat, got two more to run their advantage to 5-2 and chase Hudson.

Forrest Thompson took over and got mixed up in a three-hit two-run episode in inning No. 3 and Milo Candini was led to the hill. He went out for a pinch-hitter in the sixth, but did remarkably well during his tenure. He shut out, no kidding, the Detroiters in the fourth and allowed only single runs in the next two rounds. Dick Weltroth and Earl Harrist finished and held the Tigers scoreless the rest of the way.

After the first inning when the Nats drummed up a couple of runs on a walk and two singles, Trout was the bespectacled beauty he's supposed to be. He allowed only four more hits and one run in the rest of the way and chipped in a double and a single to the 14-hit Detroit cause.

Shortstop Johnny Lipon contributed two triples and a single and everybody in the Tiger cast except Catcher Bobby Swift got at least one hit.

Giants Beat Cards, 8-7, Lose, 3 to 2

St. Louis, June 13 (AP).—The New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals split a couple of close decisions today, the Giants winning an 8 to 7 slugfest and the Cards rallying to take the nightcap, 3 to 2, before a crowd of 32,000, largest of the season here.

The victory snapped a five-game losing streak for the Redbirds.

The split put the Birds into a tie for the league lead with the Boston Braves.

Willard Marshall clubbed a home run and Bill Rigney and Bobby Thompson collected two doubles apiece to lead the Giants' hitting.

Army-Navy Golfers Beat Belle Haven

Army-Navy Country Club defeated Belle Haven, 13-5, in a team match yesterday at Army-Navy.

Despite the low team score of 67 achieved by Belle Haven's Col. Ben Schriever and Eddie Edwards, Army-Navy's other two-somes won four matches and tied another in piling up its decisive total.

Three Army-Navy teams scored clean sweeps. Col. Roger Browne and Col. S. F. Giffin paired to win three points, while Lieut. Col. S. G. Smith and Lieut. Col. M. M. Magee and ol. Robert Alan and Adm. J. S. Phillips were the other two-somes to sweep their matches.

Alan Burton, Army-Nnavy professional, and Col. Schriever of Belle Haven tied for low invividual honors with 70s, a stroke ahead of Tommy Rya n,Belle Have pnro.

Key to City Given Zale at Homecoming

Gary, Ind., June 13 (U.P.).—Gary gave the key to the city today to its pride and joy, new Middleweight Champion Tony Zale.

Police estimated 5000 persons massed at the railroad station to greet Zale as he stepped off a train and another 15,000 lined the route of a parade for his victory homecoming.

His wife Adeline and two children, and Gary Mayo Eugene Swartz and other civic leaders met Zale at the station. The blond champ shook hands and waved to the crowd and then stepped into an open convertible with his family for a triumphant procession through Gary streets.

From the Legion Post the victory party moved to the Silver Bell Club of the Polish National Alliance for further festivities. Tonight Zale was to attend a victory ball sponsored by the PNA at Marquette Park Pavilion.

Zale will be honor guest at a luncheon given by the Gary Chamber of Commerce next Wednesday.

Kingan Wins Another One

Iron Man Kingan pitched Triangle to another victory in Prince Georges Suburban League play yesterday, a 4-3 verdict over Greenbelt. Kingan is the 40-year-older who pitched and won a double-header for Triangle last Sunday.

Lee's Tavern trounced Bladensburg, 9-5, in another league game. The scheduled game between Snug Harbor and Randolph Village was declared off when the latter club was dropped from the league for nonpayment of a fine resulting from using ineligible players. Mount Rainier will replace Randolph Village in the league.

Washington College Athletic Head Quits

Chestertown, Md., June 13 (AP).—George Ekaitis, Athletic director at Washington College, said today he will leave that post during the summer to join the Atlantic City school system.

Ekaitis has been associated with the Athletic Department at Washington since 1931, except for time off during the war.

While at Western Maryland College, he was an all-Maryland quarterback and captained the boxing squad in 1930.

Bucs Lose, 8-7, Then Win, 9 to 2

Pittsburgh, June 13 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phils today, taking the nightcap, 9 to 2, after dropping the loosely-played opener, 8 to 7, before 30,385 fans.

The Buccos sewed up on the second contest in the first inning when they scored four runs on a successive single, double, triple and home run. The home run was by Ralph Kiner—his sixteenth of the season. He got No. 17 in the second inning.

In the opener the Pirates had four errors, three of them coming in the eighth inning when the Phils scored three runs on one hit. The Phils had three bobbles.

Kiner, the Pirate slugger, drove in five runs in the nightcap.

Elmer Riddle coasted to his seventh victory of the year in the second game after the Pirates had blasted Schoolboy Rowe and Paul Erickson for nine hits and seven runs in the first two big innings.

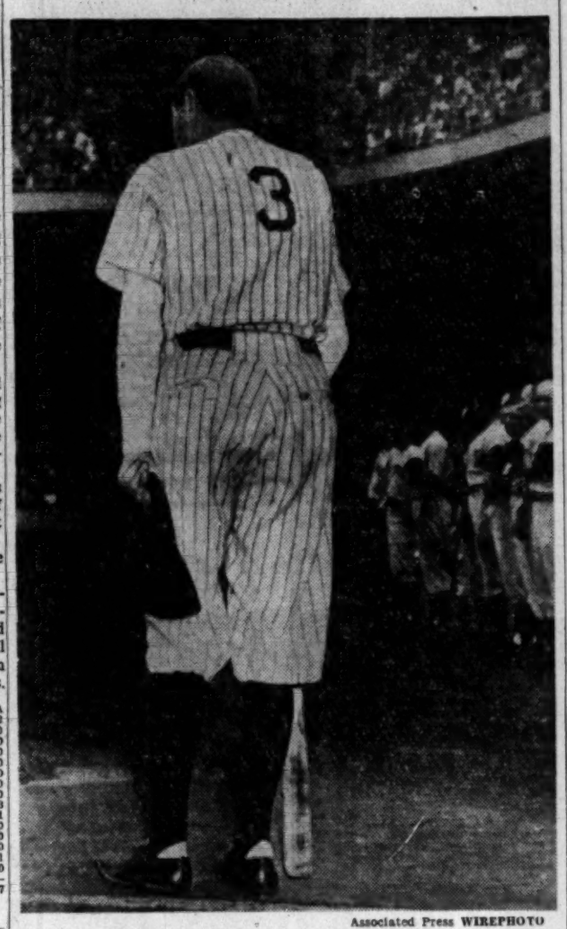
50,000 in Ovation as Babe 'Suits Up' In No. 3 For 25th Anniversary of 'House That He Built'



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

TAKE A GOOD LOOK—Yes, thats Babe Ruth in uniform again with his familiar No. 3 on the back. It was retired officially yesterday and presented to baseball's Hall of Fame. No New York Yankee will ever use that number again. Occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of Yankee Stadium in New York, "the house that Ruth built"

Yanks of Yesteryear On Hand as Uniform Goes to Hall of Fame

By Joe Reichler

New York, June 13 (AP).—Babe Ruth's uniform with the famous No. 3 on the back was officially retired today.

The occasion marked the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Yankee Stadium. In addition to Ruth, all the living members of the 1923 Yankee team were on hand as were stars of other Yankee teams, which included Bill Dickey, Red Rolfe, Lefty Gomez, Joe Gordon and many others.

A crowd of about 50,000 defied rainy weather to witness the celebration.

The fans nearly raised the stadium roof with a tremendous cheer when the Babe was introduced. He came strolling out of the visiting team's dugout, wearing his famous uniform and swinging a bat. He obliged photographers by posing for them with his familiar swing.

Harridge Officiates

Will Harridge, president of the American League, was on hand to make the presentation of Ruth's uniform to baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y.

"As president of the American League, I declare Ruth's uniform officially retired," he said. "It never again will be worn by a Yankee player either at the stadium or on the road. It is worn today by the Babe for the last time.

Stationed at home plate and leaning heavily on his long yellow bat, the Bame, with tears in his eyes, asked to say a few words to the crowd. A hushed silence fell over the throng as the Babe spoke huskily into the microphone.

Barrow Also Honored

"Ladies and gentlemen, I just want to say one thing. I am proud I hit the first home run here against Boston in 1923. It is marvelous to see these 13 or 14 players who were my teammates going back 25 years. I'm telling you it makes me proud and happy to be here. Thank you."

Ruth and Ed Barrow, former business manager and later president of the Yankees, were presented with inscribed watches by current Yankee President Dan Topping. Inscribed on Ruth's watch were the words, "Silver Anniversary (1923-1948) Yankee Stadium—The House That Ruth Built." On Barrow's watch were the words, "Builder of Champions, 1921-1943."

Barrow, who is credited with converting Ruth from a pitcher to an outfielder, hugged and kissed Ruth unashamedly.

Teams on Hand

Immediately after the presentations, the crowd was treated to a two-inning game between the members of the 1923 Yankee team and the Yankee stars of later years. Ruth managed the '23 team and Barrow directed the All-Stars.

Graziano Undergoes Another Exam to Dispel Injury Rumor

Newark, N. J., June 13 (AP).—Rocky Graziano underwent a two-hour medical examination today to put at rest once and for all rumors that he was seriously injured in losing his middleweight title to Tony Zale last Thursday.

State Boxing Commissioner Abe Greene ordered the examination by David A. Flicker, Newark specialist, who had examined Graziano a week before the fight.

The examination disclosed "no neurological impairment" in Graziano, Greene quoted Flicker.

"Any head knockout results in a concussion of some form," said Flicker, "Graziano had a concussion, but the examination today showed results parallel to that before the fight."

At the same time, Ben Bodne, who promoted the fight, had a word about television, there was no television of the Zale-Graziano fight.

"It all depends upon conditions at the time," he observed. "If a fight can be televised without a loss, that's O. K. with me."

He said, however, that he expected to lose $150,000 by televising the fight, and "it wouldn't be good business to allow the match to be put on the screen."

Maryland Post Wins VFW Golf

Potomac Post Nosed Out, 8-7

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Maryland Memorial Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars edged Potomac Post of the VFW, 8-7, yesterday at East Potomac.

Low individual score was recorded by Milton Logan of Potomac who shot a 34—35—69. Al Shord of Maryland matched Logan's outgoing nine, but faded to a 39 coming in and had to be content with a 73.

Joe Micka, of Potomac, and Bob Clark of Memorial Post, staged a side feature to the match when they met in their third playoff for the 1947 VFW tournament. Having tied twice in previous meetings, Micka finally settled the affair by downing Clark, 1 up.

Results:

M. Logan-J. Micka (P), 3; Reed Phippeny-Bob Clark, 0. J. Williams-W. Weisel (P), 2; Frank Clark-Buddy Clark, 1. Al Shorb-John Morton (M), 3; Jack Ray-Gail Wilhelm, 0. Lynn Johnson-Earl Morris (M), 2½; Ed Pekar-John Bachman, ½. Wally Robertson-Ray Barrett (M), 1½; J. Vandergrift-Clarence Wells, 1½.

PRINCE GEORGES—George Voigt, veteran Prince Georges champion, scored 38-39-77 yesterday to win the O. T. Wright Senior tournament trophy at Prince Georges Golf and Country Club. The former Walker Cup star was followed by Forrest Thompson with 78. Paul Griggs and J. C. Johnson tied for top honors in handicap play with 82-11-71 and 83-12-71 respectively.

Tom Lyle scored a hole in one on the 162-yard fourteenth using No. 4 iron. Lyle was playing in foursome comprising Peter Callavini, Dr. Leonard LaVine and Sam Harvey. It was the first hole in one ever seen by any of the men who have been playing golf a combined total of 80 years.

COLUMBIA — Col. and Mrs. John Ives won yesterday's four-ball mixed foursome tournament at Columbia with a combined score less one-half handicap of 168. Second was Mrs. Frank Gross and Jack Straight, 172; followed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lacey and Mrs. W. B. Jarvis and Joe Marr with 188's. Dr. Preston A. In a flag tournament with all entry fees going to the Junior Golfer Fund, J. G. Osborne finished on top, 10 feet from the pin, on the twentieth hole. Second was W. H. Brummett, in the cup on the nineteenth. He was followed by W. R. Considine, 10 feet from the pin on the nineteenth and R. A. Mitchell, 36 feet away on the nineteenth.

CONGRESSIONAL—F. E. McArdle won the President's Cup at Congressional Country Club by downing T. K. Wheeler, 2 and 1 in yesterday's final round. Second flight honors were won by F. B. Bomar who defeated J. F. Woodward, 3 and 2. W. L. Frederick beat J. L. Geddes, 5 and 4 to win the third flight and J. D. Kendall took the fourth flight title by default from J. J. Kennedy.

Martin, Quantico Play on Masonic Benefit Program

Glenn L. Martin's famous Bombers, the baseball variety, will clash with the Quantico Marines in a sandlot game at Griffith Stadium Friday afternoon to highlight the Masonic Night of Thrills.

Both teams are undefeated this season. The Bombers won the All-American Amateur Association championship last year while the Marines were All-Navy champs.

The Silver Spring DeMolay nine will oppose the Alexandria DeMolays in a preliminary game at 1:45 p. m. Tickets are on sale at Masonic Temple, 13th st. and New York ave. nw.

Balderson Paces Elite To 2 Wins

Elite's Ed Balderson hit for the circuit with four singles, two doubles, a triple and a home run in 10 times at bat to spark his mates to wins over North East Body Works, 11-8, and Ahepa, 8-5. Elite climbed into a three-way tie with Taft and Body Works for first place in the City League.

Edsel Mantz led Body Works to a 6- triumph over Taft with three hits which drove in two runs. Other big guns were Pat Barnes of Body Works who slapped four hits in the game with Elite and Hal Nitowitz of Elite who hit four times in the same game.

Philco won a double-header, walking over Bamby, 8-3, and trouncing the Merchandise Plumbers, 9-6. Bornstein also chalked up two wins as it beat Griffith Consumers, 9-6, and handed Bamby its second loss, 6-1.

Government Insurance Pitcher Joe Graves tossed a one-hit,14-strikeout 5-2 decision over Griffith Consumers after Insurance had lost its first game, 9-1, to Merchandise Plumbers.

Ben Hogan Scotches Rumors He Will Limit Golf Activities

Los Angeles, June 13 (AP).—Ben Hogan, the new United States Open champion, spent an unusual day today. He did not play golf.

Hogan, whose 72-hole total of 276 earned him his first triumph after many tries in the event and broke the tournament record by five strokes, plans to rest here a day or so before hitting the golf trail again.

His next appearance will be in the Inverness Round-Robin Four-Ball Tournament at Toledo, Ohio, June 24, and his partner will be the man he beat for the title yesterday, Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Tex.

Hogan, contrary to rumor, said he did not plan to limit his golfing activities. He said he would play in as many tournaments as possible and could not "afford" to confine his play merely to the big events.

Hogan regained the lead to win the title and $2000 first money in yesterday's 36-hole battle by shooting rounds of 68-69 over the par 71 Riviera Country Club course. At the same time Demaret was shooting the same score, playing in a threesome nearly an hour ahead of Hogan.

"Yes," said Hogan in answer to a question, "I knew all the time what Jimmy was doing and I knew what I had to do to stay in front."

Demaret wound up with a 68-69 for 278. Just about that time Hogan made the turn into the last nine holes, and on the tenth of the afternoon round sank a 15-foot putt.

"That putt, I think, probably won the title," said the 35-year-old Hogan.

The previous 72-hole record for the tournament was 281, set by Ralph Gulhahl, at Detroit, in 1937. Hogan, Demaret and Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., the latter with a pair of 170s for the final rounds, eclipsed the mark and it is doubtful that Hogan's remarkably low score will be bettered for sometime.

Trailing behind these three, and all contenders at one stage or another, were Bobby Locke of South Africa with final scores of 73—70—282, Sam SEnead, the leader at the midway point, with 73—72—283, and the defending champion, Lew Worsham, with 71—73—285.

Hogan, onetime Fort Worth, Tex., caddy, became the only man in the records to win both the United States Open and the PGA match play championship in the same year since Gene Sarazen achieved the honor in 1933.

The only major title which Hogan has not won is the Masters tournament. He tied for the honor with Byron Nelson but lost in the playoff in 1942 and was runner-up in 1946.

Bunker Hill Edges Ft. DuPont, 3-1, to Retain Junior Legion Lead

Costello, GPO Also Triumph

Bunker Hill maintained its leadership in the Junior American Legion Baseball League yesterday by squeezing past Fort DuPont, 3-1, on the East Ellipse. It was the second straight triumph for the undefeated Hillmen.

Gonzaga High Catcher Johnny Hogan starred as GPO whipped Halloran-Murray, 6-3. Hogan's double to deep center drove in three runs in the winners' big fourth when four GPO runs scored.

Costello won a wild 9-2 decision from Fort Stevens. The winners tallied six times in the third inning and raked Pitcher Jim Hickey for a total of 12 hits. Jack Wade had four of them. Four Steven errors contributed to the carnage.

National Cathedral had little trouble taking an 8-4 decision from Thad Dullin. The winners scored five times in the third inning and were never headed. Joe Eynon neatly scattered seven hits and was seldom in trouble.

Griffs Lose Doubleheader

Hoot Evers' single propelled them into a 2-0 lead in the first inning. They held that margin only until the next frame when Ed Stewart's triple and Mickey Vernon's fly added up to the first Nat tally.

Wakefield, Mullin Homer

As far as the eventual outcome was concerned, the Bengals wrapped up the game in the third inning. They went to work on Wynn with gusto when Eddie Lake socked the first of his two doubles and George Kell followed with his double. Dick Wakefield entered the hit column for the first time during the game with his second home run of the season.

Leading 5-2, he Tigers upped it to 8-2 in the eighth. They made it 9-2 in the ninth when Pat Mullin slammed his eighth homer of the year so high and hard over the right field fence that the ball cleared the trees behind the barrier and was sailing in the direction of the Howard Theater when last seen.

Emulating Coan's feat in the opener, Gillenwater fanned to end the after-piece.

IN SHORT—Fred Hutchinson of the Tigers, has succeeded Johnny Murphy of the Red Sox, as American League players' representative on the major league player-owner committee . . . the rival second baseman, Kozar and Lake, were injured on Lake's sacrifice in the second game. Lake spiked Kozar and then tripped over the bag. Both were able to resume play, however . . . Nat friends of Charlie Caldwell, Prince Georges County policeman slain Saturday, donated almost $200 to the family of the officer. He was an immensely popular figure at Griffith Stadium

Anything Can Happen

One of Joe DiMaggio's fans decided to get into the act yesterday at Yankee Stadium and got thrown out at second. It happened his way: This unidentified fan ran into centerfield in the sixth inning of the show DiMaggio some pictures. He eluded police and made this slide into second base where umpire Cal Hubbard (right) took him in tow. That's shortstop Phil Rizzuto slapping his knee in glee at the left.

A cool-running motor pays off in longer life and better performance. Use clean water in the cooling system and keep it at proper level at all times. If cooling efficiency drops, gasoline consumption and motor wear go up!

What's the Nimblest Number on the highway?

THAT'S a big question, taking in a lot of territory, and we'd be the last to deny you the right to your opinion.

But, sir—before you slip up behind this tidy SUPER with the idea of giving it the go-by, better figure what you're up against!

It's big, certainly—six-persons roomy and two-tons hefty as it takes to the road.

But take a look at the size of that bonnet—it isn't there just for show! It's filled to the brim with straight-eight power—and a very special kind of power at that.

For Buick's the only car on the road today that puts Fireball power under your treadle foot.

It's the only car in which pistons are specially shaped to roll each tiny fuel charge into a compact ball that lets loose with extra lift and surge.

A swing of the wheel, and this low-swung carriage takes curves with the ease and sureness of straightaways.

As for rough spots, even they won't slow you down, so smoothly does this beauty take all kinds of going in its stride.

You can see, of course, how steady it is. How the body rides level and unperturbed while four soft coil springs soak up the jars and jolts.

As for handling, well once you've tried it, we know exactly what you'll do.

Efficiency Ratings At RFC Result in Raised Eyebrows

EFFICIENCY RATING officials are eyeing suspiciously the results of ratings at the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This is the story:

More than 55 per cent of all RFC employes were rated excellent, and very good ratings were given the vast majority of the raminder. RFC employes are good, but are they that good?

A legitimate complaint against the rating system is its lack of uniformity. An employe who would be rated "excellent" in one office is given a "good" rating in another, and vica versa. The RFC bears testimony to this practice.

It just happens that RFC is making a lay-off, and there is reason to believe that wholesale "excellent" ratings were given a good many employes to help them keep their jobs.

STENOS & TYPISTS who qualify for jobs in Grades 1 through 3 will not be required to file proof of residence forms. They have been exempted from the State quota system for the remainder of this year because of the shortage of eligibles.

Rating notices are going out this week to 4915 people who took the steno-typing exam last February. A total of 2072 typists and 250 stenos were given eligible ratings. Meantime, 6600 people here are being tested this month.

PAY REPORT: This is the do-or-die week for Congress on pay raises. Unless Congress acts this week, the pay campaign will be a dead duck. There's still a chance—a dwindling chance—that Congress will enact a modest bill to help offset higher living costs for Federal workers. Thousands of Government people are writing and calling their legislators to get out a bill. And they have a perfect right to do it.

NOTES: Leroy K. Smith, chief of Agriculture's grain branch, is under consideration for a top post in that department . . . The Navy soon will start moving its top staff to the Pentagon. Between 600 and 800 employes will make the transfer . . . The Maritime Commission will appoint an executive director to handle administrative problems of that agency . . . The Budget Bureau has a staff at work on the Reclamation Bureau's accounting system. The system has been under fire from Capitol Hill.

REVENU: About 1500 new employes will be hired by the Internal Revenus Bureau beginning July 1. All of the additional people will be in the field enforcement staff. The headquarters staff here will remain unchanged. The bureau also has funds to upgrade several thousand of its field enforcement employes. Clifton Stowe has been moved up to the No. 2 spot in the income tax unit. He replaces Fred S. Martin, the new deputy commissioner.

HOUSING is needed for 100 or more employes of the Bureau of Employes Compensation that is being moved back from New York. If you have an apartment or home for rent, please phone the BEC housing committee on Executive 6300, Extension 2833.

CIVIL SERVICE NOTES: Results of last fall's exam for phone operators are in the mail. A total of 786 received passing marks; 418 others were rated ineligible . . . In a few weeks an examination will be announced for advisor in education. The jobs will pay from $7102 to $9975 to start . . . About 500 applications were received for the medical technical assistant examination which was closed on June 1.

STATUS: The number of Federal workers with war service and temporary appointments has slumped 50 per cent in a 15-month period. In January, 1947, there were 855,000 such employes. In April of this year there were 432,000. Employes with permanent appointments jumped from 957,000 to 1,240,000 in the same period.

GAO: At General Accounting, Harold Hoagland is the chief of the new transportation division. His assistants are Charles Brodman and Jim McDonnell. . . . A survey of the salaries paid Government purchasing agents is being made by the National Institute of Governmental Purchasing. . . . Senator Williams (R., Del.), a member of the Senate Civil Service Committee, made an attack on top committee staff members in a Senate speech.

Gifts Pour in to Kin Of Slain Policeman; 2 Accused of Murder

The Washington Post

FAMILY AT HOME—Mrs. Charles F. Caldwell and children, family of slain Hyattsville policeman, shown yesterday at home, 3602 43d ave., Colmar Manor, Md. The children are Charles, 10, seated with mother and Gary, 3, in rocker

Prince Georges Authorities Press Their Investigation of Deanwood Shootings

A wave of sympahty for the bereaved family of Pvt. Charles F. Caldwell swept Prince Georges County yesterday as police pressed their investigation into the circumstantces under which he was slain.

Private Caldwell died in Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, Md., Saturday night after he had been shot when he and Pvt. Wallace L. Baker, both members of the county force, attempted to stop a house fight in Deanwood Park.

Baker, also shot in an affray which brought scores of county and State police to the scene, was reported in good condition at Prince Georges County Hospital yesterday, where he is recovering from chest and leg wounds.

One of Fighters Is Dead

Of the persons who started the fight—or participated in it—one, Mabel Hall, of 5312 Maple rd., Deanwood Park, is dead of wounds apparently received when she was hit by a baseball bat.

Her husband, Thomas, 55, and their daughter, Jane, 20, are in police custody charged with Caldwell's murder. Jane Hall also is charged with assault with intent to murder Baker, and faces the same charges in the wounding of Willie Preston, 23, 5317 Nye st., victim of a knifing which started the fatal melee.

To most Prince Georfes County residents, however, the most significant aftermath of the tragedy was the need to express their own feeling for the dead policeman.

This came yesterday from uncounted sources, in the form of contributions for Mrs. Caldwell and the two children, Charles Jay, 10, and Gary Allen, 3. They live at 3602 43rd ave., Colmar Manor.

Captain Ralph W. Brown, superintendent of Prince Georges County Police, and Detective Chief Charles N. Thompson were besieged with callers yesterday—on foot and on the telephone, who offered money for the family. Chief Brown said he had been told a number of business men's associations in the county already have begun collecting money for the Caldwell family.

By the day's end, Brown had announced establishment of the Charles Caldwell Fund. He said those who wished to contribute to it should send money in care of the treasurer, Prince Georges County Police Association, County Service Building, Hyattsville, Md.

One of the Force's Best Liked

"Charlie" Caldwell, who started life 36 years ago in Washington, had grown up to be one of the best liked policemen on the Prince Georges force. Chief Brown said of him, "He was an excellent police officer," and added, "If he could give a fellow a kick in the pants and send him home, he'd always do that, rather than lock him up."

Charlie and Margaret Caldwell had been sweethearts since she was 5 and he was 9. It was at that time that the Caldwell family moved to Colmar Manor. Margaret and Charlie lived across the street from each other, went to the same schools, went together for seven years befofe they married, in 1935.

The man who became "an excellent police officer" and died in performance of his duty didn't start out to be a policeman at all, his wife said.

First Took Up Painting

He followed in his father's footsteps and took up painting as an occupation. But Caldwell didn't like painting, even though it paid him $100 a week. And once when he was laid up with an injured elbow, he hung around the police station, made up his mind he wanted to be a cop, and started in, August 1, 1943.

That meant a pay cut from $100 to $22.50 a week but the Caldwell family got along anyhow.

An ardent sport fan, Caldwell was a familiar figure to Redskin players. He helped out in their equipment room, and when they were playing at some city near Washington, he would accompany them. Last summer they asked him to go to California, but he had to refuse because he could not leave his job.

Although both Private Caldwell and his wife were brought up in the Protestant faith, Mrs. Caldwell said her husband had lately become interested in joining the Catholic faith. At the time of his death she had been making arrangements to take Catholic instruction with her husband. Both the Caldwell children have been baptized in the Catholic faith.

Funeral on Wednesday

Funeral services are to be held Wednesday at 1 o'clock at the Gasch funeral home in Hyattsville. Members of the Maryland State Police force will man both county stations in order to permit the entire county police force to attend the rites. Pallbearers, all members of the force, will be Maj. Ralph W. Brown, police superintendent; Sergt. Edwin R. Thompson; Lieut. Roscoe Sines, commander of the Hyattsville station, and Policemen James Burgess, Lee Pumphrey and Joseph Hill.

Survivors, in addition to the immediate family, include a brother, Raymond Caldwell of Washington.

Prince Georges County police, working to clean up loose ends in the tragic shooting, yesterday said they had not yet located the gun which Private Baker lost in the melee. Baker who had chased Thomas Hall from the scene of the shooting, returned to the scout car where he collapsed from wounds. Yesterday, police traced the gun to a Washington man, and broadcast a lookout for him and other occupants of a convertible coupe in which he reportedly left his home.

Auto Hits 2 Cars, Rolls Down Bank

Three Occupants Escape Serious Hurts in Triple Oxon Hill Crash

A District man and two companions escaped serious injury yesterday when their car ran into the rear of one ahead, bounced off another auto and rolled over an embankment on Livingston rd., in Oxon Hill, Md.

William M. Fisher, 38, of 3124 28th st. se., was operating the car which Montgomery County Policeman Lawrence F. Riddlebarger said collided with the rear of a car driven by William Percy Proctor, 5350 Oxon Hill rd., Oxon Hill, Md.

Riddlebarger reported Fisher's car then collided with the auto of Harry Wolff, jr., 3907 Benton st. nw., and finally plunged down an embankment about 200 yards up the road.

Fisher and his companions, William H. Acton, 48, of Oxon Hill, Md., and Purcell Pickeral, 29, of 5405 Livingston rd. se., were taken to Casualty Hospital, where Fisher remained following treatment for lacerations of the face. It could not be immediately determined if Wolff, his wife or three children were injured.

Girl in Nightmare Race To Hospital Succumbs

Severn, Md., June 13 (AP).—Frank Burke, 19, backed a car out of a driveway today, Anne Arundel County police reported, and struck his 17-year-old fiancee, Helen Mae McCarthy of Severn.

Then began a nightmarish journey for medieal help. Police gave this account:

Burke and a friend, Chester Collette, 22, put the injured girl in Collette's car. En route to South Baltimore General Hospital, the car smashed into a bus.

Burke hailed a passing motorist. They transferred the girl from the damaged auto, and continued the race to the hospital.

They didn't get there in time. Helen Mae was pronounced dead on arrival.

A manslaughter charge was placed against Burke, who was released in $1000 bail pending a hearing. Police said brake failure of hte bus—which carried no passengers—evidently brought on the second accident.

Night of Thrills To Show Remote Control of Planes

Model plane enthusiasts will have their first opportunity to see these tiny craft operated by remote control at the Masonic Night of Thrills at Griffith Stadium Friday night.

A feature of the exhibition presented by the Balsa Bugs Club of Bolling Field will be three miniature biplanes flying in formation and operated by a ground crew. These three craft are capable of a 70-mile speed. The club, composed of enlisted men of the Air Forces, will exhibit for the first time a jet model with a speed of better than 100 miles per hour.

Another feature will be a flight by a plane operating with a half-blade propeller. This type blade, the designer claims, gives the tiny monoplane perfect balance.

Roger Q. Mills, general chairman of the Night of Thrills, announced yesterday that reserved seats still are available at the Masonic Temple, 13th st. and New York ave. nw. Tickets will be on sale at the stadium the day of the program.

Police Plot Scout Car Moves . . .

Girl, 19, Pays High Tribute To Father in 10-Stanza Poem

Margaret Ann O'Leary, 19, of 3558 Albemarle st. nw. thinks so highly of her dad, a Bureau of Standards researcher, that she has nominated her "ideal father" in poetry.

You don't have to be a poet to enter your Dad in The Washington Post's Ideal Father Contest. Just a simple letter telling us why you think your pop is the most wonderful one in Washington will do the trick. Be sure your entry is postmarked before midnight, June 16.

Here is Margaret's 10-stanza tribute to her father:

I'm gonna polish my best adjectives
And be careful of my diction
While I tell you of the finest Dad
E'er named in FACT or FICTION.

My Dad's M. J. O'LEARY!
He's exactly fifty five.
He's gray and slightly wrinkled,
But he's VITAL and ALIVE!

He always loved our mother
In a way that made us proud.
He's always sweet and thoughtful,
Says his compliments out loud.

There are five of us who call him "Dad,"
But kids for miles around
Have loved him like a father,
A "FRIEND" in him they've found.

He loves his little family;
Makes our home so bright and sunny,
My sister's going to marry soon;
May I tell you something funny?

Dad just can't bear to give her up,
So he is counting on
Not "giving up a daughter,",
But "getting a brand-new son."

He never was the "don't" type,
Though his guiding hand was strong.
He taught us "LOVE OF GOODNESS
And distaste of habits wrong.

He's patient, understanding,
Sympathetic—more than most;
His temp'rament and character
Are things of which I boast.

He goes to church on Sunday,
Sits in his fav'rite pew,
An under-handed, petty thing
My father c-o-u-l-d n-o-t do.

My Dad's the best in Washington.
I sing his praises loud.
He's one of which our Nation
Justly can be proud!

Winner of The Post's Ideal Father Contest will receive a special plaque, dinner and tickets to a show for his whole family on Father' Day, June 20.

Passing Police Nab Suspects In Park Theft

Vvts. W. R. Graham and L. B. Sims, of the accident investigation unit, were stopped in their car near the park by Thomas L. Graves, 22, of 1505 Gales st. ne.

Graves told them he dozed on a bench about 5 a. m. while waiting for a bus. He awoke when he felt someone tugging at his pocket, he said.

Upton W. Riley, 53, of 248 Van Buren st. nw., said his wallet, containing about $15 in cash, was taken in the rest room of a restaurant in the 1200 block of N. Capitol st. Saturday night.

Oselia Cornefo, 24, of New York, reported her pocketbook was snatched by a tall, heavy man when she was walking at 5th st. and Rhode Island ave. nw. Saturday night.

Safety Society to Meet

The Washington Safety Society will hold its final 1947-48 meeting at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Officers' Mess of the Naval Gun Factory. William L. Connolly, director of the Labor Standards Division of the Labor Department, will discuss plans for the President's Conference on Industrial Safety, scheduled for September.

Troubles Piling Up In Feud on Delegates

District Chapter Of Veterans for 'Ike' Seek Court Halt on Primary

District Democratic Central Committee was attacked from another quarter yesterday after already suffering a political warning and two court orders in connection with today's scheduled primary to pass on delegates to the National Democratic Convention.

Latest entry in the controversy was the Washington chapter of the Veterans for Eisenhower, which announced through its president, Maynard B. DeWitt, that a restraining order will be sought in District Court today prohibiting the primary.

To Argue for Delay

DeWitt said the petition will contend that the primary should be held up until "adequate public notice can be given and the thousands of potential Eisenhower write-in voters can be assured that the election will actually be held as scheduled."

The District Democratic committee already faces a court hearing this morning after Americans for Democratic Action sought and obtained a restraining order when the Democratic committee declined to consider four ADA members as delegates.

District Court Judge T. Alan Goldsborough has already scheduled a hearing today at 11:15 a. m. on a restraining order granted to the local chapter of ADA, forbidding a vote on the delegates to the national convention.

To Seek Consolidation

A second restraining order halting the voting for membership on the District Democratic Central Committee was issued Saturday for a hearing on Friday. Democratic committee officials announced they will seek to consolidate the hearings on both orders today so the primary balloting may be held tolday from 4 to 8 p. m., as scheduled.

At the outbreak of the controversy Friday National Democratic Party Chairman J. Howard McGrath warned that he would seek to deny seats to the local Democrats at the national Democratic Party convention in Philadelphia, July 12. He said he would recommend that the convention credentials committee refuse to seat the local delegates unless they are more democratically chosen.

The District Democratic committee has contended, however, that its 12 delegates were handpicked because they represent the interests of the community more closely.

ADA, meanwhile, released a statement signed by 13 District residents, scoring the action of the Democratic committee in failing to include the ADA-backed candidates as "frustrating the limited participation in self-government available to the people of the District through a genuine primary election."

The signers included Col. Julius I. Peyser, Irving Panzer, Col. Robert S. Allen, Mrs. Theodore Wedel, Oscar Cox, the Rev. A. Powell Davies, Edgar Ansel Mowrer, Dr. Vincent Browne, William S. Pryor, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hornblower, Abe Fortas and Mrs. Sarah Newman.

The ADA also released a telegram from Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.) supporting an earlier statement by McGrath that ADA candidates were welcome as delegates. Sparkman said the ADA "should by all means be allowed on the ticket in the District of Columbia."

Wet Paint Fails to Halt Theft of $365

Austin told police he finished painting the door to the room about midnight Saturday, slammed it shut and believed it locked.

While he slept in another room, the thief entered the room, took the cash from a bureau drawer. He did not leave a single mark on the newly painted door, police said.

In another reported theft, an undetermined amount of cash was taken early yesterday from a rooming house at 1424 21st st. nw. John D. Hartnett, manager, told police the thieves entered by breaking a window in a basement office.

Argument Ends In Fatal Knifing

The fight occured about 2:30 a. m. Bryant died at Freedmen's Hospital of cuts to the face and shoulders less than two hours later. Police arrested Benjamin Johnson, 28, of 1118 1st st. nw., who was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for multiple cuts about the face, received in the altercation. Johnson will appear at a coroner's inquest in Bryant's death at noon today.

Holy Comforter Graduates 66; 'Small Fry' Noticed

Along with the 66 diplomas given out at Holy Comforter last Friday evening went one 4-year and five 2-year scholarships as well as awards for outstanding work to pupils in the lower grades.

Among the 'small fry' mentioned in the first and second grades were: Robert James and Helen Finnegan, general excellence for the second and Walter Gribbin and Patricia Morgan, general excellence for the first grade. Patrick James was given recognition for penmanship progress in the first grade.

Suspicious Police Arrest 3 Starting Car With a Quarter

That's why Twelfth Precinct Pvts. Arthur Sweeney and Taylor Lewis stopped to investigate early yesterday and cleared up the case of two missing automobiles with the arrest of three persons.

The policemen were cruising on Eastern ave. near Bladensburg rd. ne. shortly before 5 a. m., when they saw several persons gathered around a parked car.

"We havent' any keys and we're trying to start this car with a quarter," one of the men explained. The policemen started questioning and learned the car had been removed earlier from Olive st. and Eastern ave. ne. without the permission of its owner, Warren F. Slaughter of 2845 28th st. se.

Further inquiry established that two of the group had driven to North Beach Saturday morning in a car owned by Abe Wolfe of 2506 14th st. ne., nephew of Detective Sergt. Jake Wolfe, head of the police auto squad. They also had used that car without permission, police said, and abandoned it near Large, Md., on the return trip to Washington when they ran out of gas. They hitchhiked the rest of the way into town before taking Slaughter's car, police reported.

After unraveling the complicated story police charged a 17-year-old youth and Azra Hamilton, jr., 19, of 4510 Emerson st., Hyattsville, Md., with two counts each of grand larceny. A third youth, Robert Leo Taplay, 18, of 3032 N st. nw., picked up in North Beach, was charged with one count of grand larceny. All three will appear in Municipal Court today.

Area News in Brief

6 Saved as Cruiser Snags on Pilings

Six persons were rescued from the Potomac River early yesterday when their cabin cruiser ran aground on some pilings near Shepherd's Landing, below the Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

Police said the group was on an outing. George H. Haw, 27, of 2000 Monroe st. ne., son of the boat's owner, left the steering wheel temporarily to fix some coffee in the galley, and one of the others had taken over when the accident occurred about 3 a. m. according to police.

One of the group, Delwin Slifer, 18, of 1800 Kearney st. ne., swam 300 feet to shore for help. The others taken from the boat by harbor police were Leonard Rhyne, 23, and his sister, Mary Ann Rhyne, 21, both of 1015 Bryant st. ne.; Jane Pullen, 21, of 2147 O st. nw.; Flexie Gazelle, 23, of 5416 MacArthur blvd. nw., and Haw.

Harbor police were called to the scene by Pilot Elmer Richter, of the SS Potomac, who saw a red light flashing from the boat while on hs return trip up the Potomac. Damage to the boat was not estimated.

Adman Wins Pearson Prize

Russell Mitcheltree of Scarsdale, N. Y., a retired advertising man, was announced yesterday as winner of the $5000 first prize in the "Make Democracy Live" contest sponsored by Columnist and Radio Commentator Drew Pearson.

Mitcheltree's essay was selected from 125,000 entries by three judges, former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Attorney General Tom Clark and former Representative Clare Boothe Luce. Leonard M. Skinner, 2801 Pennsylvania ave. se., won fourth place, receiving a Kaiser sedan.

Kilmer Drama Planned

The task was assigned Lawson, a civics and English teacher at Shaw Junior High School here, at the 40th annual reunion of 1908 students. Lawson, who described himself as a "fast friend" of Kilmer, lives at 2717 11th st. nw.

Supper and Fair Set

A country supper and fair will be held Wednesday from 5 to 7:30 p. m. at the Christ Child Farm for Convalescent Children, Rockville, Md. Proceeds will help make up a $6000 deficit in the Farm's operating funds.

Golf Game Fatal to D. C. License Chief

Mr. Bailey

He was pronounced dead at Prince Georges General Hospital shortly after arrival there. The heart attack, which occurred on the ninth hole at Prince Georges Golf and Country Club, was the first he ever sustained, according to a relative.

Mr. Bailey, a Washingtonian since 1917, had been superintendent of licenses since 1940. His first job was as a clerk in the license bureau in June, 1920. He became superintendent on the retirement of Wade H. Coombs.

As head of the license bureau, he was a member of the Hack Inspector's Board, the D. C. Permit Revocations Board, D. C. License Board, and others.

An enthusiastic golfer, Mr. Bailey customarily toured the golf links in the 70's. When stricken midway in the match yesterday, he was shooting with Bertrand Sheehy, Noble Wilson and William Taliaferro.

The son of Edward E. Bailey, sr., and the late Mrs. Bailey of Hyattsville, he was born in Rockville, Md., and educated there and at Strayer College here. His father, who survives him, is a retired chief telegrapher at Union Station.

Three years after coming to the District, Mr. Bailey began his 28 years of service in the License Bureau. He was assistant suprintendent at the time Coombs retired.

He married Mary Beckett, of Lanham, Md., in 1932. They made their home at 1530 Rhode Island ave. ne.

Besides his wife and father, Mr. Bailey is survived by a brother, Charles, of Cheverly, Md., and three sisters, Mrs. Rosaline Waters and Mrs. Emily Bullock, of University Park, Md., and Mrs. Dolly Sheriff, of Atlanta, Ga.

Funeral services and burial have been set tentatively for 2 p. m. Wednesday from Gasch funeral home, Hyattsville. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary C. Poulin

Union City, N. J., June 13 (AP).—Mrs. Mary C. Poulin, 103, died yesterday at her home, 1715 Palisades ave.

She was said to be the first woman to make a balloon flight at the Chicago World's Fair, and she had said she was a neighbor of President Lincoln during his tenure in Washington.

William C. Adams

Albany, June 13 (U.P.).—The New York State Conservation Department today announced the death yesterday of William C. Adams, 68. He had been New York State fish and game director since 1931. For 12 years previously, he was the first such director in Massachusetts.

Drier Northern Air to Lessen Humidity Today

Rushing to the rescue of warm Washingtonians is a mass of drier air from the northwest, to displace the tropical air from the South Atlantic which sent the humidity up to 88 per cent yesterday.

The temperature reached a high of only 80 yesterday at 1:20 p. m. On June 13, 1943, the mercury registered a sizzling 93 to set a record. Record low was 51 on July 13, 1887.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

The Middle Child

Most parents are aware that the coming of a new baby may result in the next older child feeling rather left out. Recognizing this, they try to give some special attention, extra affection and time to the child who is no longer the baby in the family.

It's important to realize that the middle child of three may be facing an even more difficult problem. For, not only has he to give up the pleasant baby role, but may feel that his older brother or sister can do things much better or is allowed many privileges, such as staying up later, going to the movies or other "grown-up" things, which he has not yet been granted.

In other words, he gets it on both ends. Here again, thoughtful parents can meet the situation. Awareness of the special problem of the middle child can result in efforts to devote some special time to him alone and to see to it that he shares in the privileges that the older sibling enjoys.

Man Tells Wife, After 25 Years' Wonderful Marriage, That He Loves Much Younger Woman And Can't Live Without Her; Then Walks Out

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am lonely and defeated in my early forties, and there must be some lack in my character to account for it.

After 25 years' wonderful marriage, with three children living (all in college), my husband walked out on us 19 months ago, informing me that he was very much in love with a younger woman and just couldn't live without her.

Everyone predicted it just couldn't last, but they are living together in another city a short distance from here, and are happy as children, I understand. He sends us a monthly check for support, but otherwise shows no interest in us at all; and I believe he will divorce me by fair means or foul to marry her.

My religion prohibits divorce; therefore on my pastor's advice I have applied only for separate maintenance; and I have secured a position, to help the children through school. During the days I manage to bear up pretty well, but the long lonely weekends and evenings are dreadful.

She Shuns Company Of Married Friends

ALL OUR FRIENDS are married and it makes me feel even more depressed to be with them. I have cultivated new friends among unmarried women and widows and get out a good bit, but my heart aches all the time and I am afraid of a crack-up unless I get my thinking straightened out.

I never thought I'd ever face a problem beyond solving, if I had enough faith and patience; but this seems overwhelming. I lost two lovely children in the early years of marriage, have dealt with financial reverses and other difficulties, but I feel totally unequal to this.

My thoughts revolve constantly on the happiness we had together, on his great love of the children, on my growing old alone (with no one to care whether I live), and most especially on not being needed after the children marry. I know this is selfish, but you see my whole life was based on these relationships. How can I change now?

I love Jim so dearly that if he were to call this minute, I would take him home and forget this awful nightmare, but I have lost all hope of that. If I need a good talking-to, please give it; anything to help me live again. K. P.

Lfie and Change Are Synonymous

DEAR K. P.: "How can I change now?" you ask. The truth is that life and change (or alternation) are synonymous. One can't prevent change. It is a natural continuous process, either of growth or deterioration; a passing from one state to another, higher or lower, better or worse.

In your case, it is vitally important to realize that by intelligent exercise of the specifically human faculties of foresight, reason and self-direction, you can in some measure determine whether profit or loss (growth or deterioration) shall attend inevitable changes in your being or social history.

This capacity to choose in advance and influence outcome is mankind's intrinsic, godlike difference from and advantage over the animals and other organic forms of life in responding to inevitable change.

Husband Elected Change for Worse

STRESS and struggle are implicit in conscious personal growth. As the poet Christina Rossetti says, "The road winds uphill all the way." Your husband abruptly renounced this climb towards mature responsible character and tumbled back into infantilism—hallmark of which is unreasoning absorption in self—when he deserted his family to establish a "must-have" liaison with the girl.

He and his paramour may profess to be "happy as children," but their disreputable status and hidden misgivings aren't enviable. Bad conscience is at the core of their idyll, and this they dare not face in thought, but must assiduously deceive themselves and each other to register joy in the relationship, which means that a complex process of personal disintegration is at work therein, systematically blighting integrity and the capacity to enjoy anything.

All things considered, your situation is far preferable. Standing alone, you may grow; and your salvation, your new lease on life, depends on doing so.

For advice: (1) Remember Lot's wife and don't look back. (2) Right away, correct your mistake of avoiding long-time married friends; rather, avoid the lonely widows and unmarried women. (3) Have the good sense to renounce self-pity and its twin sister, hopelessness. (4) Pray (in the words of Saul), "Lord, what would you have me do—" to outgrow preadolescent dependency attitudes, which are your major affliction at this time. (5) To find the answer to that prayer, leaf through the Bible morning and night for instant guidance. M. H.

Astors Are Visitors From England; To Tour Country

Gavin Astor and his wife, Lady Irene, the daughter of Field Marshal Haig, who are making an extended visit in this country, are guests at the Mayflower. Mr. Astor, whose father, Col John Jacob Astor, owns the London Times, the Astor Hotel and the Ritz-Carlton in New York, is especially interested in studying newspaper operation in the United States.

While in Washington during the past several days, the Aastors have had an opportunity to meet many of the political columnists and radio commentators, as well as attending sessions of Congress.

Mr. Astor who is a nephew of Lady Astor, the former Miss Nancy Langhorne, spent Sunday with relatives and friends at her home, Mirador, near Charlottesville.

The Astors will leave Washington today for a tour around the United States, returning to Washington for a brief stay in the autumn before sailing for England.

Woman's Club, Loudoun, Va., Has Elections

Leesburg, Va., June 13.—Mrs. Arthur S. Jenkins of Leesburg was elected president of the Woman's Club of Loudoun at the annual meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. McDaniel in Waterford. She succeeds Mrs. J. Shenton Lodge, who had held the office since the club was started four years ago.

Mrs. N. B. Hawthorne was elected vice president, and Miss Nancy Bradfield, recording secretary. Reelected were Mrs. Curtis Wilson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Arthur H. Fulton, treasurer. Mrs. Talbot Pierce and Mrs. J. M. Wynkoop were elected members-at-large to the board of governors. The club voted to send contributions of school supplies to needy school children in Europe. Mrs. S. Hawpe Adams, chairman of the Youth Conservation Department, reported that her group had purchased recreation books for the Ashburn and Sterling Schools. The annual club picnic will be held Saturday evening, June 19, on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman C. Gore.

Miss Mary Lilington Bailey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Otis Bailey of Leesburg, will leave this month by plane for Mexico City, where she will study at Mexico City College for the summer months. Miss Bailey has been a student at American University during the past two sessions and will enter her junior year there this fall.

Miss Verlie Hollandsworth graduated in nursing from Stuart Circle Hospital, Richmond, on May 31. She is now with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hollandsworth, near Leesburg, for several weeks. After that she will return to Richmond, where she has accepted a position at Stuart Circle. She also received a B. S. degree from Richmond Professional Institute of the College of William and Mary on June 5. Mr. and Mrs. Hollansworth were present at her graduation.

Mrs. Helen Mugler of Norfolk was the weekend guest of Mrs. J. Shenton Lodge. Mrs. Lodge accompanied Mrs. Mugler and the Rev. Mr. Lodge, who also came up for the weekend, back to Norfolk. After spending several days there, Mrs. Lodge will go to Olney, Va., to spend the summer there, returning to Leesburg this fall where she holds a position at Leesburg High.

Ensign Robert Walker Durfey, who recently received his bachelor of science degree and commission at the United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., and his brother, George J. Durfey, jr., of the University of Virginia, arrived in Leesburg this week for a visit. Ensign Durfey will later report for duty at the Coast Guard Academy. They are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Durfey.

Mrs. Press Elected; Mrs. E. A. Condon Is New DAR Regent

Mrs. Evan A. Condon was elected regent of the Col. Tench Tilghman chapter of Bethesda, DAR, at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Hugh V. Keiser.

Other officers are Mrs. Joseph Francis Betterley, vice regent; Mrs. Richard Cunningham, chaplain; Mrs. S. Kriger, recording secretary; Mrs. Hugh V. Keiser, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert L. Harper, treasurer; Mrs. Mildred Bashore, registrar; Mrs. Harrison L. England, historiah; Mrs. Rudolph Bopp, librarian, and Mrs. Joseph Francis Betterley, editor.

Mrs. Harry K. Nield of Baltimore, regent of the Maryland State Society, DAR, and Mrs. George W. P. Whip of Catonsville, State recording secretary, were guests of honor.

Catholic Daughters Name New Officers

Mrs. Eleanor Press was installed Grand Regent of the Court Forest Glen, No. 961, of the Catholic Daughters of America at a recent meeting in St. Michael's Auditorium in Silver Spring.

The other officers are Mrs. Marion Tyler, vice regent; Mrs. Catherine Kunkel, lecturer; Mrs. Theresa Bishop, prophetess; Mrs. Henrietta Smith, historian; Miss Minerva Doyle, treasurer; Miss Margaret Taugher, financial secretary; Miss Ruth Gates, monitor; Mrs. Mary Jane Allison, sentinal, and Mrs. Julia Bland, organist.

The two newly elected trustees installed were Mrs. Frances Eckenrode and Miss Annie Regan.

Early Bird Habits Simplify Summer Housekeeping Tasks

June's here, July's coming and you'll be faced with housekeeping in hot weather. Don't just talk about weather. Do something to make your work easy, suggests Better Homes & Gardens magazine. Check your everyday jobs "Is there an easier way?"

Next time you look in your cupboards or closets see if the summer things are in front and easy to reach. Life is simpler with unnecessary items out of the way, and the everyday things handy.

Next time you vacuum, take a good look at the furniture. Cleaning would be easier without surplus furniture and rugs. Furniture will be easier to take care of if its slipcovered with a washable material.

Next time you dust, be more critical. Dusting would be easier this summer if you have one good figurine on the window shelf instead of a menagerie.

Next time you open a window see if you wouldn't get more light and air, if you took down the heavy draperies. Glass curtains will let the breeze come thru and still temper the hot sunlight. Cool looking green ivy plants could trail from pots fastened to the sides of the window.

Next time you plan a meal make the most of the premixed, precooked or pan-ready foods. Go thru your cook book and mark "summer" all recipes that are easy, refreshing and can be fixed in the cool of the morning, or quickly at mealtime.

Next time you set the table, think how you can simplify the service. Make a habit of saving yourself steps in every job. Serve your meals in the coolest most pleasant spot. Use a tray or cart to tote the food or let each fellow carry his own.

Next time you iron, sit down. It may seem lazy—even awkward at first. It's just a matter of getting used to doing things the easy way.

Next time the alarm goes off, make use of the hours that are cool and fresh. Do your cooking, cleaning, and shopping before the hot midday sets in. If you get the early bird habit, you can loaf when the sun's high in the sky.

Use Vinegar to Remove Glue Stains

To remove fresh glue strains wash them in warm water. If the stains are old, sponge them with vinegar applied on a soft cloth. Rinse with clear water when the stain disappears.

Parties in the Country Easy Lure to City-Bound

By Marie McNair

There was Chief of Protocol and Mrs. Stanley Woodward's reception for the Chiefs of Mission of the diplomatic corps and their wives, at Colle, the Woodward's farm near Charlottesville. There was Mr. and Mrs. George Vournas' annual Mastiha at their country place at Seneca, Md. A group of Washington friends of Gen. and Mrs. Richard Cutts motored down to The Plains, Va. for luncheon with them yesterday and last night the Charlie Thomases gave a supper party at their Maryland farm.

Then—that popular pair Elenita Dyer and Col. Jim Battle who'll be married on Thursday, were guests of honor at a luncheon at the Army-Navy Country Club given by Jane Lingo who'll be a bridesmaid. And when that party was over Elenita and her fiance were feted again at a cocktail party in town at which Mrs. Peter Challis-King and her sister, Mrs. McNeale Moffett, were hostesses.

Allens Entertain

And that isn't all. Last night Col. and Mrs. Frank A. Allen, jr., entertained at a cocktail and supper party in honor of Miss Rose Saul at The Shelter, their pleasant home in Arlington, Va., and guests lingered on to enjoy the cool garden.

Mrs. Allen had assisting her Mrs. Albert Kenner, Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, Mrs. Samuel Kauffman, Mrs. Edward Keating, Mrs. James Leahigh, Mrs. Arthur Purvis, Mrs. William D. Foote and Mrs. Virgil Shaw.

Another supper party last night for the young folk was given by Mrs. William Sutherland who entertained for Miss Ann Kilpatrick a deb of last winter.

Other guests were those girls—some of them debutantes of last winter—who will be hostesses with their parents on the Potomac cruise dance this evening. In addition there were Miss Kilpatrick's house guests, Miss Joan Potter of Houston, Tex.; Miss Janet McMillan of Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Miss Priscilla Kidder of Youngstown, Ohio, and Miss Marie Foley of Vancouver, Canada.

Barbecue Supper

For a number of years it has been George Vournas' pleasure to entertain a hundred or more of his friends at a "Mastiha"—Greek for an unregimented social gathering.

This year—and I believe last year also—Representative Sam Rayburn was the honor guest. Attorney General and Mrs. Tom Clark—they're from Texas, too—usually turn up for the event, so do a number of the Texas delegation in Congress.

From 2 o'clock on, guests are free to do anything that pleases them at the Vournas farm. They can pitch hay, collect eggs, paint the fences, feed the pigs, or just sit in the sun. All the while a tender young lamb is turning on the barbecue spit and around 4 or 5 o'clock it's done to a turn. After an out-door supper, it's time to go home.

Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, retiring Chief of Engineers, USA, and Mrs. Wheeler were entertained at a cocktail party on Saturday by Dale Miller, executive vice president of the Inter-Coastal Canal Association of Louisiana and Texas, and Mrs. Miller, at the Mayflower Hotel. And on the same day Arthur Sherwood Flemming, president-elect of Ohio Wesleyan University, and Mrs. Felming, were honor guests at a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Booher at their home in Spring Valley.

Harris & Ewing

AMONG members of the committee on the benefit garden party at Mrs. Anne Archbold's estate on Saturday are (left to right) Miss Meredith Howard, Mrs. Katherine Von Schoen and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, jr., holding CoCo. Proceeds of the party will go to the Washington Committee for Education on Alcoholism

Mrs. Archbold Opens Home For Benefit

Mrs. Anne Archbold will open Hillandale, her beautiful estate on Reservoir rd. for a benefit party on Saturday, June 19 from 3 to 7 p. m. Proceeds from the sale of tickets will go to the Washington Committee for Education on Alcoholism which is sponsored by Yale University.

There will be entertainment and refreshments and continuous music, with the Metropolitan Police Club Boy's band playing from 3 to 5 and the Air Forces Band from 5 to 7. In case of rain the fete will be held the following day.

Tickets are on sale at the Willard Hotel theater booth; the Shoreham Hotel newsstand and the headquarters of the Washington Committee at 1713 M st.

Among members of the Washington Committee are Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman; Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Archbold, Mrs. Harold Walker, Mrs. Owen Brewster, Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr.

DAR Chapter Elects Mrs. Cremins

Mrs. Timothy M. Cremins was elected regent at the recent meeting of the American chapter, District DAR.

The other officers are Mrs. Frederick Genau, vice regent; Miss Nellie Theaker, recording secretary; Mrs. Jane C. Duvall, corresponding secretary; Miss Anna Mary Hamilton, treasurer; Miss Anna Theaker, chaplain; Mrs. Madeline C. Nickles, registrar; Mrs. Brooke L. Gunsallus, historian, and Miss Anna Theaker, librarian.

John Steelmans To Entertain

John Steelman, assistant to the President, and Mrs. Steelman, and Mrs. Martin Vogel, will entertain at a reception Tuesday from 5 to 7:30 at Mrs. Vogel's home asking guests to meet the distinguished government delegates from Europe and Asia who are en route to their homes after attending the Moral-Rearmament World Assembly held in California for idealogical preparedness.

Rebecca Ann White Makes Bow To Society at Tea Given at Home

Col. and Mrs. John F. Whitely, jr., entertained at tea yesterday at home to present Mrs. Whiteley's daughter, Miss Rebecca Ann White, to society.

The party yesterday served to introduce on Christmas Eve Mrs. Whiteley will give a tea dance at the Carlton for her daughter and her young friends.

For her debut Miss White wore a white organdy gown combined with eyelet embroidery and made with a full skirt ballerina length tied with a wide organdy sash. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet. Mrs. Whiteley's gown was gray crepe and with it she wore gardenias which had been hand painted in a soft coral pink shade.

Miss White is a sixth generation Washington. She was graduated from the National Cathedral School earlier this month. She is the daughter of Maj. Gen. Thomas D. White who is in command of the Seventh Air Force in the Pacific.

Her grandparents are the Rev. and Mrs. John Chanler White of Springfield, Ill. and the debutante is the great grandniece of the late James G. Blaine. The late Charles Eppa and May Blaine Lipscomb are her maternal grandparents.

Mrs. John F. Whiteley, sr., was here from Cincinnati for Miss White's debut and was among those assisting the hostess. Also taking their turn at the tea table were Mrs. Aubrey L. Clarke, Mrs. Lous F. Peake, Mrs. Lipscomb Jamison, Mrs. John McAuley Palmer, Mrs. John R. Eakin, Mrs. Clarence Wheeler, Mrs. Frank Jervey, Mrs. Eberhart Haynes and Mrs. Keeler Tenney.

Brazilians to Fete Cadets

The Military Attache of the Brazilian Embassy, Gen. Henrique Baptista Duffles Leixeira Lott, and Mme Lott, will entertain at dinner on the Shoreham Terrace this evening for a group of cadets from the Brazilian Miltary Academy who are visiting this country at the invitation of the United States Miltary Academy.

Senhorita Elys Lott, daughter of the hosts, has invited a number of her young friends for the party this evening. Tuesday night the Brazilian Ambassador, Mauricio Nabuco, will give a dinner at the embassy for the visitors.

The girls at both parties will be Miss Betty Ann Gaines, Miss Sylvia Simpson, Senhoritas Yvonne Ache, Regina Breves, Jacy Duffles, Dagmar da Silva, Leda Duncan, Rosa Lucero, Maria Luisa Monteza, Vera Helena Torres and Luisa Perez Muro.

The cadets are Cid Scarone Vieira, Armando Moraes Ancora Filho, Joao Saraiva Coelho, Gabriel Esquival Bastos, Ari Capela, Manoel Henrique Rupp Luis Heraldo Braga Oliveira, Romero Lepesqueur Sobrinho and Celso Marques Penteado Serra.

They are accompanied on the tour by Capt. Carlos Castro Torres of the Brazilian Military School and by Col. Stephen Fuqua of the United States Military Academy.

Back From Germany

Col. Earl J. Harris, USA, and Mrs. Harris, recently returned from Germany are guests at The Mayflower. Others at The Mayflower at present include Dr. and Mrs. Elis Gustaf E. Berven of Stockholm, Sweden, and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Reardon of Rochelle, N. Y.

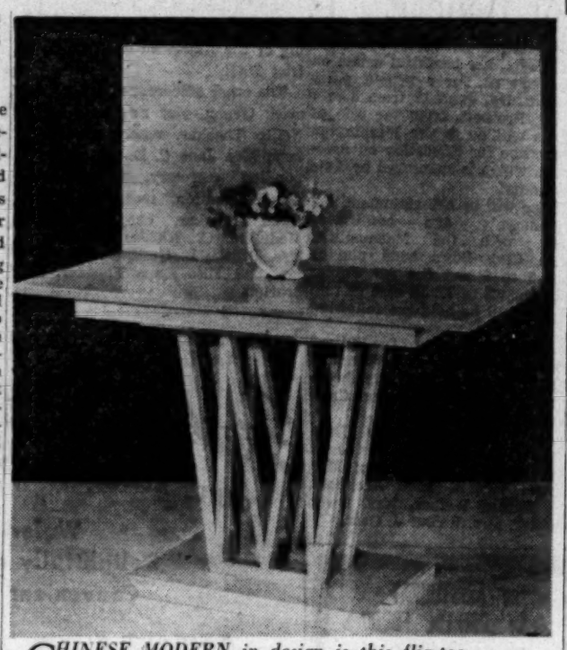
Method for Silver Gray Finish

How can I repaint or refinish my bedroom furniture so that it will have that new silver gray finish? R. B. T.

Start by removing all of the old finish with a good varnish remover. Be sure to follow the directions which come with the kind you buy. If, when the finish is removed, the wood is too dark for the silver-gray finish, apply a good commercial bleach, again following the directions which come with the product you buy. When the wood is as light as you wish, allow to dry thoroughly, then smooth with sandpaper. If you want a silver-gray, limed oak finish, apply a coat of light or silver gray paint to the furniture, wiping it off almost immediately. With this finish the paint remains on the wood only long enough to fill the pores. When using this finish, apply paint to only a small area at one time. This method gives a silvery overtone to the piece. If you want it grayer, you can apply a coat of light gray paint, let it stand 48 hours to dry, then rub it down with steel wool. Perhaps it would be a good idea for you to experiment on an inconspicuous spot until you achieve the exact finish you wish. When finish is thoroughly dry, apply several thin coats of wax, rubbing vigorously between each application, to protect the surface and give it luster.



CHINESE MODERN in design is this flip-top console table that comes in several interesting finishes—limed oak, satiny avidoire wood, and black, red or green lacquer with a stressed grain. When fully opened, it measures 44 by 48 inches and can be used as a dining table

We have a garden and plan to grow several vegetables, such as corn, which would be good frozen. Is there any firm in Washington which freezes and stores foods for private families? G. M. P.

Leesburg, Manassas, and other nearby towns have freezer-lockers, but apparently only the locker service is available here. This means that while you can rent facilities for storing previously frozen foods (bought in quantity when there are specials on frozen items, for instance), you cannot take fresh foods and have them quick frozen for storage. One of the locker plants in this area is located on Connecticut ave. For further information about it, call Decatur 9578. Another is at 13th and Quincy sts. in Arlington and may be contacted by telephoning Owens 7600.

One of your readers asked recently for a recipe for Metheglen. This one is from "The Yankee Cook Book," by Imogene Wolcott. I have made this several times and it is a very good wine.

METHEGLEN

Use 3½ pounds honey to each gallon of water. Boil 45 minutes. Pour this while boiling hot over some walnut leaves (bruised), 2 ounces to the gallon. Let stand overnight. Take out the leaves. Add a piece of toast on which a cake of yeast is spread. Let stand 3 days, then close the hole of the keg with a sandbag and let it stand undisturbed for 3 months. Then draw off in bottles or a clean keg and cork. A. M.

I have a studio couch that is fairly new, and in constant use. It has a bad musty odor. I've used my hand vacuum cleaner on it, but it doesn't help at all. Can you tell me what I can do to get rid of this odor? C. B. L.

If it is possible to get this studio couch out in the sun on a clear, low humidity day, that will do much to eliminate the musty odor. Most such odors come from dampness and the sunshine would help to remove that. Turn the mattress frequently to expose both sides to the sun. Another treatment would be to spray it with a moth preventive solution. These solutions are deodorizers as well as moth killers. The strong odor of the preventative will disappear after a few days, taking the musty odor with it.

I have an iron cake mold that was my grandmother's that has become rusted. Can you tell me how best to remove the rust? C. C. B.

The rust can be removed by going over the mold with steel wool and a mild kitchen cleanser. When all of the rust is off, wash the utensil thoroughly in soap and water and dry very well. To prevent rust forming, brush unsalted fat onto the piece and place in a slow oven (250° F.) for several hours. Replenish the fat as it is absorbed into the mold. Every time the utensil is used, be sure that it is very dry before storing and place where it is not apt to come in contact with moisture. It will help to dry it more thoroughly after washing, if you will place it on a low flame on the stove and heat for a few minutes.

We have just received our household furnishings, which have been in storage for seven years. Nearly everything is in need of repairs and cleaning. Our bamboo chaise longue and matching chairs should be rewound in places with narrow strips of split bamboo. Do you know where I could buy this material, or something else that would serve the purpose? A. H. M.

There is an upholstery supply store on E st. which sells a product called splint which could be used to repair your bamboo furniture. The store can be reached by calling District 7447.

I shall appreciate knowing the correct clothing for the baby and mother for a summer christening. The baby is a girl, now eight months of age. We can afford only a very modest outfit so would like to know the very minimum necessary. The christening will be in a Presbyterian church. R. L. L.

It is not necessary for either mother or baby to be newly outfitted for a christening. The baby should wear white. A dress-up dress she possibly now has would be very appropriate. She could be barefooted or wear soft-soled white shoes or booties. You, her mother, would wear the same costume you would wear to church. A summery print, a hat to match or blend, white gloves and shoes would be lovely.

Curves Are the Payoff

Thin Girls Owe Themselves Debt of Calories to Gain

By Ida Jean Kain

The too-thin girl owes herself a 50,000 calorie debt—at least. And until she starts paying off, she can't change angles to curves. When she rounds up the whole number she will add a dozen pounds—for one pound contains roughly 4000 calories.

Interested, thin girls? Then let's start paying off at the rate of about 500 extra calories a day. These 500 must be over and above the number of calories you personally need to go on . . . then the balance are stored, with the nice returns of over half a pound a week. You won't gain right off the bat . . . you have to catch up first, and get on an even keel—then you'll pick up.

But doesn't it help to view your underweight problem as owing yourself calories? That makes it easier to take extra glasses of whole milk, and have another slice of bread and butter with a meal to help make up the calories that you've short-changed yourself. A calorie debt can be a big worry, for the result is a lack of sufficient padding over the nerve endings. A round dozen pounds will serve as a nice buffer to the nerves.

If you feel run down, as well as underweight, chances are you're malnourished too. We think of malnutrition and undernutrition as one and the same thing—but they may not be. Malnutrition refers to poor nutrition . . . the quality of your nutrition is not up to par. That can be improved by taking the extra calories in the foods that contribute high quality nutrition. Milk heads the list for several reasons. In the first place, nobody should regard milk as a fattening food, for actually it isn't . . . one glass is 160 calories. One chocolate bar contains 400. But milk furnishes the food essentials in a better balanced proportion than any other food. It furnishes the essentials for tissue building and body regulating. And, except for those who are allergic to milk, it is very easily digested. Three glasses of milk added to your regular menus will add 480 calories.

If you wish, stir in some malt powder. And sometimes beat in a raw egg. If you drink the milk between meals, however, do not add sweet syrup, as the sweet would dull your appetite for the next meal.

It's the chubby girls who love bread and eat it. Some thin girls I know rarely touch it, but have an extra slice of bread and butter with each meal—or with even two of your daily meals. More whole grain or enriched bread is one of the cheapest ways of boosting the calories . . . and cost is a big factor today.

Make those two changes in your daily menus as the first step in making up your calorie debt—you have everything to gain.

Your Baby and Mine

Misbehavior Can't Be Cured By Spankings

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

No one wants to be considered a fanatic upon any subject and I am certainly not one who thinks in extremes. When I deplore the spanking of children, it is because there is too much of it and not enough trial and error to discover if other ways may work more successfully.

Fathers, in my experience with them, have a perfect mania for spanking. The moment a child annoys them, then on with the hands and no more nonsense. If this worked, there might be some sense to it, but some of the worst incorrigibles are also some of the most frequently spanked children. So, it can't possibly be a cure-all for misbehavior; and any thinking parent knows that it makes some children want to thwart their parents, even if they pay for it painfully.

If parents would jot down each misbehaving act of the child, what they did and then evaluate honestly how it worked, they would not be so confident of all their methods of treatment. They would have to admit that despite the spanking the child returned to the spot to which he was forbidden (and spanked for going) or he touched the forbidden objects again. He continued to wet and soil himself (if he is too young to control) and he had accidents, ran about wildly and noisily, teased for what he shouldn't have, just as if he hadn't been spanked over and over for such behavior. Spanking merely makes the parent feel that she is doing SOMETHING about it, never mind what.

The fact is that children are children, punishment or no, and they do act in ways that disturb, annoy or anger the parents all the time they are in the process of growing up.

My reaction against spanking is a natural one. I had one spanking at 2½ years for running away and not another during my whole life—nor slapping either. I managed my own children with about that same record. My grandchildren get some slaps and spanks on buttocks occasionally, but of a very trivial, not painful type. Just a gesture, not a really painful hit.

So, let us say that a good parent who loves her child—and shows it—who is pleasant, understanding and just—can spank a child in such a spirit and do no harm. The child still feels the security of his loved position in the family.

But, that dependence on spanking, which leads to those horrifying lengths to which some parents will go to try to make a child do as they say is a very weak reed to lean upon. It hasn't, even since the days and words of Solomon, ever led to any magical cures for misbehavior.

Cooking Cues

Petits Fours for an afternoon tea crowd may be made from white or sponge cake baked in a jelly roll pan. When the cake is cool it should be cut into diamonds, squares, rectangles, circles or crescents and covered with a melted fondant colored in a pastel shade. Each small cake can then be decorated individually with a cake decorator in a variety of colors.

Leftover cooked noodles may be mixed with a little minced or deviled ham and used to stuff tomatoes or green peppers.

The juice of one lemon is often equal to about three tablespoons. A large orange will give about one-half cup of juice.

Top off dinner with a light flavorful peach and orange dessert. Take large canned cling peach halves and fill them with diced orange and coconut. Serve chilled in glass dessert dishes with a bit of orange juice poured over all.

If food burns in an aluminum utensil it may be removed as follows: Fill the utensil with water and let it stand for about an hour. Then scrape out as much of the burned food as possible with a dull instrument such as a wooden spoon. Use steel wool after this and wash in hot soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly. Do not use strong cleansing solutions to remove burned food from aluminum.

It has to do with money and it usually goes like this:

"How can I ever manage to save up enough to pay off the mortgage . . . or to send the kids to college . . . or to take it easy when I'm old . . . or to pay for any emergency illness should it suddenly arise?"

Wouldn't it be grand if there were an easy way to save up that money? Well, there is. With U. S. Bonds!

Safe, easy way to save

You can buy Bonds either through the Payroll Savings Plan at your place of business or—if the Payroll Plan is not available to you, but you do have a checking account—through the Bond-A-Month Plan at your local bank.

Both ways repay you $4 for every $3 you save, in ten years' time. So choose the sum you can afford to set aside each week—from the chart on the right—and start saving today.

Money invested in good U. S. Bonds is the best way to chase away your money worries!

INVEST EACH MONTH IN SERIES E	AND YOU WILL HAVE in 1 year	in 5 years	in 10 years
37.50	450.00	2,319.00	4,998.00

Md. Women Continue War On GOP Choice

Baltimore, June 13 (AP).—Grumbling over the choice of a Republican national committee woman continued today among GOP women leaders.

The latest development was a weekend exchange of letters between Helen Elizabeth Brown, general counsel for the Maryland Federation of Republican Women, and Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the Republican delegation to the national convention.

It started when Miss Bertha Adkins of Salisbury, a political novice, was selected for the national committeewoman post at the State convention.

Protest By Miss Brown

Miss Brown wrote Bonnell requesting a meeting of the delegation to reconsider the nomination.

"This is a family fight," she said, "and ought to be settled in this State."

But she repeated a threat that the dissatisfied women leaders may take the matter before the convention unless the special meeting is held.

Bonnell earlier had written, "It is to be regretted that the selection of a national committeewoman does not have your complete approval. I feel sure, however, that as you get to know (Miss Adkins) you will find her intelligent, capable, informed and with a devoted interest in the Republican Party."

She Is Unconvinced

To this Miss Brown replied that "all you say of Miss Adkins may be true. We have no way of knowing. It does not change the fact that organized Republicans should not have to get acquainted with one proposed as a national committeewoman.

"And there is no time to train a novice.

"It is rather rough, don't you think, that women's Republican organizations with 27 years' unbroken service to the party should be confronted with the attempt to foist upon them a national committeewoman without their knowledge or consent and without her few male sponsors even taking the trouble to introduce her?

"There are requirements other than those outlined by you for a national committeewoman. The present selectee does not meet them."

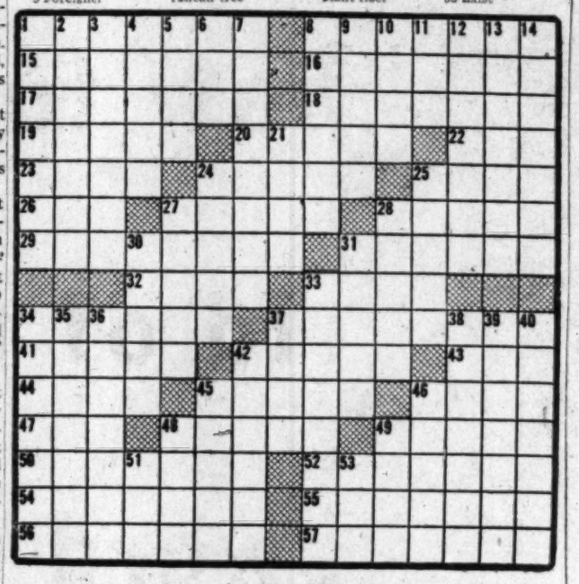
SATURDAY'S ANSWER



Children's Day Sermons Urge Christian Life

An appeal for parents to train their children in Christian ideals, democracy and "cooperative living" was sounded yesterday by Dr. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave. nw.

Delivering a special "Children's Day" sermon—one of many given here yesterday—Dr. Clark told his congregation both Hitler and Stalin regimented children to support nazism and communism.

"If we want to preserve democracy," he declared, "and further Christianity we also must begin with children."

Aid for Children Asked

Many ministers, in their Children's Day sermons and prayers, called for support of the Crusade for Children campaign to aid children overseas. At St. John's Church, 3240 O st. nw., Dr. William Sharp, rector, conducted a promotion service for church school students.

In other services here:

Dr. Alfred W. Hurst told his congregation at Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw., that religion is at the very heart of civilization and that, if western civilization is to be saved, we must start by strengthening its religious heart.

Dr. Hurst suggested that the appearance of a breakdown in western civilization might prove an occasion for a "real religious revival."

The Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, Connecticut ave. and Jocelyn st. nw., meanwhile, asserted there must be "a sincere return to religion on the part of thinking people if our spiritual foundations are to be restored."

Bible Study Needed

Lowell deplored modern man's lack of knowledge of the Bible.

"Why has communism become a menace?" Once we laughed at its pretensions because our people were sound of heart. They knew where they stood and why they stood there. Because the masses no longer know that, communism is not a joke but a menace."

The Rev. Robert W. Long spoke on "A New Commandment" at Faith Lutheran Church, Arlington.

Jesus' commandment to "Love one another as I have loved you" was new in that there was no limitation to its scope, he said. This love was sacrificial and long-suffering.

Christ, he noted, never hated an individual but rather hated the wrong committed. He called upon his congregation to proclaim the Christian gospel throughout the world.

Quadruplet Girls Born in England by Caesarean Method

Bristol, Eng., June 13 (AP).—Quadruplet girls were born prematurely here yesterday by a Caesarean operation lasting 45 minutes.

The quads averaged four pounds. All were doing well today. So was their mother, Mrs. Margaret Good, 28, who had been expecting twins next month.

Dr. Percival Phillips, medical superintendent at Southmead Hospital, said quadruplets by Caesarean are a rarity—"I've never heard of any others." (The Zavada quads of Philadelphia were delivered by Caesarean section four months ago. All are thriving.)

First to arrive was Bridget, weighing 3 pounds 13 ounces. Frances weighed 4 pounds ¼ ounce; Elizabeth, 4 pounds 8 ounces; Jennifer, 3 pounds 14.

"Only Jennifer is a little delicate, but we have every hope that we shall be able to save them all," Dr. Phillips said.

Frederick County Celebrates Start Of 3d 100 Years

Frederick, Md., June 13 (AP).—Frederick County started on its third 100 years today, after officially signing off the first two centuries since its formation last night in ceremonies at Hood College.

The formalities were simple. The speakers enumerated the county's claims to fame through its native sons and historic happenings.

Two prominent Maryland jurists who were reared in Frederick County verbally leafed through the area's history. They were Judge Edward S. Delaplaine of the Maryland Court of Appeals, and Judge Charles E. Moylan of the Supreme bench, Baltimore.

Frederick County was formed June 11, 1748, from a segment of Prince Georges County. Later it was subdivided into the counties of Allegany, Carroll, Garrett, Montgomery, Washington, and part of the District of Columbia.

Veterans Charge Nonsegregation At VA Hospitals

Baltimore, June 13 (AP). — The Maryland Department of the Twenty-ninth Division Association adopted resolutions today saying white patients are lodged in rooms with Negroes against their will at two veteran hospitals.

The action came at a closing session of the Maryland department's convention. Robert Archer, jr., of Baltimore was elected commander.

"Adults born and bred below the Mason-Dixon Line," the resolutions went on, "are accustomed to segregation . . . and any compulsory change surely will further derange the already sick minds of these unfortunate boys."

GW to Hold Teacher Examinations July 10

National teacher examinations will be held at George Washington University on July 10 and 17. The examinations are required of all candidates for the Bachelor of Arts degree at the university, and are open to graduate students in education and working teachers.

Applications, which must be filed by June 19, are available at the School of Education, Bldg. D, George Washington University.

ILO to Meet June 17

Montreal, June 13 (AP).—The general conference of the International Labor Organization opening June 17 at San Francisco will consider international regulations governing the whole field of industrial relations.

Funeral services for Walter S. Hall, 77, retired Naval Gun Factory machinist who died Saturday as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident June 7, will be held Tusday at Mattingly funeral home, 131 11th st. se., with burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Hall was struck by a car as he crossed 11th st. se. at I st. The retired machisist, who lived at 746 12th st. se., was the District's 39th traffic fatality this year.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. May Hall, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Sweet of the 12th st. address; another daughtr, Mrs. Kathryn Hogan of 2426 4th st. se.; a son, Seymour W. Hall, of 3624 Suitland rd. se.; a brother, Robert Miller of 1920 Jackson st. ne., and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Curry and Mrs. Phoebe Snell, both of Hollywood, Md.

James L. Frise

Toronto, Ontario, June 13 (AP).—Cartoonist James L. Frise, 58, died here today of a heart attack. Frise created the comic "Juniper Junction," syndicated in the United States.

Dr. Charles Yarbrough

Dr. Charles Yaubrough, 79, of Memphis, Tenn., physician and author of several medical works, died there Saturday following several years' illness, according to word received by relatives here.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elbert Clay Crow of St. Petersburg, Fla., a former Washington resident, and Mrs. J. D. Pobst, Wytheville, Va., and a niece, Mrs. Harold John Stahl of 1401 Columbia rd. nw.

Mrs. Marie Grant

Winchester, Va., June 13.—Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. Marie Grant, 67, widow of Stuart Grant and mother of S. Lee Grant, city manager. She was born in West Virginia but had lived here since her marriage. In addition to a son, four brothers and sisters survive.

Former Manpower Head Elected to New Job

New York, June 13 (AP).—Lawrence A. Appley, former executive director of the War Manpower Commission, was elected president of the American Management Association today.

He will resign his present position as vice president of industrial public relations at Montgomery Ward & Co., and assume his new duties July 1. Appley succeeds Alvin E. Dodd, who served as president of AMA for 12 years and who was placed in the newly created post of honorary president.

Delay in Orders Halts Heroine's Sailing

Manila, June 13 (AP).—The United States Army hospital ship Hope sailed for San Francisco today without Mrs. Josefina Guerrero, leprous war heroine.

Her entry into the United States for treatment has been approved but official notification has not yet reached Manila.

Maj. Gen. Jonathan Anderson, chief of staff of the Philippines-Ryukyus command, said if the clearance arrived within 48 hours, he would send her by plane to overtake the ship at Okinawa.

Philadelphia Widens Probe Of City Affairs

Philadelphia, June 13 (AP).—A probe of municipal affairs in Philadelphia spread to city bonding practices as Solicitor Frank F. Truscott disclosed the investigation would cover all department heads and employes charged with handling funds.

The latest action by Truscott came after Receiver of Taxes W. Frank Marshall, one of the two central figures in the current municipal probe, testified before the grand jury.

Marshall, whose resignation has been demanded by Republican City Chairman William Meade following disclosure of shortages totaling more than $1,500,000 in his department, declined to discuss his testimony.

3 Die as Homes Burn

Selma, Va., June 13 (AP).—Three members of a family were burned to death last night when fire destroyed three dwellings. Police identified the dead as Walter O. Fairburn, 57; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Smith, 23; and her infant daughter, Betty Jean.

Giving the Candidates The "Double O"

The superstition about double letters in the names of presidential candidates is currently rearing its familiar head again.

Mrs. W. G. Shipman of 1714 H st. nw. (for example) has checked back through the history of the past 60 years and made this surprising discovery:

Every American President since Benjamin Harrison's election in 1888 has had a double letter in his name.

Of the 10 men who have held office during these 60 years, 5 had the double letters in their given names and 5 in their surnames.

In the latter category, all but Harrison sported a double "o." They were Coolidge, Hoover and the two Roosevelts, Teddy and Franklin D.

The five who get into this select circle by virtue of their Christian names are McKinley (William), Taft (William Howard), Wilson (Woodrow), Harding (Warren) and Truman (Harry — currently pronounced "harried").

This 60-year record, naturally enough, makes Mrs. Shipman wonder whether Mr. Truman is going to be reelected, or replaced by Governor Warren, Harold Stassen or Henry Wallace.

But I trust that those who put some stock in the superstition will not completely forget about such non-double-lettered names as those of Governor Dewey of New York, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Taft of Ohio, or Senator Blackston of the Mary Worth comic strip next door.

PERSONAL NOTES

Mrs. D. D. McCarthy, Willow Hill Farm, Delaplane, Va.: Thanks. Several other couth readers suggested that I read "The Speakable Cad" and "Hither and Fro" in the Atlantic. Good stuff—even if I did wind up feeling like a man who has just read a letter from Jane Ace.

MESSAGE FOR MR. TASH

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

So you're disappointed because nobody answered your remarks about women drivers, eh?

Well, I'll answer. Like all men, when you can't win an argument intellectually, you resort to name-calling.

Why don't you print THAT in big letters, like you did the other. I dare you. Of course I realize you have the drop on me. You don't quote people; you just rearrange their words to suit yourself.

Jean B. Bryan
1729 Lanier pl. nw.

Dear Jean:

Stop picking on me. People will think we're married. Bill.

Dear Bill:

Maybe men are better drivers than women—but we gals can certainly maneuver a baby carriage or a Taylor-Tot a lot better than men can.

Frances L. White
613 Rittenhouse st. nw.

Dear Frances:

Super market grocery carts, too. I've had so many accidents with them that our neighborhood Giant and Safeway managers groan when they see me walk in the door, and the man at the A. & P. just sighs and assigns a clerk to follow me around and untangle traffic. Bill.

Dear Bill:

Here's one woman who won't drive until her children are a few years older.

I don't see how anybody can keep two preschool-age Indians quiet and still give full attention to driving a car.

Mrs. Robert S. Thorn.
2311 Washington circle, nw.

Dear Mrs. Thorn:

I don't see how anybody can keep two preschool-age Indians quiet, period. Bill.

Dear Bill:

In California, where I learned to drive, the use of the hand signal is mandatory. Anybody driving behind me knows exactly what I'm going to do—and no cracks about waving my hand to dry my nail polish, either.

What's more, statistics prove that women are better drivers than men, because on a per capita basis, women have less accidents than men. Figures don't lie, you know.

Thelma P. Murto,
419 Oglethorpe st. nw.

Dear Mrs. Murto:

TAKE-A-DEEP-BREATH DEPT.

Madeline P. McCarter of 2147 O st. nw. says she can top our previously recorded long titles with this one:

Assistant Surgeon General Howard F. Smith, Chief Public Health Adviser on the Staff of the United States Ambassador to the Philippine Islands and Chief Public Health Service Representative for the Far Eastern Area, Office of the Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service.

Nominations are now closed. We're running out of newsprint.

NEW YORK.—Goddard Lieberson, the Columbia Records official, is one of Arturo Toscanini's close friends, and tells this story of the maestro's current visit to Italy: "When Toscanini rehearses his NBC Orchestra, he frequently mutters to his musicians, 'Vergonia. Vergonia.' It means 'Shame on you' . . . When Toscanini recently rehearsed the Italian orchestra he was to conduct, he muttered to the musicians, 'Shame on you. Shame on you.' It means 'Vergonia.'"

Anton Hofmann, who is being graduated magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa at Harvard this week, is the son of Pianist Josef Hofmann.

George Bishop, the drama critic for the London Daily Telegraph, was in Sardi's one night, and told of the time he introduced G. B. Shaw to Marc Connelly and Robert E. Sherwood. Connelly, who had just arrived in England, said he was anxious to meet Shaw. Bishop immediately telephoned Shaw, who invited them to come to his house for lunch the next day . . . A few hours before the scheduled luncheon, Shaw telephoned Mrs. Bishop and said that he'd be late for the luncheon. "You know those British introductions, where the names are muttered," Shaw explained. "I'm sure that's what will happen when I meet them. Would you please tell me about Mr. Connelly and Mr. Sherwood and describe them—so I'll know which is which?"

Howard Hughes' long-awaited visit to the RKO studios he purchased was made at 2 a. m. He went from office to office, with guides who described each occupant and his work in progress . . . The newspaperman who was knocked down in Toots Shor's private dining room, after the American War Correspondents Association dinner to General Eisenhowever, received a journalism prize in that same room 7 hours earlier . . . George K. Arthur, the silent film star, will retire to a pineapple-and-coconut place he bought in Elutheria, an island near Nassau . . . Nassau, incidentally, expects to have a film festival similar to Cannes' next Easter.

Tony Farrell, who bought the Hollywood Theater this week for $1,500,000 to house the musical comedy he produced, "Hold It!," last night discussed his unprecedented entry into the American theater. Farrell spent a quarter of a million dollars to produce the musical, his first show. "I'm in the theater for profit," said the producer, who has been losing $10,000 a week with the show. He bought the Hollywood Theater because he felt the Shuberts had been mistreating him. "I'm not crazy," said Farrell. "The theater intrigues me" . . . The Hollywood cost over two million dollars to build, in 1932. An official of the company which sold it to Farrell said last night, "We checked on Farrell. He made his money himself."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Tax Plan Lets Rich Inherit Earth

By Drew Pearson

The declining years of the duPonts, the Rockefellers, the Morgans and the Astors will be made considerably brighter by several loopholes tucked away in the new "technical" tax bill which Congressman Harold Knutson, Republican of Minnesota, is obligingly reporting out of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Pearson

He has carefully called this a "technical tax-revision" bill which gives the general impression that it merely rounds off a few rough edges of the tax law. The edges it rounds off, however, cut down the estate and gift taxes so as to benefit the wealthiest families in the United States.

Most people don't realize that the earlier tax bill, passed over President Truman's veto, carried a little-noticed provision reducing estate and gift taxes by a rough average of 30 per cent. By reason of estate-tax exemptions of $60,000, this relief goes only to the Nation's wealthiest families.

This, however, has merely whetted the appetites of the tax-lawyer lobbyists. They are now out to get more for their wealthy clients, and their good friend Congressman Knutson has generously fixed up another bill—H. R. 6712—by which anyone with a good tax lawyer could pass on to his family the nice little bonanza of between one million dollars and two million dollars without any death or gift taxes whatsoever.

This would reduce gift and inheritance taxes. And while reducing gift and inheritance taxes for the wealthy, millions of low-income taxpayers continue to pay 8 to 10 times as much in income taxes as before the war.

Note—The two tax lobbyists who sneaked this across with their willing friend Knutson were Roswell Magill, the Wall Street tax lawyer, and William Sutherland, tax expert of the American Bar Association.

Water Row

If it hadn't been for the big New Deal power dams built in the Northwest, atomic energy at Hanford, Wash., and aluminum and aircraft plants in that area would have been impossible. Furthermore, without these dams, which held some water back, the Oregon flood would have been far worse.

However, the utility-big rancher interests of the West Coast have ganged up on the Reclamation Bureau to kill both the distribution of Government power and the 160-acre limitation on reclamation land. The power companies don't want the Government to distribute any more power, and the big ranchers want to acquire more than 160 acres of reclamation land.

Congress hasn't been willing to lift this 160-acre limit, so now a rider has been attached to the Interior Department appropriation bill which would knock Mike Strauss out of his job as Reclamation commissioner, also Richard Boke as California regional director. These gentlemen, it's claimed, have administered the law too strictly.

Latest congressional committee to probe the beleaguered Reclamation Bureau is headed by Representative Forrest Harness of Kokomo, Ind., Republican. When his probe first started, Secretary of the Interior Krug phoned, offering to testify. So did Reclamation Commissioner Strauss. Nothing happened. The gentleman from Kokomo heard all the hostile witnesses he could lay hands on, but not the Reclamation Bureau. He even prepared a report—without giving the two executives in charge of reclamation a chance to present their case.

Finally, last week, Secretary Krug got in touch with the gentleman from Indiana again, hinted that the fair and democratic way of arriving at the truth was to hear both sides, said he was anxious to testify. The Congressman replied that he wasn't ready, wouldn't be ready for some time—in fact, not until after Krug was leaving for the West to join President Truman.

Meanwhile, a power lobbyist sat almost at Congressman Harness' elbow during the hearings at which Krug and Strauss were not permitted to testify—the Harness way of making democracy live.

Excuses

Excuses are the means by which . . . We satisfy our souls . . . While we are wasting time on earth . . . Or striving for our goals . . . They are a kind of cover-up . . . For laziness and play . . . When we are not concerned about . . . The hour of the day . . . But also they enable us . . . To keep away from fun . . . When we are serious about . . . A job that should be done . . . They are the explanations that . . . Are either strong or weak . . . According to our actions or . . . The sentences we speak . . . Excuses save embarrassments . . . And help to make amends . . . For all the little hurts that try . . . To interfere with friends.

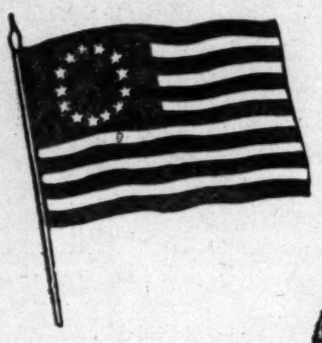
The Grand Union Flag, first symbol of the United Colonies, was hoisted over the first American Navy by John Paul Jones, Dec. 3, 1775, and was unfurled at Washington's headquarters, Jan. 1, 1776.

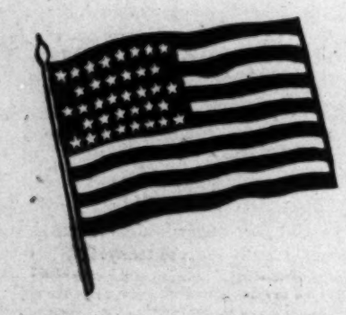


The first Stars and Stripes, as made by Betsy Ross, was adopted by Congress as the official American Flag on June 15, 1777 . . . Thirteen Stripes, alternate red and white, and thirteen stars on a field of blue." Under its proud folds, the Colonies won their fight for freedom and independence, and George Washington was inaugurated as the first President.

The Bennington Flag, beneath whose folds Col. Stark won the battle that proved to be the turning point of the Revolutionary War. The original flag differs from the Betsy Ross flag in the arrangement of its stars and stripes. It is preserved in the Historical Museum at Bennington, Vermont, the oldest United States flag in existence today.

The Fort McHenry Flag, as authorized by Congress on Jan. 13, 1794, had fifteen stars and fifteen stripes, thus honoring Vermont's entry into the Union in 1791 and Kentucky in 1792. It was the thrilling sight of this flag during the bombardment of Ft. McHenry, Sept. 13-14, 1814, that inspired Francis Scott Key to compose the immortal lines of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Twenty stars graced the constellation of our flag in the days when river steamboats began navigating the Ohio and Mississippi. Five new states had been added: Tennessee, 1796; Ohio, 1802; Louisiana, 1812; Indiana, 1816; Mississippi, 1817; Congress voted to return to the original thirteen stripes with a new star for each new state.



1864 . . . "Remember the Alamo" and the Civil War were outstanding events in this period of our flag's history. Sixteen new stars were added for new states in the following order: Illinois, 1818; Alabama, 1819; Maine, 1820; Missouri, 1821; Arkansas, 1836; Michigan, 1837; Florida, 1845; Texas, 1845; Iowa, 1846; Wisconsin, 1848; California, 1850; Minnesota, 1858; Oregon, 1859; Kansas, 1861; Nevada, 1861; West Virginia, 1863.

The last of America's frontiers disappeared and her glorious flag reached its present form in 1912 when New Mexico and Arizona became the 47th and 48th states. Prior to that Nebraska was admitted in 1867, Colorado in 1876. North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington in 1889, Idaho and Wyoming in 1890, Utah in 1896 and Oklahoma in 1907.

The Story of Our Flag . . .

From the day in 1775 when John Paul Jones hoisted the first Grand Union flag over the first American Navy until today, our Flag has been known the world over as the symbol of liberty and freedom.

Today (June 14) is Flag Day . . . On June 14th, 1777, the Stars and Stripes, painstakingly sewn by Betsy Ross, was adopted as the official flag by Congress.

Honor the Flag . . . Unfurl it proudly . . . salute it sincerely . . . gaze upon it reverently . . . as the emblem of everything we hold dear . . . the emblem of the United States of America.
